Palsy Drive Brings Nearly $1,500

Approximately $1,500 was contributed toward the Cerebral Palsy financial campaign, which is now underway, in the house-to-house canvass held in this city Thursday evening, Hubert A. Richter, city chairman, announced today. The committee expressed its appreciation to the fraternal, civic and veterans' organizations and the individuals who helped in the canvass. The Freeman also was thanked for the amount and prominence of the publicity given in the current campaign. Among those who helped contribute to the success of the drive are, left to right above, Stanley Lawrence, driver of the Forty and Eight engine; Richter (holding Billy Krom), Kathleen Coughlin, Diana Wong, Mrs. Charlotte Peck, director of the cerebral palsey clinic, and behind her Anthony Alecca and Nason Waters, mechanic. (Freeman photo)

Mundt Asks Britain Give Ships Reply

Senator Says Answer Better Not Be So What —Would Like Report 'Under Oath'

Washington, May 22 (AP) — Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said today "Britain owes the free world a reply" to testimony that British-owned ships have transported Chinese Communist troops during the Korean war.

"I am not inclined to wait too long for them to volunteer it," Mundt added in an interview, "and the answer had better not be 'yes, so what?'"

Mundt is a member of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). A staff investigator told the group Wednesday that British-owned ships of the Wheelock Marden Co. of Hong Kong carried Chinese Communist troops on two occasions during the Korean war. The investigator, Robert Kennedy, said there may have been other instances.

Denies Carrying Troops

At Hong Kong F. H. Horman-Fisher, the firm's manager, denied yesterday that Wheelock-Marden vessels carried troops for the Reds. He said three of the firm's vessels have been seized by the Communists and it no longer owns a fourth mentioned as engaged in the Communist trade.

Francis D. Flanagan, chief counsel to the subcommittee, said it would be glad to hear officials of the company "under oath" if they also would agree to produce complete records of the firm's operations.

Mundt, acting chairman of the subcommittee in McCarthy's absence said he will propose that the State Department demand comment by Prime Minister Churchill or the British Foreign Office if there is no official statement within "the respectably near future" on the troop carrying question.

McCarthy in Hospital

McCarthy, who has suggested that the U. S. Navy "sink every accursed ship" trading with the Reds, is in a hospital for a physical checkup.

His subcommittee has recessed until Monday or Tuesday its public inquiry into western trade with Communist areas.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said at a news conference the charge that British ships carried such troops is being investigated, but "sometimes it's rather difficult for us to comment on a report that unidentified ships of unknown tonnage carried unspecified numbers of so-called troops at a date not known between unstated ports."

The consul general of Panama in Hong Kong, Marion E. Guillen, said there that at least 18 ships formerly under Panamanian registry, many of them originally British owned, had fallen into Chinese Communist hands.

18 Fall to Communists

Hong Kong, May 22 (AP) — A Panamanian diplomat said today at least 18 ships formerly under Panama registry have fallen into Chinese Communist hands. Many, he said, were owned originally by British companies.

Mario E. Guillen, Panama consul general of Hong Kong, said Panama registry of 12 of the ships was canceled July 28, 1952, after they were known to be in Chinese Communist hands. He said registry of six others was canceled later after the ships were seized or stolen by the Reds.

A U. S. Senate subcommittee this week charged British companies with operating in the China trade and transporting Red troops. The companies, all Panama subsidiaries, denied the charges.

Wiley Suggests Bi-Partisan Angle

Washington, May 22 (AP) — Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) proposed today that President Eisenhower temper possible congressional criticism of Big Three conference decisions by taking along representatives of both parties.

Eisenhower will be under pressure from lawmakers on several vital issues to be discussed with Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain and whoever is French premier at the time of the mid-June meeting, probably to be held in Bermuda.

Wiley, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he believes the presence of a Republican and a Democratic congressional leader as conference observers "might help give Congress a better understanding of the problems faced by our allies."

Mistrial Declared In Damage Cases At Heated Session

Justice Deckelman Gives Decision Based on New York Lawyer's Statement

Justice William Deckelman declared a mistrial Thursday afternoon in several companion actions in Supreme Court here brought as a result of an automobile accident in which Max Leventhal of the Bronx was fatally injured.

The motion for the mistrial was made by Attorneys Arthur B. Ewig and John M. Cashin, representing Joseph Avis as defendant in two of the suits, on the basis of a statement made by Robert J. Keegan, Jr., New York attorney representing Dora Leventhal as executrix of her husband, Max Leventhal, deceased.

Arguments on the motion, heard in the absence of the jury, grew vehement at times, and after the motion was granted exploded into verbal fireworks with County Judge Cashin, practicing in Supreme Court as a private attorney, and Keegan on opposing sides.

Trooper Testifies

Edward J. Devine, who as a state trooper had investigated the September 4, 1950, accident at West Park in which Leventhal was fatally injured, was on the witness stand when the motion was first made during the morning session.

Attorney Keegan asked Devine if he had testified under oath at a medical examiner's inquest in Poughkeepsie, to which Devine replied in the affirmative. Keegan then asked if Joseph Bua, one of the parties to action, had so testified, and Devine replied that he was not aware of it.

Keegan's Statement

Keegan then said, "And Avis was there and refused to testify, ..." Before Devine was able to answer, Cashin and Ewig jumped to their feet and moved for the mistrial on the basis that the statement was prejudicial to their client, Avis.

At the time, Justice Deckelman reserved decision, and further testimony was taken.

When court convened after luncheon recess, Ewig renewed the motion and pressed for a decision.

The jury was told to withdraw into the jury room and arguments on the motion were heard by the judge.

Judge Cashin said it was the first time in his life, that he remembers, that he ever asked for a mistrial.

Air Force Sees Danger in Cuts

Report Is Released by Democrat, Entered in Record

Washington, May 22 (AP)—The air force, ending public silence on heavy budget reductions, was quoted as saying President Eisenhower's new 120-wing goal would cut air power well below the "absolute minimum" for national security.

An air force report on the effect of cuts—totalling five billion dollars in the service's budget for the year starting July 1—was inserted in the Congressional Record yesterday by Rep. Yorty (D.-Calif.). He did not say where in the air force he got the report.

But in an accompanying statement, Yorty declared:

"Alleged friends of adequate defense . . . are preparing to sacrifice air power on the altar of irresponsible political promises."

The report, which Yorty said was supplied at his request, appeared to herald a strong fight in Congress to restore some of the cuts proposed in air force spending and new appropriations for next year.

Senator Sends Questions

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R.-Me.), meanwhile, sent Secretary of Defense Wilson a "show me" set of 32 critical questions aimed at the administration proposal to trim air force funds. There was no immediate reply from Wilson, who was out of the capital.

Mrs. Smith said Congress will not agree to the proposed cutback unless Wilson can answer such questions as:

"How can you cut more than five billion dollars from the air force appropriations, cut back the

Bid Covers Three Fronts and Doubts Good Unless Soviets Call Off Wars

New Delhi, India, May 22 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of States Dulles called on the Russians today to show the sincerity of their peace overtures on three fronts—Korea, Laos and Austria.

As Dulles' boss, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and the French government prepared for a big three meeting on east-west questions next month in Bermuda, Dulles told the first press conference of his Middle East tour:

"I doubt very important results could come out of any high level conference including the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc of nations is promoting the wars in Korea and Laos, and so long as they refuse to restore freedom to xxx Austria."

(The invasion of the French-backed Indochinese kingdom of Laos by the Communist-led Vietminth rebels ended this week when the last major Red units pulled into coastal Viet Nam. In the preceding five weeks the Reds had gained control of about one-third of Laos' 91,405 square miles without a major battle.

Betz Designed New Field House

Gerard Betz, architect, with offices at 284 Wall street, was the architect for the new Kate Walton Field House on the Kingston High School property, Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, said today.

It was erroneously stated in an article on the new field house on Thursday that Harry Halverson was the architect.

Other information about the field house was obtained by a reporter from Laidlaw, who said today that during the interview "the architect's name was never mentioned." Laidlaw attributed the error to the fact that Halverson's name, as well as Betz', is often closely associated with school building work.

The Freeman reporter who wrote the story said today he asked whether Halverson was the architect and that Laidlaw replied affirmatively. The reporter said his notes confirm this.

Betz also was the architect for the vocational building and the high school cafeteria.

The Kate Walton Field House will be opened officially June 4 with a dinner in the high school cafeteria in the evening, followed by an inspection tour of the field house and other buildings in the school system.

Must Close Rank Before Big 4 Talks

Western Difficulties Are Highlighted by Mayer Collapse in France on Fiscal Policy

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Big Three leaders meeting next month face a critical test of their ability to forge new allied unity for firm dealing with Russia—in or out of a conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

Unless they can close ranks, some observers here doubt that they would dare undertake subsequent Big Four negotiations and give Russia an opportunity to try to exploit their differences.

Presumably they will also have to decide on what terms they might be able to do business with Malenkov—what they could offer and what they could request in the event of a Big Four conference.

That the western alliance is beset by difficulties and differences became apparent all over again yesterday.

Hardly had the announcement been made that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Mayer would meet about mid-June, probably in Bermuda, when Mayer's government collapsed.

18th French Cabinet

His was the 18th French Cabinet since World War 2 liberation. Some time, diplomatically speaking, will now be lost while France puts together a new cabinet—time which might have been used in working up an agenda for the conference and carrying on preliminary diplomacy.

In the very announcements about the conference, differing views became clearly apparent. Mayer said the three would discuss the feasibility of a session with Malenkov, and Churchill said he hoped the meeting would pave the way to such a session.

But in Washington the White House steadfastly declined to link the meeting of the three with a possible Big Four get-together. At the State Department all emphasis was placed on the chance that the western chiefs of government will have to develop greater unity among the western powers.

President Eisenhower took the initiative in suggesting the Big Three talk. The White House announcement said it would be an "informal highlevel meeting." Indications were that the President had developed the idea into a decision Wednesday with unusual speed.

The preliminary considerations have not been disclosed. But it is known responsible officials have been increasingly concerned that the western powers were pulling apart and that such a situation could benefit only Russia.

Says U. S. Is Anxious

London, May 22 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday the United States is "as anxious as we are" to bring Korean fighting to a quick end.

Churchill said that in his personal view it was a strategic mistake for the United Nations ever to have begun the often-stalled armistice talks at the time they did. Answering a series of questions on the eight-point proposals put forward by the Communists, Churchill said:

"I am sure the United States government is as anxious as we are to bring negotiations about prisoners to an early end, and earnestly desire an effective armistice."

He said the Reds have conceded the UN point of honor that there shall be no forced repatriation of prisoners, but "great practical problems" still remain.

Difficulties Raised

The Red suggestion that Poland and Czechoslovakia should send "powerful armed forces" to South Korea to watch over prisoners "raised obvious difficulties, in which South Korea's opinion could not be treated as negligible," Churchill declared, adding:

"I am sure that if the other side wished for a settlement they could have had it long ago. I thought it was a mistake, myself, for the United Nations to agree to the armistice at a time when Gen. Matthew Ridgway (the UN supreme commander) was about to gain further great successes.

"However, eighteen months have passed since then and this debate might be endless.

"We are doing our best to find reasonable means. Our allies are doing their best."

Five Persons Are Killed By Hard Northern Blow

Another Threat Builds Near Orange, Texas —2,000 Homeless

Lake Charles, La., May 22 (AP) —The crest was passing slowly on the raging Calcasieu river here today but waters that forced 2,000 families from homes were expected to hold a peak level for several hours.

The highest flood in 40 years in this southwest Louisiana city of 50,000 caused two million dollars property damage and cut the last highway link with the outside world.

There were no casualties here but elsewhere in Louisiana eight persons had drowned since rain-swollen rivers and bayous began flooding the state late last week.

Big Threat Builds

A big flood threat was building up at Orange, Tex., a city of about 50,000 population 35 miles southwest of here. The Sabine river, which divides Texas and

Scores Hurt, Damage Is in Millions in Michigan Area and Canada

Port Huron, Mich., May 22 (AP) —A tornado that ran wild over the Canadian border far to the north of accustomed haunts left in its hopscotch path today at least five dead, scores injured and damage in the millions.

The storm struck late yesterday with a force that lifted part of a freight train from its tracks.

Damage in Port Huron alone was estimated at a million dollars by City Manager J. F. Gibbs. It was estimated as high as three million dollars across the St. Clair river in the Canadian City of Sarnia. The twin cities have a population of about 35,000 each.

Of the known dead, one was in Port Huron, one in Sarnia, and three in Springbank, Ont., a crossroads 40 miles east of Sarnia.

Dig Into Debris

Rescue workers dug into the debris on both sides of the border in a search for additional victims.

Thirty-six persons were treated for injuries in Port Huron. Of the 12 hospitalized, five were

Three Appointed To Police Force; Stratton Leaves

Special Patrolmen, One Other Named; Board Defers Action to Increase Staff

Three men were appointed to the local police force yesterday, the resignation of a patrolman was accepted, and the police board deferred until June 11 the appointment of enough patrolmen to start the 40-hour work week.

Two now serving as special patrolmen, James J. Harbeck, of Murphy street, and Francis Loeffler, of 113 Fair street, will become regular members June 1, and the other man to go on duty with them then is Crawford G. Millham, of 289 Clifton avenue.

Harbeck and Loeffler are second and third men on the eligibility list, and Millham is fourth. All have veterans' credits.

Cop Since 1946

The board accepted the resignation of Patrolman Kenneth L. Stratton, of 81 Grand View avenue, who has been on the force since June 16, 1946. His resignation becomes effective as of midnight, May 31. No reason was given for the resignation.

Harbeck has served on the force as a special since May 29, 1951, and Loeffler since June 10, 1952.

The resignation of Stratton follows a loss to the department of other men. Sgt. James Cullum recently took a six months leave-of-absence, Patrolman Walter Fitzgerald resigned within the past few days and the force was cut down by the promotion of Sgt. William Messing to a lieutenancy, Grover Hoffay to sergeant and appointment of Frank Sammons as a detective.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren has estimated that about 15 men will be needed when the 40-hour week goes into effect.

The police board is scheduled to hold a special meeting June 11 to appoint the additional men. Their appointments will become effective June 26, and they will go on duty June 29 after a schedule of special schooling.

Dewey Charges Ambitions Hurt New York City Finances

New York, May 22 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has said "no" to a repeated demand for a special legislative session and he and Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri are embroiled in a new controversy over city-state fiscal relations.

Dewey, apparently taking note that a mayoralty election is coming up in the fall, charges that the city government is "paralyzed by indecision and conflicting political ambitions." The governor also accuses the mayor of "distortions and misrepresentations" of the Dewey-sponsored legislative program for city finances.

Impellitteri and city Comptroller Lazarus Joseph, potential candidates for mayor in November, both have appealed to Dewey for a special session of the Legislature to consider changes in the city financial program.

The new flareup began yesterday when the text of a letter from the Democratic mayor to Dewey was released at city hall.

The 2,000-word letter, following up the mayor's pressure for a legislative session, offered a rebuttal to last week's report by five advisers to Dewey which urged denial of the request.

The mayor repeated that the city sought the session "to correct certain inequities in the provisions of various laws adopted at the close of the regular session affecting the fiscal affairs of this city." Impellitteri said Dewey's advisers, headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, "confused the basic issues" presented in the mayor's May 5 letter to the governor.

One of the specific requests that Impellitteri repeated was for revision of the law authorizing creation of the city transit authority. Impellitteri and Joseph have objected to various aspects of the legislation for the transit authority which—if given final sanction by the city—is expected to raise the 10-cent fare.

The mayor complained also on other issues, including city taxing and borrowing powers and welfare reimbursements from the state.

In a statement issued in Albany last night a few hours after release of Impellitteri's letter, Dewey defended the financial analysis and report made by the advisory committee headed by Moore.

The governor called the mayor's letter of yesterday "merely another summary of the distortions and misrepresentations previously made in a monotonous effort to blame the state for the grave mismanagement of the affairs of the city by its elected officials."

Dewey said of the Moore Committee: "They have reported that the assertions by the mayor and other city officials are without merit and that no useful purpose would be served by their consideration at a special session of the Legislature."

Concurring in the views of the Moore group, the governor said he regretted that the "city officials think it profitable to continue the endless repetition, the same baseless claims and requests for a special session * * *."

Living Costs Show Gain in 2 Months

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Living costs, as measured by the government, edged up slightly between mid-March and mid-April.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that its consumer's price index advanced one-tenth of one per cent during the month. Retail foods costs declined a bit but other consumer costs rose slightly.

The index at mid-April was 113.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average this means, roughly, that purchases costing about a dollar five years ago cost nearly $1.14.

Living costs now are near the peak set last november when the index was 114.3. The mid-April figure was about one-half of one per cent under the November record.

Flood Threatens Residences in Louisiana City

As flood water of the Calcasieu river continues to rise, residents of Lake Charles, La., pack sandbags around their homes in an effort to keep out the water. On May 21 water in some spots was waist deep.

Democrats Refuse Any Hint They'll Back Tax Extension

Washington, May 22 (AP)—House Democratic leaders today shied away from even a hint of support for President Eisenhower's request to extend the excess profits tax on business for six months.

If the proposal gets out of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said a leading Democratic member who asked not to be named, reluctant Republicans will have to provide most of the votes.

"The time has come for us to quit pulling the President's chestnuts out of the fire," he said. "Republican committee members will have to carry the ball on this one."

Several other Democrats on the committee privately took this stand after a caucus late yesterday with Democratic leader Rayburn of Texas and other party strategists.

Their attitude was significant. Republicans had counted on support from probably eight of the 10 Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee for extension of the profits tax, now due to expire June 30. Without such support, there was no assurance of enough votes to clear the bill.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey raised a new storm cloud on the horizon by refusing to rule out the possibility that the administration will seek a national sales tax in a tax revision program promised next year.

Asked specifically whether the Treasury was considering a sales tax proposal, Humphrey told a

Bid Covers Three Fronts and Doubts Good Unless Soviets Call Off Wars

New Delhi, India, May 22 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of States Dulles called on the Russians today to show the sincerity of their peace overtures on three fronts—Korea, Laos and Austria.

As Dulles' boss, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and the French government prepared for a big three meeting on east-west questions next month in Bermuda, Dulles told the first press conference of his Middle East tour:

"I doubt very important results could come out of any high level conference including the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc of nations is promoting the wars in Korea and Laos, and so long as they refuse to restore freedom to xxx Austria."

(The invasion of the French-backed Indochinese kingdom of Laos by the Communist-led Vietminth rebels ended this week when the last major Red units pulled into coastal Viet Nam. In the preceding five weeks the Reds had gained control of about one-third of Laos' 91,405 square miles without a major battle.

Betz Designed New Field House

Gerard Betz, architect, with offices at 284 Wall street, was the architect for the new Kate Walton Field House on the Kingston High School property, Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, said today.

It was erroneously stated in an article on the new field house on Thursday that Harry Halverson was the architect.

Other information about the field house was obtained by a reporter from Laidlaw, who said today that during the interview "the architect's name was never mentioned." Laidlaw attributed the error to the fact that Halverson's name, as well as Betz', is often closely associated with school building work.

The Freeman reporter who wrote the story said today he asked whether Halverson was the architect and that Laidlaw replied affirmatively. The reporter said his notes confirm this.

Betz also was the architect for the vocational building and the high school cafeteria.

The Kate Walton Field House will be opened officially June 4 with a dinner in the high school cafeteria in the evening, followed by an inspection tour of the field house and other buildings in the school system.

Five Persons Are Killed By Hard Northern Blow

Another Threat Builds Near Orange, Texas —2,000 Homeless

Lake Charles, La., May 22 (AP) —The crest was passing slowly on the raging Calcasieu river here today but waters that forced 2,000 families from homes were expected to hold a peak level for several hours.

The highest flood in 40 years in this southwest Louisiana city of 50,000 caused two million dollars property damage and cut the last highway link with the outside world.

There were no casualties here but elsewhere in Louisiana eight persons had drowned since rain-swollen rivers and bayous began flooding the state late last week.

Big Threat Builds

A big flood threat was building up at Orange, Tex., a city of about 50,000 population 35 miles southwest of here. The Sabine river, which divides Texas and

Scores Hurt, Damage Is in Millions in Michigan Area and Canada

Port Huron, Mich., May 22 (AP) —A tornado that ran wild over the Canadian border far to the north of accustomed haunts left in its hopscotch path today at least five dead, scores injured and damage in the millions.

The storm struck late yesterday with a force that lifted part of a freight train from its tracks.

Damage in Port Huron alone was estimated at a million dollars by City Manager J. F. Gibbs. It was estimated as high as three million dollars across the St. Clair river in the Canadian City of Sarnia. The twin cities have a population of about 35,000 each.

Of the known dead, one was in Port Huron, one in Sarnia, and three in Springbank, Ont., a crossroads 40 miles east of Sarnia.

Dig Into Debris

Rescue workers dug into the debris on both sides of the border in a search for additional victims.

Thirty-six persons were treated for injuries in Port Huron. Of the 12 hospitalized, five were

Special Patrolmen, One Other Named; Board Defers Action to Increase Staff

Three men were appointed to the local police force yesterday, the resignation of a patrolman was accepted, and the police board deferred until June 11 the appointment of enough patrolmen to start the 40-hour work week.

Two now serving as special patrolmen, James J. Harbeck, of Murphy street, and Francis Loeffler, of 113 Fair street, will become regular members June 1, and the other man to go on duty with them then is Crawford G. Millham, of 289 Clifton avenue.

Harbeck and Loeffler are second and third men on the eligibility list, and Millham is fourth. All have veterans' credits.

Cop Since 1946

The board accepted the resignation of Patrolman Kenneth L. Stratton, of 81 Grand View avenue, who has been on the force since June 16, 1946. His resignation becomes effective as of midnight, May 31. No reason was given for the resignation.

Harbeck has served on the force as a special since May 29, 1951, and Loeffler since June 10, 1952.

The resignation of Stratton follows a loss to the department of other men. Sgt. James Cullum recently took a six months leave-of-absence, Patrolman Walter Fitzgerald resigned within the past few days and the force was cut down by the promotion of Sgt. William Messing to a lieutenancy, Grover Hoffay to sergeant and appointment of Frank Sammons as a detective.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren has estimated that about 15 men will be needed when the 40-hour week goes into effect.

The police board is scheduled to hold a special meeting June 11 to appoint the additional men. Their appointments will become effective June 26, and they will go on duty June 29 after a schedule of special schooling.

Dewey Charges Ambitions Hurt New York City Finances

New York, May 22 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has said "no" to a repeated demand for a special legislative session and he and Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri are embroiled in a new controversy over city-state fiscal relations.

Dewey, apparently taking note that a mayoralty election is coming up in the fall, charges that the city government is "paralyzed by indecision and conflicting political ambitions." The governor also accuses the mayor of "distortions and misrepresentations" of the Dewey-sponsored legislative program for city finances.

Impellitteri and city Comptroller Lazarus Joseph, potential candidates for mayor in November, both have appealed to Dewey for a special session of the Legislature to consider changes in the city financial program.

The new flareup began yesterday when the text of a letter from the Democratic mayor to Dewey was released at city hall.

The 2,000-word letter, following up the mayor's pressure for a legislative session, offered a rebuttal to last week's report by five advisers to Dewey which urged denial of the request.

The mayor repeated that the city sought the session "to correct certain inequities in the provisions of various laws adopted at the close of the regular session affecting the fiscal affairs of this city." Impellitteri said Dewey's advisers, headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, "confused the basic issues" presented in the mayor's May 5 letter to the governor.

One of the specific requests that Impellitteri repeated was for revision of the law authorizing creation of the city transit authority. Impellitteri and Joseph have objected to various aspects of the legislation for the transit authority which—if given final sanction by the city—is expected to raise the 10-cent fare.

The mayor complained also on other issues, including city taxing and borrowing powers and welfare reimbursements from the state.

In a statement issued in Albany last night a few hours after release of Impellitteri's letter, Dewey defended the financial analysis and report made by the advisory committee headed by Moore.

The governor called the mayor's letter of yesterday "merely another summary of the distortions and misrepresentations previously made in a monotonous effort to blame the state for the grave mismanagement of the affairs of the city by its elected officials."

Dewey said of the Moore Committee: "They have reported that the assertions by the mayor and other city officials are without merit and that no useful purpose would be served by their consideration at a special session of the Legislature."

Concurring in the views of the Moore group, the governor said he regretted that the "city officials think it profitable to continue the endless repetition, the same baseless claims and requests for a special session * * *."

Living Costs Show Gain in 2 Months

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Living costs, as measured by the government, edged up slightly between mid-March and mid-April.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that its consumer's price index advanced one-tenth of one per cent during the month. Retail foods costs declined a bit but other consumer costs rose slightly.

The index at mid-April was 113.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average this means, roughly, that purchases costing about a dollar five years ago cost nearly $1.14.

Living costs now are near the peak set last november when the index was 114.3. The mid-April figure was about one-half of one per cent under the November record.

Democrats Refuse Any Hint They'll Back Tax Extension

Washington, May 22 (AP)—House Democratic leaders today shied away from even a hint of support for President Eisenhower's request to extend the excess profits tax on business for six months.

If the proposal gets out of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said a leading Democratic member who asked not to be named, reluctant Republicans will have to provide most of the votes.

"The time has come for us to quit pulling the President's chestnuts out of the fire," he said. "Republican committee members will have to carry the ball on this one."

Several other Democrats on the committee privately took this stand after a caucus late yesterday with Democratic leader Rayburn of Texas and other party strategists.

Their attitude was significant. Republicans had counted on support from probably eight of the 10 Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee for extension of the profits tax, now due to expire June 30. Without such support, there was no assurance of enough votes to clear the bill.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey raised a new storm cloud on the horizon by refusing to rule out the possibility that the administration will seek a national sales tax in a tax revision program promised next year.

Asked specifically whether the Treasury was considering a sales tax proposal, Humphrey told a

Board Votes to Try Meters for One Year

New Paltz, May 21—The village board voted at a meeting May 14 to try parking meters in the village for one year. Henry DuBois cast the only opposing vote.

The vote came in special session immediately following a public hearing on the question.

The concensus of opinion of those against the meters was that they were no longer needed to help control traffic since the new one hour parking limit is being well enforced and that they would constitute a petty nuisance; also, that the revenue gained would not cause a reduction in taxes and might drive customers to trade elsewhere at stores which provide free parking facilities. Speaking against the meters were David Corwin, Peter Harp, Jesse Pilch, Harold Wood, Herman Glanz, Alvin Beatty and Miss Mildred Radley.

Those favoring parking meters felt that traffic on Main street could still be improved, New Paltz could use the revenue and other communities had tried meters successfully without undue irritation to citizens.

The Chamber of Commerce conducted a recent poll on parking meters and the voting was 176 in favor and 159 opposed. Speaking in favor of the meters were Dr. Beattie, the Rev. Wullschleger, Albert Kerr, Donald Allen, Norman Baker and Mrs. Reid.

Mayor Robert Reid said that the Miller-Meters, manufactured by the Chicago firm of Duncan Meter Corp. would install the meters. They will get one half of the revenue and at the end of the year if the meters are to be removed the firm will do so at its own expense. The parking meters will be placed on Main street from Dearnley's Drug Store to Wurts avenue, a few on Wurts avenue, some on North and South Chestnut streets and some on Plattekill avenue by the Huguenot Bank. None will be placed on Church or North Front according to present plans.

Paltz Swimming Pool Chairman Resigns

New Paltz, May 21—The swimming pool chairman, Dr. Jack Cotton, has sent a letter of resignation to Mayor Reid. Dr. Cotton said that he was interested but did not have the time to do the job properly.

Mayor Reid said that a chairman would not be named until the next board meeting. The question of a swimming place for New Paltz has been of interest since the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday, May 12, when the subject of the old reservoir on Mountain Rest road came up for discussion.

When the new water supply is used the old reservoir will not be needed. There are 65 acres with ample cleared space for parking and a grove of fir trees ideal for picnic area. Dr. Cotton said he observed the water supply there during a dry spell and found it not to be as good as a place on the north of the village within the limits. This pond within the village would also make it more accessible to all New Paltzers, he said.

Jesse Pilch pointed out that the village already owned the reservoir and the other property would have to be bought. Pilch said that if the reservoir were to be sold to a private party it might be developed into a tourist place and the citizens of New Paltz would lose the opportunity of using it.

It was thought by some that the chlorinator was located at the reservoir also and would purify the water for safe swimming but Mayor Reid said the chlorinator is not located there. It is at the point where the New Paltz pumping station cuts in on the New York aqueduct. He said that the property could be used if there were funds for fixing and operating.

Edward Huben Speaks To Village Chamber

New Paltz, May 21 — Edward Huben of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co. was guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce meeting May 12 He spoke on a publicity program for New Paltz.

Huben said New Paltz had much to offer a traveling public and new homeseekers. He said a publicity campaign should be conducted. As a site for industry it also should be able to attract high caliber business he felt, pointing out that the trend was for business to de-centralize and get away from big cities. Good roads for trucking were also advantageous, he said. The new Thruway with an exit at New Paltz will bring a change in the area which will be for the good of the locality, he stated.

Huben emphatically stated that a community with the cultural background such as New Paltz had should definitely attract desirable enterprises. He offered his help and the aid of his company in conducting a publicity program.

The Chamber appointed a committee to begin work on a brochure to be distributed and to begin research by this committee for a program such as Huben suggested. Serving with Thomas McKinney, chairman, will be Gregory Rheude and Al Weisz.

The Chamber now has 55 paid-up members and applications continue to come in. The second Tuesday of the month is the regular meeting date. Next meeting is June 9.

Mrs. Bogert Elected Head of Kerk League

New Paltz, May 21 — Mrs. George Bogert was elected president of the Kerk League at the regular monthly meeting May 12 at the home of Mrs. Merrill Archard. Mrs. Richard Ordway is the new vice-president, Mrs. James Nielsen, secretary, and Mrs. Richard Fall, treasurer.

The retiring president, Mrs. David Corwin, was commended in the church bulletin by the Rev. Mr. Wullschleger for her consecrated and tactful leadership which brought the Kerk League into the integrated activities of the Reformed Church.

Committees reporting at the May meeting were the newspaper committee, Mrs. Richard Redfern, who said three more members had offered their help with the work; Mrs. Kenneth Hasbrouck, Stone House day workers, reported that the league's part would be to provide light refreshments. August 29 is the date. The stove committee has had the Cornell Home Service advice on the subject of new electric units for the church kitchen. Institutional type stoves were suggested and it is hoped that they will be purchased soon.

The Kerk League does not meet during the summer months. The last meeting will be the annual picnic on June 9 at 6 p. m. The picnic will be held on the church grounds and members and their families are invited.

Legion Will Sponsor Exposition July 6-11

New Paltz, May 21—Plans are nearing completion for the second annual industrial exposition and carnival to be held July 6-11, sponsored by Post 176, American Legion.

The exposition will be held under a large tent. Those who desire display space within the tent are asked to contact Ray Coats or John Ashton, Jr., as soon as possible.

The following merchants have been assigned space: Clintondale Supply, Elliot's Garage, GLF, J. E. Hasbrouck Co., Inc., Henry's Electrical Shop, Lawrence's Service Station, A. P. Le Fevre and Son, Hasbrouck Florist, New Paltz Lumber Co., Port Ewen Garage and Jansen's Super Service, Arthur Pritchet, Relyea Outboard Sales and Service and Ulster Appliance.

Why We Say--

Are They Smart

This purely American term for someone who appears to be above the average social strata is the result of a mistaken idea about the human head. It was believed that a person with a high forehead (brow) was more intelligent than other people because of more brain capacity. However, scientists have exploded this as being untrue.

12 Churches Sign For Fall Christian Teaching Mission

Further plans for the Christian Teaching Mission to be held in this city September 23 through October 1 were developed at a breakfast meeting of ministers at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday.

Twelve churches have already signed to participate, and others are expected to follow, it was announced. Those already committed to the program are the Port Ewen Reformed, Bloomington Reformed, Old Dutch Reformed, Clinton Avenue Methodist, St. James Methodist, First Baptist, Trinity Methodist, Trinity Lutheran, Church of the Nazarene, First Presbyterian, Fair Street Reformed, and Reformed Church of the Comforter.

Chairmen Are Named

The First Baptist Church was named the demonstration church, and the Old Dutch Church was designated as headquarters for the mission.

George Mustaparta has been named census committee chairman, and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool is publicity chairman.

The program is a local church-centered project and includes a self-study by and for each participating church, a complete religious census of the community, a fellowship cultivation plan and an enlargement plan.

Because of the fact that each church's program will be taken up with project meetings each nigh during the mission, directors of the project have asked that each participating church clear its schedule for the week.

Ministers attending Wednesday's breakfast meeting included the Revs. Dr. William C. Cain, J. Dean Dykstra, David C. Gaise, William J. McVey, Ivan F. Gossoo, Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, Clyde H. Snell, Frederick Fike, Dr. Joseph E. Carlin, Harry E. Christiana, Marshall M. Smith, Forrest R. Prindle, Dr. Ralph M. Houston, Robert T. Shellenberger and Arthur E. Oudemool.

As a site for industry it also should be able to attract high caliber business he felt, pointing out that the trend was for business to de-centralize and get away from big cities. Good roads for trucking were also advantageous, he said. The new Thruway with an exit at New Paltz will bring a change in the area which will be for the good of the locality, he stated.

Huben emphatically stated that a community with the cultural background such as New Paltz had should definitely attract desirable enterprises. He offered his help and the aid of his company in conducting a publicity program.

The Chamber appointed a committee to begin work on a brochure to be distributed and to begin research by this committee for a program such as Huben suggested. Serving with Thomas McKinney, chairman, will be Gregory Rheude and Al Weisz.

The Chamber now has 55 paid-up members and applications continue to come in. The second Tuesday of the month is the regular meeting date. Next meeting is June 9.

Mrs. Bogert Elected Head of Kerk League

New Paltz, May 21 — Mrs. George Bogert was elected president of the Kerk League at the regular monthly meeting May 12 at the home of Mrs. Merrill Archard. Mrs. Richard Ordway is the new vice-president, Mrs. James Nielsen, secretary, and Mrs. Richard Fall, treasurer.

The retiring president, Mrs. David Corwin, was commended in the church bulletin by the Rev. Mr. Wullschleger for her consecrated and tactful leadership which brought the Kerk League into the integrated activities of the Reformed Church.

Committees reporting at the May meeting were the newspaper committee, Mrs. Richard Redfern, who said three more members had offered their help with the work; Mrs. Kenneth Hasbrouck, Stone House day workers, reported that the league's part would be to provide light refreshments. August 29 is the date. The stove committee has had the Cornell Home Service advice on the subject of new electric units for the church kitchen. Institutional type stoves were suggested and it is hoped that they will be purchased soon.

The Kerk League does not meet during the summer months. The last meeting will be the annual picnic on June 9 at 6 p. m. The picnic will be held on the church grounds and members and their families are invited.

Southern District Scout Leaders Meet

New Paltz, May 21—Leaders of the Southern District of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, held their annual dinner at the New Paltz Methodist Church on May 11.

The following were elected to office: Sidney Haas, chairman; Xan Green, vice chairman; Peter Rider, district commissioner; Dr. Robert Bull, safety; Kelly Campbell, finance; U. P. Decker, camping; John Vett, leadership; Larry Smith, organization and extension; Henry Whiting, advancement, and Decker, district representative.

Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Willett Porter of the Methodist Church.

Guest speakers were George V. Dennis, Scout Executive; Ray Quackenbush, chairman of the Council, and John Gaffney, supervisor of the Town of Lloyd.

The dinner was prepared and served by the ladies of the WSCS to some 50 persons attending.

Legion Will Sponsor Exposition July 6-11

New Paltz, May 21—Plans are nearing completion for the second annual industrial exposition and carnival to be held July 6-11, sponsored by Post 176, American Legion.

The exposition will be held under a large tent. Those who desire display space within the tent are asked to contact Ray Coats or John Ashton, Jr., as soon as possible.

The following merchants have been assigned space: Clintondale Supply, Elliot's Garage, GLF, J. E. Hasbrouck Co., Inc., Henry's Electrical Shop, Lawrence's Service Station, A. P. Le Fevre and Son, Hasbrouck Florist, New Paltz Lumber Co., Port Ewen Garage and Jansen's Super Service, Arthur Pritchet, Relyea Outboard Sales and Service and Ulster Appliance.

Why We Say--

Are They Smart

This purely American term for someone who appears to be above the average social strata is the result of a mistaken idea about the human head. It was believed that a person with a high forehead (brow) was more intelligent than other people because of more brain capacity. However, scientists have exploded this as being untrue.

12 Churches Sign For Fall Christian Teaching Mission

Further plans for the Christian Teaching Mission to be held in this city September 23 through October 1 were developed at a breakfast meeting of ministers at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday.

Twelve churches have already signed to participate, and others are expected to follow, it was announced. Those already committed to the program are the Port Ewen Reformed, Bloomington Reformed, Old Dutch Reformed, Clinton Avenue Methodist, St. James Methodist, First Baptist, Trinity Methodist, Trinity Lutheran, Church of the Nazarene, First Presbyterian, Fair Street Reformed, and Reformed Church of the Comforter.

Chairmen Are Named

The First Baptist Church was named the demonstration church, and the Old Dutch Church was designated as headquarters for the mission.

George Mustaparta has been named census committee chairman, and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool is publicity chairman.

The program is a local church-centered project and includes a self-study by and for each participating church, a complete religious census of the community, a fellowship cultivation plan and an enlargement plan.

Because of the fact that each church's program will be taken up with project meetings each nigh during the mission, directors of the project have asked that each participating church clear its schedule for the week.

School Boy Teaches

Portland, Ore., (AP) — A Portland teenager, Donald R. Ward, 17, teaches the use of percussion instruments — tympani, snare, base drums and the like—at the University of Portland in his spare time. He is a student at Benson Technical high school, majoring in machinery. Donald has been beating drums — including assignment with the Portland Symphony orchestra — since he was eight, and was teaching for five years before joining the university faculty. He also sings tenor, plays the flute and piano.

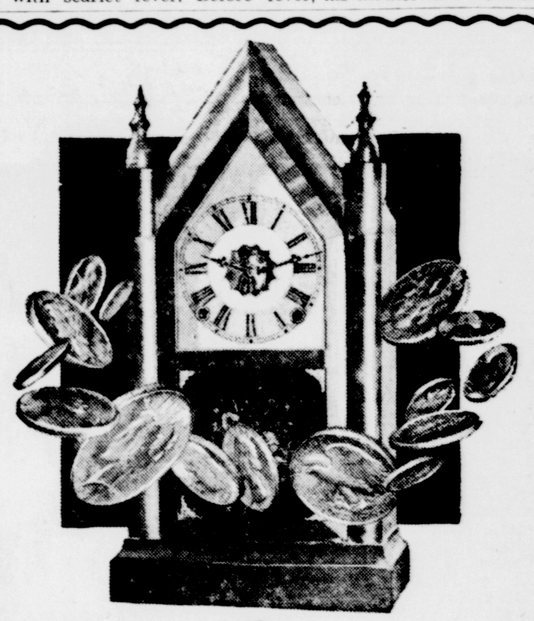
Norfolk, Neb., (AP)—Mrs. Donald Spiedel was a little more discouraged than most mothers when her 7-year-old son, Douglas, came down with scarlet fever. Before the scarlet fever Douglas had had mumps, and before that chickenpox, and before that influenza, with a week between each for a brief re-acquaintance with school. Besides that, by the time Douglas got around to scarlet fever, his mother had the mumps.



Time is Money

The time you spend on your job is money in your pay envelope. Like time, this money has a way of "flying" fast - - - from one pay day to the next. You can't make time stand still. But you can make some of your money stand still - - - in a savings account. Not only stand still, but GROW steadily via the interest it earns for you. Timely advice: start a savings account at once. Then deposit a definite amount of money every pay day - - - before it gets a chance to fly!

WALLKILL NEWS

Wallkill, May 22—On Saturday, May 16, Mrs. Hazzie Quick, familiary known as Fannie to her many friends, was pleasantly surprised on her birthday. Mrs. Quick was presented with a large birthday cake and a pair of earrings among other things in celebration of the day. Those celebrating were Mrs. Quick, her daughters the Misses Jean, Janet, and Olive Quick, Mrs. John Wolfe, Mrs. George Crist, Mrs. George Parliman, Mrs. Benjamin Kreiton, Mrs. Joseph Morris and her sons Jeffrey and Charles.

Rose-Sheeley Post 1034 of the American Legion of Wallkill and the ladies of the Legion auxiliary will be guests at the Sunday morning service at the Wallkill Reformed Church. The service begins at 11 a. m. Members of both the Legion and auxiliary will meet at 10:45 in front of the church. Each year at Memorial time the groups visit the church in a body. All members are urged to attend.

At a recent meeting of the Rose-Sheeley Post 1034 of the American Legion at Wallkill plans were made for the Memorial Day parade. A committee headed by Commander Malcolm VandeMark will make final arrangements. Another topic which came up for discussion was the annual Legion carnival. It was decided to set tentatively the dates of July 17 and July 18, Friday and Saturday, for the affair. Further plans and committees will be selected shortly.

Mrs. Aidah Billings of Pine Bush was a guest over the weekend at the home of her sister Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Caswell.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Britt of Poughkeepsie were guests on Saturday at the home of their sister Mrs. George Sohn.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Conklin were dinner guests on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Conklin's sister Mrs. George Sohn.

Mrs. Harry Morehouse, Miss Helen M. Van Wyck and Jeffrey and Charles Morris were guests on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Palen of New Hurley.

Mrs. George Rankin returned home on Sunday from St. Luke's Hospital with her infant daughter, Georgia Dell, born May 12.

Mrs. Joseph Kopf returned home with her daughter Jacqueline Joyce born May 3 at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. Mrs. Kopf is the former Joyce Taggert of Wallkill.

Church notes: Sunday school will convene at the Wallkill Reformed Church at 10 a. m. Sunday.

Regular morning worship services will be conducted by Merele W. Hoogheem, a student of New Brunswick Seminary, at 11 a. m. Guests at the services will be members of the Rose-Sheeley Post 1034 and their auxiliary in commemoration of Memorial Day. Mrs. Hubert Hendrie, organist will play for her prelude, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, and for the postlude will be Mendel's The Heavens are Declaring. The choir will sing appropriate Memorial Day anthems.

The Youth Fellowship group will meet at the church hall at 7:30 p. m. Choir rehearsal will be at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the church. Annual Children's Day Services will be held in the church by the Sunday school on Sunday, June 14, at 11 a. m. Miss Mary L. DuBois and Mrs. Helen M. Witherel are the committee in charge.

No Sellout Is Seen

London, May 22 (AP)—With only 11 days to go before coronation day, the signs are there'll be an estimated 2,000 or 3,000 empty seats along the procession route Queen Elizabeth II will take from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace. And the gaps in the crowd will be where they hurt most—in the stands and balconies set aside for American and other overseas visitors bringing foreign currency to Britain. Britons have been jostling in the ticket agency queues for months, but unless there's a last minute rush from abroad—unlikely because of transportation difficulties — the June 2 coronation will not be the sell-out the authorities hoped for months ago.

Marinate any leftover cooked snap beans in a French dressing for a few hours. For an extra taste fillip add finely chopped chives just before serving.

Plucks Political Plum

Joseph (Chipper) Tomaskovich, left, plucked one of the nation's choicest political plums—the Democratic nomination for tax collector of Franklin Boro, located in industrial western Pennsylvania. Nomination is equivalent to election to the post which pays almost $50,000 for about two hours work in the next four years. Bethlehem Steel Co. makes the job one of big pay for easy work. Its taxes on a local plant are collected once a year and taken to the bank for deposit—about a half hour's work each time. Charles Schry, a resident, congratulates him.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, May 21 — William "Bill" Carey of Poughkeepsie was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday. Bill says the busiest time of the year at his shop is during the apple season in Dutchess county.

Mrs. Michael Gorman of New York has been spending some time at the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmendorf.

Callers here Saturday included Keith Dewitt of Route 209. He is a son of Monroe Dewitt, one of the Rondout valley's antique dealers.

Charles Sickler is busy plowing gardens for residents of the twin villages.

Clyde Winchell and Bob Winnie on Monday drove to the Woodland Valley where they saw Lew Hallenbeck's new yoke of Devonshire oxen. This fine young pair of work cattle, so gentle that anyone can go in their tie-up, have horns with a spread of more than three feet which the proud owner keeps polished up and tipped with shiny brass knobs. The two local men also called on Richard Tasse who has the old VanWagonen farm at Willow. They found Dick cleaning the 100-ft. brick middle aisle of his big cow barn whilst a radio gave out popular music. The 50 head of milch cows were all out in pasture where the grass is off to an unusually good start for this time of the year.

Having a birthday Friday, May 22, is Esther Risely, well known Town of Shandaken woman and frequent caller in Shokan.

Donald DuBois' new shop will soon be ready for the roofers. The stone block structure with metal window sash is on filled-in ground near the western end of Temple's Pond.

Suicide Trouble

New Delhi (AP)—The Indian government is determined to stamp out "sati"—the practice of widows committing suicide by hurling themselves on their dead husbands' funeral pyres. Deputy Home Minister B. N. Datar told parliament "stringent instructions" had been issued to the state governments to control this once popular custom. During the last three years, he added, only five incidents of "sati" were reported.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Gone are all the outdoor amusements such as pop-corn stands, hot chestnuts and peanut stands with their particular little whistle. Also gone is the hurdy-gurdy man with the bowing little monkey with the little red hat. I don't care, television will never replace, for me, the old fashioned waltzes coming from the hurdy-gurdy hand winder, nor the funny little monkey who took my Indian heads, he was worth every penny I gave him, as he put it in his little pocket of his bright colored jacket. I wonder how many folks remember back in the early 1920's when there was an outdoor popcorn stand at the corner of Main and Fair streets. According to the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, September 21, 1923 a E. Egoroff of the Benedictine Hospital staff reported to police headquarters that he ran his car into the popcorn stand of a Mr. Rockwell, in order to avoid hitting a man who had come out from the rear of it. According to item, Mr. Egoroff agreed to pay for the damages caused the pop-corn stand.

It was also back in 1923 when E. Winter's Sons bought the building at 326 Wall street with intentions of moving from their former location of 36 John street. In the above newspaper there is a coverage of the history of the Winter's family as merchants in Kingston. It is interesting for it links with important phases of local history such as telegraph origination in Kingston. The Winter family was listed as merchants in the old Kingston and Rondout Boyd's Directory for 1857-58 with a page of advertisement. Item of 1923 states in part, that the business was established some 78 years before 1923 by Ann Winter mother of late William Winter of Rondout and Edward Winter of Kingston. It further says that E. Winter's Sons are successors of their father, Edward Winter who during the Civil War were located on North Front street near Crown. At the Civil War era they sold newspapers, stationery and musical instruments and also Edward was operator and manager of the telegraph office there. His brother, William, ran the telegraph office in Rondout meanwhile.

According to the 1923 item I see the Kingston Opera House was at one time called the Music Hall. It was built and finished in 1869 and Winter moved his business into one of the stores on Fair street. Later, owing to increase business, he rented the adjoining store which he devoted to the display and sale of pianos, phonographs, victrolas and other talking machines. Winter's family is listed thus in the 1857 Directory: "Ann Winter, widow of Archibald, books, stationery, Lackawanna corner Canal; home-Division, corner Lackawanna. Edward and William, both telegraph operators at store."

When studying the history of Kingston it is good to remember that Edward and William Winters, two local men built and operated the Bell Telephone system and controlled it for a number of years, finally selling out to the former Hudson River Telephone Co. besides introducing the telegraph system here. Also in 1857 the Winter Brothers operated an express business in the city.

Manera to Deliver Free Public Bible Lecture on Sunday

A. C. MANERA, JR.

Practical Love in a Selfish World, will be the topic of a free public Bible lecture to be given by Angelo C. Manera, Jr., Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in Kingdom Hall, 36 North Front street.

This evening starting at 7:30 he will conduct the weekly Service Meeting and Theocratic Ministry School consisting of talks, Bible teaching and instructive skits and demonstrations.

Saturday at 8 p. m., Manera will speak on Guard Your Heart. All meetings of the week will be held in Kingdom Hall and all are welcome to attend. No collections will be taken.

Manera is a special traveling representative of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society in charge of the work of Jehovah's Witnesses in parts of New York, Vermont, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The audience will have an opportunity to ask questions. Free Bible literature will be given to those present.

Manera is spending the week in Kingston as the guest of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. While here he is working with the group giving public and personal instruction and aiding the witnesses to more effectively carry on all phases of their ministerial work.

Guhr Faces Trial On Theft Charges

Buffalo, May 22 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation says it will soon take into custody a man wanted in connection with a number of burglaries that netted about $100,000 from swank Nassau county homes.

John A. Roche, acting agent-in-charge of the Buffalo FBI office, said Clyde Arnold Guhr, 37, is nearing the end of a prison term in Kingston, Ont., for housebreaking and passing bad checks.

Roche said Guhr probably would be deported by Canada early in June and would be met at the border by U. S. marshals with a federal warrant charging interstate transportation of a stolen car.

Roche said the Nassau burglaries were committed in 1946 and 1947. At the time, the agent said, Guhr was posing as a respected bowling alley proprietor in Caledonia, near Rochester.

Warrants are outstanding against Guhr in connection with the burglaries, Roche said.

Jumped $5,000 Bail

He added that Guhr jumped $5,000 bail after arraignment on the auto theft charge and turned up a year later in Toronto, where police charged him with housebreaking and passing bad checks.

U. S. Attorney John O. Henderson said Guhr might be turned over to the state for prosecution on the Nassau county charges, which he described as "much more serious" than the auto theft charge. The car was stolen from Mrs. Henry Odland, of Seattle, Wash.

In Mineola, Inspector Stuyvesant A. Pinnell said Guhr is wanted for eight thefts. The biggest one, he said, was the $37,000 taken from J. Russell Callahan of Manhasset.

In 1947, he said, Guhr took about $30,000 in jewels and other valuables from Callahan's home. He also took a check book and cashed a $7,000 check the next day, Pinnell said.

He added that Guhr got about $100,000 in the series of burglaries. Pinnell said he had been notified that Guhr would be brought back to Nassau county early next month.

In the above newspaper there is a coverage of the history of the Winter's family as merchants in Kingston. It is interesting for it links with important phases of local history such as telegraph origination in Kingston. The Winter family was listed as merchants in the old Kingston and Rondout Boyd's Directory for 1857-58 with a page of advertisement. Item of 1923 states in part, that the business was established some 78 years before 1923 by Ann Winter mother of late William Winter of Rondout and Edward Winter of Kingston. It further says that E. Winter's Sons are successors of their father, Edward Winter who during the Civil War were located on North Front street near Crown. At the Civil War era they sold newspapers, stationery and musical instruments and also Edward was operator and manager of the telegraph office there. His brother, William, ran the telegraph office in Rondout meanwhile.

According to the 1923 item I see the Kingston Opera House was at one time called the Music Hall. It was built and finished in 1869 and Winter moved his business into one of the stores on Fair street. Later, owing to increase business, he rented the adjoining store which he devoted to the display and sale of pianos, phonographs, victrolas and other talking machines. Winter's family is listed thus in the 1857 Directory: "Ann Winter, widow of Archibald, books, stationery, Lackawanna corner Canal; home-Division, corner Lackawanna. Edward and William, both telegraph operators at store."

When studying the history of Kingston it is good to remember that Edward and William Winters, two local men built and operated the Bell Telephone system and controlled it for a number of years, finally selling out to the former Hudson River Telephone Co. besides introducing the telegraph system here. Also in 1857 the Winter Brothers operated an express business in the city.

Manera to Deliver Free Public Bible Lecture on Sunday

A. C. MANERA, JR.

Practical Love in a Selfish World, will be the topic of a free public Bible lecture to be given by Angelo C. Manera, Jr., Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in Kingdom Hall, 36 North Front street.

This evening starting at 7:30 he will conduct the weekly Service Meeting and Theocratic Ministry School consisting of talks, Bible teaching and instructive skits and demonstrations.

Saturday at 8 p. m., Manera will speak on Guard Your Heart. All meetings of the week will be held in Kingdom Hall and all are welcome to attend. No collections will be taken.

Manera is a special traveling representative of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society in charge of the work of Jehovah's Witnesses in parts of New York, Vermont, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The audience will have an opportunity to ask questions. Free Bible literature will be given to those present.

Manera is spending the week in Kingston as the guest of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. While here he is working with the group giving public and personal instruction and aiding the witnesses to more effectively carry on all phases of their ministerial work.

Guhr Faces Trial On Theft Charges

Buffalo, May 22 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation says it will soon take into custody a man wanted in connection with a number of burglaries that netted about $100,000 from swank Nassau county homes.

John A. Roche, acting agent-in-charge of the Buffalo FBI office, said Clyde Arnold Guhr, 37, is nearing the end of a prison term in Kingston, Ont., for housebreaking and passing bad checks.

Roche said Guhr probably would be deported by Canada early in June and would be met at the border by U. S. marshals with a federal warrant charging interstate transportation of a stolen car.

Roche said the Nassau burglaries were committed in 1946 and 1947. At the time, the agent said, Guhr was posing as a respected bowling alley proprietor in Caledonia, near Rochester.

Warrants are outstanding against Guhr in connection with the burglaries, Roche said.

Jumped $5,000 Bail

He added that Guhr jumped $5,000 bail after arraignment on the auto theft charge and turned up a year later in Toronto, where police charged him with housebreaking and passing bad checks.

U. S. Attorney John O. Henderson said Guhr might be turned over to the state for prosecution on the Nassau county charges, which he described as "much more serious" than the auto theft charge. The car was stolen from Mrs. Henry Odland, of Seattle, Wash.

In Mineola, Inspector Stuyvesant A. Pinnell said Guhr is wanted for eight thefts. The biggest one, he said, was the $37,000 taken from J. Russell Callahan of Manhasset.

In 1947, he said, Guhr took about $30,000 in jewels and other valuables from Callahan's home. He also took a check book and cashed a $7,000 check the next day, Pinnell said.

He added that Guhr got about $100,000 in the series of burglaries. Pinnell said he had been notified that Guhr would be brought back to Nassau county early next month.

EISENHOWER AND CONGRESS

President Eisenhower has great respect for the distinctive and separate powers of Congress and the judiciary, the two branches which share with the Executive the responsibility of governing this nation.

This regard is not an academic thing with the President. In his highly important relations with Congress, he believes the lawmakers should be left alone to perform their task. "We propose, and after that it's up to them," is the way he puts it.

That is how Mr. Eisenhower reads the U. S. Constitution. He does not fear to exert leadership, as anyone can see who studies the record of his behavior. He simply believes that ordering Congress to pass specific legislation is none of his business.

The President's interpretation of his responsibilities is not, however, the only possible one. A good many chief executives have believed that it was their duty to take a strong hand with Congress. These include Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The idea behind their view is this: The President is the only representative in the government of the entire American people, since they elect him. By the nature of his office and the manner of his election, he is ideally suited to stand for the national interest, above the broad array of competing local and regional pressures.

Conversely, the representatives and senators who make up Congress usually reflect narrower interests. Sometimes they are veritable symbols of particular viewpoints. In any event, they are always subject to tremendous pressures from their district or state or region.

Left to themselves, these men inevitably battle among their fellows to achieve the goals sought by the people back home. Congress falls into factions. The result can be stalemate, or, after bitter warfare, the triumph of policies not desired by all the people.

Some observers are saying today that strong presidential leadership on Capitol Hill is a necessity for these difficult times, that there can be no effective party program unless the President tries to enforce his legislative demands. They argue that many lawmakers would welcome a show of strength on this score, since it would give them excuse to resist local pressures.

Mr. Eisenhower, possessing power and prestige such as few presidents have enjoyed, chooses not to use them as he might. It is a fascinating experiment in restraint. Some would say it is also a dangerous experiment. The test will be whether the national interest or the local interest triumphs in the years ahead.

RED REVERSE

In the French Indo-Chinese Kingdom of Laos the Communists suddenly reversed their tactics and began an orderly retreat. They had been moving forward in the tiny country at an alarming speed. It may be that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hit upon a tender spot in the Communist anatomy when he threatened to brand them as aggressors. This would have put the invaders in the same category as the North Korean Communists and might have led to armed intervention by United Nations forces.

The West has suffered a great deal in the Korean fighting. But it must not be forgotten that Korean has proved costly for the Reds as well. They have failed to gain their objective and have had to pour a great amount of men and treasure into a fight which is now obviously a stalemate. This may explain the reversal in strategy in Laos.

There is power in positive action. Not until Secretary Dulles spoke out did the Communist campaign grind to a halt and back up. Force respects force and little else. The Reds are never hesitant to move in where gains can be made without paying a heavy price. In the last year, however, there are signs that they sometimes back down when their bluff is called.

Rainmakers perhaps have served useful purposes on occasion, but no one asked them to work overtime this spring.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE TAX PROBLEM

A capitalistic society exists because of the investment in industry and commerce by privately-owned accumulations of earnings. In a word, the savings of many thousands of earners form a reservoir from which those who create new ventures or expand or improve existing ventures borrow money for their purposes.

Practically, this nation's economy is kept going by the constant borrowing of money in the form of loans, mortgages, sales of shares or bonds, by enterprisers. The purchase of shares (or stock, as it is called) adds to lending a participation in ownership. In our largest instruments of production, the ownership is so diffused that no one person owns an appreciable share (sometimes, the largest shareholder will not own more than one or two per cent of the enterprise).

The reservoir of capital formed by earnings and savings can oly be kept full if those who earn can save after paying for their cost of living, the upbringing of their children, and taxes to the Federal, State and municipal governments. Taxes, as an element in this problem, can be low enough to permit savings or so high as to forbid savings.

From the national, not the individual, standpoint, taxes determine the economic and ultimately the political nature of society. If taxes dry up the reservoir of savings, then private economic venture becomes impossible. The state must then provide funds, either in the form of loans out of taxes as in the instances of the RFC or the Export-Import Bank, or the state itself undertakes the economic enterprises as in TVA or Rural Electrification.

In Soviet Russia, wealth, except for purposes of an individual's immediate livelihood, is state-owned. In Great Britain, a part of the economy has been socialized; additionally, a relationship between government and the economy exists which subordinates private enterprise to international political purposes. In the United States, a mixed state-private economy exists on an experimental basis.

If the capitalistic system is to prevail, taxes must be reduced to simulate savings and investments. The argument as to whether taxes should be reduced before or after the budget is balanced is academic; actually officials find ways of putting in a budget all that the traffic will stand.

Already a concept is appearing in government that should we make peace with the Russians and should the Korean War end, we should devote "a substantial percentage of the savings achieved by disarmament to a fund for world aid and reconstruction." This would mean that instead of the savings being used to reduce taxes in the United States to conserve our way of life, they would be dissipated over the universe in eleemosynary projects of uncertain usefulness.

For instance, in a circular on the subject, Harold Stassen wrote:

". . . In the poorer and less developed nations especially there is a vast need for the kinds of productive facilities that private enterprise cannot provide—roads, ports, irrigation, and utilities—and also for such activities as medical and health services and agricultural extension service, some of which are not directly productive in themselves but all of which are necessary for the development of prosperous and expanding economies. . . ."

In view of our experience with the Marshall Plan and Point Four, the question must arise as to precisely how the United States or the American taxpayer gains. Those who continue to advocate the dissipation of our earnings contend that our wealth will increase indirectly by paving the way for private investments from which multiple benefits will flow.

Unfortunately, they do not so flow in a world in which governments control the outgo of currency and the investment of alien capital. The British experience in Iran ought to be convincing that politics override economics and that freedom in the market place has well-nigh been lost in many countries. Motion pictures, one of the great exports of the United States, has witnessed a flight to Europe and Africa during the past two years, imperilling American labor in that industry, because of blocked currency and import quotas in many countries.

It would be preferable to reduce taxes, increase the reservoirs of savings, stimulate private investments on the old basis of risk capital. The great strides in industry and commerce throughout the world during the 18th and 19th centuries were achieved by private risk and very successfully. True, some enterprises encountered failure, but the general benefits were enormous.

OLD-FASHIONED HEAT TREATMENT

In these days when our manufacturing chemists seem to be producing a new antibiotic (germ-killer) and a new antihistamine (to overcome allergy) almost every week, it is interesting to find an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association devoted to our old-fashioned home remedy, the application of heat by ordinary hot applications or by the various types of heat lamps.

It has been well said that heat is life in that it increases the circulation of the blood, carrying an increased supply of pure blood to the affected part and carrying impure blood and harmful wastes away from the part.

The editorial, entitled Therapeutic Application of Heat states in part:

"Few procedures are more commonly used in homes and hospitals than the application of heat. When heat is employed for therapeutic (healing) purposes, it is applied by radiation, conduction, or convection from its heated source and by conversion. Thus in conduction heating energy is transferred by direct contact from warmer to the cooler subject; it includes such homely mthods as hot water bottles, electric pads, and blankets as well as the more elaborate whirlpool baths and therapeutic tanks and pools."

"Radiant heating is derived from luminous and nonluminous infra-red generators. Luminous generators of infra-red utilize the radiant energy produced by carbon or tungsten filament bulbs aided by suitable reflecting surfaces."

Diathermy is among the most widely practiced methods of heating by conversion in which high frequency electric current is converted into heat owing to the resistance of the tissues to the flow of the current; and of the three available forms, short wave diathermy is the most popular. All forms, however, simply produce heat.

"Poliomyelitis patients usually receive hot packs or heat from other sources than diathermy or heat bulbs. Patients with polio should receive "special" exercises designed to stretch out tightened structures, along with hot packs.

In the presence of cancer, or in cases of hemorrhage (bleeding) heat is not applied or in patients who are greatly run down from chronic disorders as diabetes, high blood pressure, chronic inflammation of kidneys (nephritis).

Heat, then, is a great boon in many cases and does not upset digestion as so often occurs with drugs. Heat is especially helpful in "selected" cases of chronic arthritis—baking, paraffin baths, hot compresses, general hot baths.

Finally, the editorial states that in general, patients should be advised against administering diathermy in their own homes and on their own responsibility.

"Flatterer!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — Laurence F. Lee, past president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, has been one of the leading advocates of returning U. S. public lands to private ownership. His theme has been that administration of the U. S. national forests should be freed from bureaucratic control.

Since Mr. Lee is a North Carolinian and head of the Occidental Insurance Co. of that state, there has always been considerable puzzlement as to why he should be such a champion of the western livestock growers who want less federal control over their grazing rights on public lands.

"Mr. Lee is a stockholder and vice president of the Fernandez Co., a New Mexico corporation, which is one of the larger livestock growers of sheep and cattle in the Southwest," said Mr. Woodward. "The Fernandez Co. operates not only on patented lands but upon forest lands and other public lands.

"He is the brother of the president of the Fernandez Co., who for 23 years has been president of the New Mexico Wool Growers' Association. During those years he has earned the reputation of being the most outspoken critic and implacable foe of the U. S. Forest Service among all western livestock men."

Kyes' Key to Success

Roger Kyes, Deputy Director of Defense, carries his mottoes around with him in his breast pocket, in case anyone asks him what he's doing at the Pentagon. Neatly typed on a white card, they read:

1. For our fighting forces: Effective support.
2. For our Defense organization: Co-ordinated strength.
3. For our economy: Intelligent savings.
4. For our country: Security and peace.

Mr. Kyes likes to show the card to visitors. At staff meetings, he takes it out and reads it frequently.

Serious Spanish Students

Four Cabinet wives — Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, Mrs. Arthur E. Summerfield, Mrs. Robert B. Anderson and Mrs. Harold E. Stassen—are all hard-working students in the White House Spanish Portuguese class.

Mrs. Stassen, for example, takes her homework so seriously that she recently carted her textbook with her on a trip to France. She also took the book along on the trip her husband made to the Middle East with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Interestingly enough, this Spanish class was formed 10 years ago, during the war, by Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin and an army general's wife named Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower.

Roses for Milady

Regardless of what varieties or colors of flowers are decided on for a White House reception or dinner-table decorative scheme, the choice is almost always the same for the small vases in Mrs. Eisenhower's bedroom, say the gardners. The order is for sweetheart roses.

Boston Girl 'Stops' Procession

Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank governors, William McChesney Martin, went to Boston recently to help dedicate a little $4 million addition to "the old Fed" bank building.

There was an official lunch at the Algonquin Club and then the celebrities were driven in a motorcade, to the scene of the ceremonies.

As the line of cars slowed down to round a corner in the narrow streets of old Boston town, a little girl in pigtails leaned out of a car parked at the curb and yelled at Messrs. Humphrey and Martin, "Who died?"

Poetic Treasury Man

Deputy Secretary of Treasury W. Randolph Burgess went off the record for a few moments before he began his formal talk to the recent National Association of Mutual Savings Banks meeting in Washington.

"If you think it's any fun to have a debt of $265 billions to play with," said Mr. Burgess, "guess again. If ever someone asks you to manage a debt of $265 billion, don't take the job."

The Deputy Secretary said it reminded him of a limerick by Gelett Burgess, who was no relation, he explained. Then he recited the verse, which went with a cartoon of a man suspended in midair:

I wish that my room had a floor.
I don't so much care for a door.
But this prowling around
Without touching the ground,
Is getting to be quite a bore.

Eh? How's That?

At a Senate Internal Security Subcommittee hearing, Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho asked a witness, Iven Hurlinger, if he ever read "The Daily Worker." The witness replied that he considered himself a well-read man, and "The Worker" was one of the papers he followed.

Senate Welker then asked the witness if he was aware that "The Daily Worker" was the official organ of the Communist Party in America. Hurlinger said, No, he wasn't aware of that.

Slightly amazed, the senator repeated his question, but he got the same answer. Whereupon Welker exploded with: "Surely you don't think 'The Daily Worker' is published by the Daughters of the American Revolution, do you?"

Backstop Against Loss

The Air Force won't suffer a complete loss of all research data from the explosion of the experimental Bell X-2 rocket-powered plane which fell into Lake Ontario during a test flight. The plane exploded while being launched from a B-50 "mother ship." Two Bell test pilots, Jean Ziegler and Frank Welko were reported missing.

The Air Force has at least one other X-2 with which experimental flights can be continued. This is in accordance with regular practice in ordering two or three aircraft for each test model, for protection against loss or damage as in this case.

Not much information has been put out about the X-2, but it is presumably an improvement on the Bell X-1A in which test pilots hope to reach Mach. 2—double the speed of sound, or 1530 miles an hour—at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., this summer.

Neither the X-1 nor the X-2 is a tactical aircraft. Both are experimental planes with turbine fuel pumps using liquid oxygen, alcohol and water for their rocket-power. The X-2 has stainless steel wings and tail with a K-Monel metal body to withstand the air friction heat developed at supersonic speeds.

Eisenhower Provided Necessary Drama to Show Russia Allies Are Harmonious

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 22—President Eisenhower achieved a master stroke by inviting the heads of the governments of Great Britain and France to meet with him in a few weeks to discuss problems of world peace. Their acceptance was immediate.

It was essential, indeed imperative, that something dramatic be done to show Soviet Russia that the western allies are not at odds and that, in matters of substance as against Moscow, they stand together.

Unfortunately, Rene Mayer, premier of France, was forced out of office almost simultaneously with the announcement of the forthcoming conference, which he undoubtedly was instrumental in getting President Eisenhower to convene. But another French premier will attend and doubtless will present the same viewpoint as Mr. Mayer might have expressed. Nevertheless, the incident does rather expose the fallacy of Clement Attlee's tart comment in the House of Commons recently about the American constitutional system and the possibility that an American president might not be backed up by the Senate.

Actually, all democracies have constitutional difficulties with their parliaments—including at the moment the governments of Germany and Italy. This is not new and merely emphasizes the importance of a free play of public opinion and a free press, which in a democracy can bring all elements together in a common international policy irrespective of partisan politics. Mr. Attlee the other day spoke too hastily, and by inference was unnecessarily critical of President Eisenhower in implying that the Senate would not work with the present Chief Executive. Actually, there is more evidence of harmony already between Mr. Eisenhower and both Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress on matters of foreign policy than has been manifested in any previous administration in many years. Mr. Attlee was simply uninformed.

No better example of the leadership of Mr. Eisenhower on world affairs can be given than the support which he received from coast to coast in American and from virtually all groups and factions after he made his historic address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors last month.

The comments, moreover, that have just come from Capitol Hill since the announcement of the three-power meeting, called by President Eisenhower, were unanimous. They prove that all the talk about obstruction from the Senate is poppycock.

The significance of the three-power meeting is this: America will explore the viewpoints of the British and French governments and present with them a solid front to Soviet Russia. If, for example, it is decided to ask for a high-level conference with the head of the Soviet government, the Bermuda conference will set forth the conditions for such a meeting with the Russian government.

Matters have gone along so far already that it will be politically difficult for any government in the west to oppose a meeting with Malenkov, even though there may be little assurance of subsequent progress. Prime Minister Churchill prefers an informal type of meeting—like the ones at Yalta and Potsdam—where there is ample opportunity for exchanges of views at the top without too many subordinates around to give the affair the appearance of a "plenary session."

Such a meeting with Malenkov—probably to be held in Berlin—could be a fateful affair. If it proved fruitless, it would demonstrate to those abroad who have had unbounded faith in the sincerity of the Russians that mere conversation doesn't solve anything. If, on the other hand, war came in the next few years, such a meeting would be historic evidence that the allies had sought every honorable method of maintaining peace.

Any idea that Moscow intends to yield her claims and demands and suddenly become cooperative in Europe would seem far-fetched, because Moscow feels she has been winning the cold war and that she is negotiating now from strength rather than weakness. Some minor concessions by Russia are likely, provided the allies are willing to relax restrictions on the movement of raw materials and manufactured goods into Iron Curtain countries. For the real purpose of the Moscow "peace offensive" is to get a breathing spell for the Soviet armament program, to build Communist prestige in the weaker countries which have been wavering between support for the east and west, and to get time in which to enlarge the Russian military forces and equipment with facilities and materials that the west might be gullible enough to furnish.

It took 267 meetings to discover that Soviet Russia didn't intend to make an agreement on the Austrian treaty. It has taken nearly two years to ascertain whether or not the Communists want a truce in Korea. It may take the heads of the three governments only a few days to set up a series of subsequent meetings by foreign secretaries and their deputies. But it might take another couple of years or more to hold such meetings with Soviet negotiators. The cycle of talkfests is about to be resumed.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

For a long time, in my quiet, desultory way, I have been making my own investigation of the American press and my impressions are pretty disturbing in spots. I have watched the rise of Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher of the New York Times, to a position more influential than that of a mere editor and publisher. He actually operates his own foreign policy in the field of Europe and at home he presumes to try to dictate the form and substance of education in the public schools and colleges. He does this through his own department of education, which is not a usual department of a newspaper.

Mr. Sulzberger's own career has followed the standard pattern of Horatio Alger, Jr. . . . He married the boss's daughter. After that, there was no stopping the young genius. The boss was Adolph Ochs, who really was an editor. The marriage was in 1914. And the lucky boy entered the newspaper business in 1919 after an interulde in textiles which he mentioned in an address to the second annual convention of the Association for Education in Journalism at Columbia University last August.

Mr. Sulzberger gives an impression of self-importance, a trait easily detected in other editors and publishers, even as far down the line as Tucson, Arizona. In keeping with this personal quality, he opened his speech to the association with a momumental feat of name-dropping.

"Last June," he said, "I had an audience with the emperor of Japan—." I have examined this anecdote with care and find no excuse for it except that the boy who made good wanted them to know that he had met the emperor of Japan. Well, I once met King George V of Britain and on another occasion I met his wife, Queen Mary, and I was on the town one night with the ex-king-emperor, the Duke of Windsor, but all that has nothing to do with the case. I just thought I would see Mr. Sulzberger's emperor and raise him one emperor and one queen.

Mr. Sulzberger seems to be of two minds about truth, accuracy, objectivity and reason in the presentation of news. At Columbia he said Mr. Ochs, his late father-in-law, had held his news columns "untainted by the passions of the crusader," but admitted that he, in his turn, had decided that it was impossible to be strictly objective or to present the news without any bias. With this off his chest, Mr. Sulzberger confessed that when the second World War began he remarked with tears in his eyes that he wished they could print the Times in cordite instead of carbon so that the words would explode in the faces of its readers. Accordingly, "something new emerged, a new form of journalism shaped to fit the period." "The time had come," he continued, "when news had to be explained, when interpretation had to go hand in hand with the statement of the fact itself, when the meanings of things that occurred had to be made clear if they were, indeed, to have meaning."

His belief that this was something new in journalism suggests that Mr. Sulzberger is still a comparative stranger in the profession. The papers of Lincoln's time found a variety of meanings in almost all the news facts, and Mayor Gaynor, of New York, wrote that some papers had reached depths of falsehood and baseness not known anywhere in the world. Their proprietors, he said, were well known to have no moral sense in respect of the truth and to be willing to forego the esteem of decent people so

President Eisenhower has great respect for the distinctive and separate powers of Congress and the judiciary, the two branches which share with the Executive the responsibility of governing this nation.

This regard is not an academic thing with the President. In his highly important relations with Congress, he believes the lawmakers should be left alone to perform their task. "We propose, and after that it's up to them," is the way he puts it.

That is how Mr. Eisenhower reads the U. S. Constitution. He does not fear to exert leadership, as anyone can see who studies the record of his behavior. He simply believes that ordering Congress to pass specific legislation is none of his business.

The President's interpretation of his responsibilities is not, however, the only possible one. A good many chief executives have believed that it was their duty to take a strong hand with Congress. These include Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The idea behind their view is this: The President is the only representative in the government of the entire American people, since they elect him. By the nature of his office and the manner of his election, he is ideally suited to stand for the national interest, above the broad array of competing local and regional pressures.

Conversely, the representatives and senators who make up Congress usually reflect narrower interests. Sometimes they are veritable symbols of particular viewpoints. In any event, they are always subject to tremendous pressures from their district or state or region.

Left to themselves, these men inevitably battle among their fellows to achieve the goals sought by the people back home. Congress falls into factions. The result can be stalemate, or, after bitter warfare, the triumph of policies not desired by all the people.

Some observers are saying today that strong presidential leadership on Capitol Hill is a necessity for these difficult times, that there can be no effective party program unless the President tries to enforce his legislative demands. They argue that many lawmakers would welcome a show of strength on this score, since it would give them excuse to resist local pressures.

Mr. Eisenhower, possessing power and prestige such as few presidents have enjoyed, chooses not to use them as he might. It is a fascinating experiment in restraint. Some would say it is also a dangerous experiment. The test will be whether the national interest or the local interest triumphs in the years ahead.

RED REVERSE

In the French Indo-Chinese Kingdom of Laos the Communists suddenly reversed their tactics and began an orderly retreat. They had been moving forward in the tiny country at an alarming speed. It may be that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hit upon a tender spot in the Communist anatomy when he threatened to brand them as aggressors. This would have put the invaders in the same category as the North Korean Communists and might have led to armed intervention by United Nations forces.

The West has suffered a great deal in the Korean fighting. But it must not be forgotten that Korean has proved costly for the Reds as well. They have failed to gain their objective and have had to pour a great amount of men and treasure into a fight which is now obviously a stalemate. This may explain the reversal in strategy in Laos.

There is power in positive action. Not until Secretary Dulles spoke out did the Communist campaign grind to a halt and back up. Force respects force and little else. The Reds are never hesitant to move in where gains can be made without paying a heavy price. In the last year, however, there are signs that they sometimes back down when their bluff is called.

Rainmakers perhaps have served useful purposes on occasion, but no one asked them to work overtime this spring.

'These Days'

THE TAX PROBLEM

A capitalistic society exists because of the investment in industry and commerce by privately-owned accumulations of earnings. In a word, the savings of many thousands of earners form a reservoir from which those who create new ventures or expand or improve existing ventures borrow money for their purposes.

Practically, this nation's economy is kept going by the constant borrowing of money in the form of loans, mortgages, sales of shares or bonds, by enterprisers. The purchase of shares (or stock, as it is called) adds to lending a participation in ownership. In our largest instruments of production, the ownership is so diffused that no one person owns an appreciable share (sometimes, the largest shareholder will not own more than one or two per cent of the enterprise).

The reservoir of capital formed by earnings and savings can oly be kept full if those who earn can save after paying for their cost of living, the upbringing of their children, and taxes to the Federal, State and municipal governments. Taxes, as an element in this problem, can be low enough to permit savings or so high as to forbid savings.

From the national, not the individual, standpoint, taxes determine the economic and ultimately the political nature of society. If taxes dry up the reservoir of savings, then private economic venture becomes impossible. The state must then provide funds, either in the form of loans out of taxes as in the instances of the RFC or the Export-Import Bank, or the state itself undertakes the economic enterprises as in TVA or Rural Electrification.

In Soviet Russia, wealth, except for purposes of an individual's immediate livelihood, is state-owned. In Great Britain, a part of the economy has been socialized; additionally, a relationship between government and the economy exists which subordinates private enterprise to international political purposes. In the United States, a mixed state-private economy exists on an experimental basis.

If the capitalistic system is to prevail, taxes must be reduced to simulate savings and investments. The argument as to whether taxes should be reduced before or after the budget is balanced is academic; actually officials find ways of putting in a budget all that the traffic will stand.

Already a concept is appearing in government that should we make peace with the Russians and should the Korean War end, we should devote "a substantial percentage of the savings achieved by disarmament to a fund for world aid and reconstruction." This would mean that instead of the savings being used to reduce taxes in the United States to conserve our way of life, they would be dissipated over the universe in eleemosynary projects of uncertain usefulness.

For instance, in a circular on the subject, Harold Stassen wrote:

". . . In the poorer and less developed nations especially there is a vast need for the kinds of productive facilities that private enterprise cannot provide—roads, ports, irrigation, and utilities—and also for such activities as medical and health services and agricultural extension service, some of which are not directly productive in themselves but all of which are necessary for the development of prosperous and expanding economies. . . ."

In view of our experience with the Marshall Plan and Point Four, the question must arise as to precisely how the United States or the American taxpayer gains. Those who continue to advocate the dissipation of our earnings contend that our wealth will increase indirectly by paving the way for private investments from which multiple benefits will flow.

Unfortunately, they do not so flow in a world in which governments control the outgo of currency and the investment of alien capital. The British experience in Iran ought to be convincing that politics override economics and that freedom in the market place has well-nigh been lost in many countries. Motion pictures, one of the great exports of the United States, has witnessed a flight to Europe and Africa during the past two years, imperilling American labor in that industry, because of blocked currency and import quotas in many countries.

It would be preferable to reduce taxes, increase the reservoirs of savings, stimulate private investments on the old basis of risk capital. The great strides in industry and commerce throughout the world during the 18th and 19th centuries were achieved by private risk and very successfully. True, some enterprises encountered failure, but the general benefits were enormous.

OLD-FASHIONED HEAT TREATMENT

In these days when our manufacturing chemists seem to be producing a new antibiotic (germ killer) and a new antihistamine (to overcome allergy) almost every week, it is interesting to find an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association devoted to our old-fashioned home remedy, the application of heat by ordinary hot applications or by the various types of heat lamps.

It has been well said that heat is life in that it increases the circulation of the blood, carrying an increased supply of pure blood to the affected part and carrying impure blood and harmful wastes away from the part.

The editorial, entitled Therapeutic Application of Heat states in part:

"Few procedures are more commonly used in homes and hospitals than the application of heat. When heat is employed for therapeutic (healing) purposes, it is applied by radiation, conduction, or convection from its heated source and by conversion. Thus in conduction heating energy is transferred by direct contact from warmer to the cooler subject; it includes such homely mthods as hot water bottles, electric pads, and blankets as well as the more elaborate whirlpool baths and therapeutic tanks and pools."

"Radiant heating is derived from luminous and nonluminous infra-red generators. Luminous generators of infra-red utilize the radiant energy produced by carbon or tungsten filament bulbs aided by suitable reflecting surfaces."

Diathermy is among the most widely practiced methods of heating by conversion in which high frequency electric current is converted into heat owing to the resistance of the tissues to the flow of the current; and of the three available forms, short wave diathermy is the most popular. All forms, however, simply produce heat.

"Poliomyelitis patients usually receive hot packs or heat from other sources than diathermy or heat bulbs. Patients with polio should receive "special" exercises designed to stretch out tightened structures, along with hot packs.

In the presence of cancer, or in cases of hemorrhage (bleeding) heat is not applied or in patients who are greatly run down from chronic disorders as diabetes, high blood pressure, chronic inflammation of kidneys (nephritis).

Heat, then, is a great boon in many cases and does not upset digestion as so often occurs with drugs. Heat is especially helpful in "selected" cases of chronic arthritis—baking, paraffin baths, hot compresses, general hot baths.

Finally, the editorial states that in general, patients should be advised against administering diathermy in their own homes and on their own responsibility.

"Flatterer!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — Laurence F. Lee, past president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, has been one of the leading advocates of returning U. S. public lands to private ownership. His theme has been that administration of the U. S. national forests should be freed from bureaucratic control.

Since Mr. Lee is a North Carolinian and head of the Occidental Insurance Co. of that state, there has always been considerable puzzlement as to why he should be such a champion of the western livestock growers who want less federal control over their grazing rights on public lands.

Hugh B. Woodward, president of the New Mexico Game Protective Association, shed some light on this riddle in Washington recently, during a speech before the North American Wildlife Conference.

"Mr. Lee is a stockholder and vice president of the Fernandez Co., a New Mexico corporation, which is one of the larger livestock growers of sheep and cattle in the Southwest," said Mr. Woodward. "The Fernandez Co. operates not only on patented lands but upon forest lands and other public lands.

"He is the brother of the president of the Fernandez Co., who for 23 years has been president of the New Mexico Wool Growers' Association. During those years he has earned the reputation of being the most outspoken critic and implacable foe of the U. S. Forest Service among all western livestock men."

Kyes' Key to Success

Roger Kyes, Deputy Director of Defense, carries his mottoes around with him in his breast pocket, in case anyone asks him what he's doing at the Pentagon. Neatly typed on a white card, they read:

1. For our fighting forces: Effective support.
2. For our Defense organization: Co-ordinated strength.
3. For our economy: Intelligent savings.
4. For our country: Security and peace.

Mr. Kyes likes to show the card to visitors. At staff meetings, he takes it out and reads it frequently.

Serious Spanish Students

Four Cabinet wives — Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, Mrs. Arthur E. Summerfield, Mrs. Robert B. Anderson and Mrs. Harold E. Stassen—are all hard-working students in the White House Spanish Portuguese class.

Mrs. Stassen, for example, takes her homework so seriously that she recently carted her textbook with her on a trip to France. She also took the book along on the trip her husband made to the Middle East with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Interestingly enough, this Spanish class was formed 10 years ago, during the war, by Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin and an army general's wife named Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower.

Roses for Milady

Regardless of what varieties or colors of flowers are decided on for a White House reception or dinner-table decorative scheme, the choice is almost always the same for the small vases in Mrs. Eisenhower's bedroom, say the gardners. The order is for sweetheart roses.

Boston Girl 'Stops' Procession

Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank governors, William McChesney Martin, went to Boston recently to help dedicate a little $4 million addition to "the old Fed" bank building.

There was an official lunch at the Algonquin Club and then the celebrities were driven in a motorcade, to the scene of the ceremonies.

As the line of cars slowed down to round a corner in the narrow streets of old Boston town, a little girl in pigtails leaned out of a car parked at the curb and yelled at Messrs. Humphrey and Martin, "Who died?"

Poetic Treasury Man

Deputy Secretary of Treasury W. Randolph Burgess went off the record for a few moments before he began his formal talk to the recent National Association of Mutual Savings Banks meeting in Washington.

"If you think it's any fun to have a debt of $265 billions to play with," said Mr. Burgess, "guess again. If ever someone asks you to manage a debt of $265 billion, don't take the job."

The Deputy Secretary said it reminded him of a limerick by Gelett Burgess, who was no relation, he explained. Then he recited the verse, which went with a cartoon of a man suspended in midair:

I wish that my room had a floor.
I don't so much care for a door.
But this prowling around
Without touching the ground,
Is getting to be quite a bore.

Eh? How's That?

At a Senate Internal Security Subcommittee hearing, Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho asked a witness, Iven Hurlinger, if he ever read "The Daily Worker." The witness replied that he considered himself a well-read man, and "The Worker" was one of the papers he followed.

Senate Welker then asked the witness if he was aware that "The Daily Worker" was the official organ of the Communist Party in America. Hurlinger said, No, he wasn't aware of that.

Slightly amazed, the senator repeated his question, but he got the same answer. Whereupon Welker exploded with: "Surely you don't think 'The Daily Worker' is published by the Daughters of the American Revolution, do you?"

Backstop Against Loss

The Air Force won't suffer a complete loss of all research data from the explosion of the experimental Bell X-2 rocket-powered plane which fell into Lake Ontario during a test flight. The plane exploded while being launched from a B-50 "mother ship." Two Bell test pilots, Jean Ziegler and Frank Welko were reported missing.

The Air Force has at least one other X-2 with which experimental flights can be continued. This is in accordance with regular practice in ordering two or three aircraft for each test model, for protection against loss or damage as in this case.

Not much information has been put out about the X-2, but it is presumably an improvement on the Bell X-1A in which test pilots hope to reach Mach. 2—double the speed of sound, or 1530 miles an hour—at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., this summer.

Neither the X-1 nor the X-2 is a tactical aircraft. Both are experimental planes with turbine fuel pumps using liquid oxygen, alcohol and water for their rocket-power. The X-2 has stainless steel wings and tail with a K-Monel metal body to withstand the air friction heat developed at supersonic speeds.

Eisenhower Provided Necessary Drama to Show Russia Allies Are Harmonious

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 22—President Eisenhower achieved a master stroke by inviting the heads of the governments of Great Britain and France to meet with him in a few weeks to discuss problems of world peace. Their acceptance was immediate.

It was essential, indeed imperative, that something dramatic be done to show Soviet Russia that the western allies are not at odds and that, in matters of substance as against Moscow, they stand together.

Unfortunately, Rene Mayer, premier of France, was forced out of office almost simultaneously with the announcement of the forthcoming conference, which he undoubtedly was instrumental in getting President Eisenhower to convene. But another French premier will attend and doubtless will present the same viewpoint as Mr. Mayer might have expressed. Nevertheless, the incident does rather expose the fallacy of Clement Attlee's tart comment in the House of Commons recently about the American constitutional system and the possibility that an American president might not be backed up by the Senate.

Actually, all democracies have constitutional difficulties with their parliaments—including at the moment the governments of Germany and Italy. This is not new and merely emphasizes the importance of a free play of public opinion and a free press, which in a democracy can bring all elements together in a common international policy irrespective of partisan politics. Mr. Attlee the other day spoke too hastily, and by inference was unnecessarily critical of President Eisenhower in implying that the Senate would not work with the present Chief Executive. Actually, there is more evidence of harmony already between Mr. Eisenhower and both Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress on matters of foreign policy than has been manifested in any previous administration in many years. Mr. Attlee was simply uninformed.

No better example of the leadership of Mr. Eisenhower on world affairs can be given than the support which he received from coast to coast in American and from virtually all groups and factions after he made his historic address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors last month.

The comments, moreover, that have just come from Capitol Hill since the announcement of the three-power meeting, called by President Eisenhower, were unanimous. They prove that all the talk about obstruction from the Senate is poppycock.

The significance of the three-power meeting is this: America will explore the viewpoints of the British and French governments and present with them a solid front to Soviet Russia. If, for example, it is decided to ask for a high-level conference with the head of the Soviet government, the Bermuda conference will set forth the conditions for such a meeting with the Russian government.

Matters have gone along so far already that it will be politically difficult for any government in the west to oppose a meeting with Malenkov, even though there may be little assurance of subsequent progress. Prime Minister Churchill prefers an informal type of meeting—like the ones at Yalta and Potsdam—where there is ample opportunity for exchanges of views at the top without too many subordinates around to give the affair the appearance of a "plenary session."

Such a meeting with Malenkov—probably to be held in Berlin—could be a fateful affair. If it proved fruitless, it would demonstrate to those abroad who have had unbounded faith in the sincerity of the Russians that mere conversation doesn't solve anything. If, on the other hand, war came in the next few years, such a meeting would be historic evidence that the allies had sought every honorable method of maintaining peace.

Any idea that Moscow intends to yield her claims and demands and suddenly become cooperative in Europe would seem far-fetched, because Moscow feels she has been winning the cold war and that she is negotiating now from strength rather than weakness. Some minor concessions by Russia are likely, provided the allies are willing to relax restrictions on the movement of raw materials and manufactured goods into Iron Curtain countries. For the real purpose of the Moscow "peace offensive" is to get a breathing spell for the Soviet armament program, to build Communist prestige in the weaker countries which have been wavering between support for the east and west, and to get time in which to enlarge the Russian military forces and equipment with facilities and materials that the west might be gullible enough to furnish.

It took 267 meetings to discover that Soviet Russia didn't intend to make an agreement on the Austrian treaty. It has taken nearly two years to ascertain whether or not the Communists want a truce in Korea. It may take the heads of the three governments only a few days to set up a series of subsequent meetings by foreign secretaries and their deputies. But it might take another couple of years or more to hold such meetings with Soviet negotiators. The cycle of talkfests is about to be resumed.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

For a long time, in my quiet, desultory way, I have been making my own investigation of the American press and my impressions are pretty disturbing in spots. I have watched the rise of Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher of the New York Times, to a position more influential than that of a mere editor and publisher. He actually operates his own foreign policy in the field of Europe and at home he presumes to try to dictate the form and substance of education in the public schools and colleges. He does this through his own department of education, which is not a usual department of a newspaper.

Mr. Sulzberger's own career has followed the standard pattern of Horatio Alger, Jr. . . . He married the boss's daughter. After that, there was no stopping the young genius. The boss was Adolph Ochs, who really was an editor. The marriage was in 1914. And the lucky boy entered the newspaper business in 1919 after an interulde in textiles which he mentioned in an address to the second annual convention of the Association for Education in Journalism at Columbia University last August.

Mr. Sulzberger gives an impression of self-importance, a trait easily detected in other editors and publishers, even as far down the line as Tucson, Arizona. In keeping with this personal quality, he opened his speech to the association with a momumental feat of name-dropping.

"Last June," he said, "I had an audience with the emperor of Japan—." I have examined this anecdote with care and find no excuse for it except that the boy who made good wanted them to know that he had met the emperor of Japan. Well, I once met King George V of Britain and on another occasion I met his wife, Queen Mary, and I was on the town one night with the ex-king-emperor, the Duke of Windsor, but all that has nothing to do with the case. I just thought I would see Mr. Sulzberger's emperor and raise him one emperor and one queen.

Mr. Sulzberger seems to be of two minds about truth, accuracy, objectivity and reason in the presentation of news. At Columbia he said Mr. Ochs, his late father-in-law, had held his news columns "untainted by the passions of the crusader," but admitted that he, in his turn, had decided that it was impossible to be strictly objective or to present the news without any bias. With this off his chest, Mr. Sulzberger confessed that when the second World War began he remarked with tears in his eyes that he wished they could print the Times in cordite instead of carbon so that the words would explode in the faces of its readers. Accordingly, "something new emerged, a new form of journalism shaped to fit the period." "The time had come," he continued, "when news had to be explained, when interpretation had to go hand in hand with the statement of the fact itself, when the meanings of things that occurred had to be made clear if they were, indeed, to have meaning."

His belief that this was something new in journalism suggests that Mr. Sulzberger is still a comparative stranger in the profession. The papers of Lincoln's time found a variety of meanings in almost all the news facts, and Mayor Gaynor, of New York, wrote that some papers had reached depths of falsehood and baseness not known anywhere in the world. Their proprietors, he said, were well known to have no moral sense in respect of the truth and to be willing to forego the esteem of decent people so

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York City, May 21—Many of my readers fear that if rents are decontrolled in certain areas where they are still under control, rent prices, like the prices of coffee, will skyrocket. I don't believe this will happen today. Here's why.

Ever since 1940, fewer and fewer rental units have been constructed. Fifty-five per cent of all housing units now in existence are owner occupied, compared with a 45 per cent home ownership just before World War 2. This trend has increased even more sharply in the last three years, so that in 1951-52 only 12 per cent of the new housing starts were rental units!

Despite the fact that new rentals have decreased sharply, I believe the supply will be sufficient to satisfy demand and therefore, keep rental prices down. My reasons for this belief come from the fact that the building market since 1946 has been an ownership market. The desire for ownership is inherent in democracy. It has been stimulated by such factors as (1) the high income levels of the war and post-war years, (2) the accelerated rate of marriages due to war, (3) the desire to "undouble" and have a home of one's own after the war, and (4) the threat of atomic warfare and industrial decentralization, causing a shift to suburban living.

Housing Demands

Full employment and high wages go hand-in-hand with new housing starts. Barring war, we may have reached the peak of both the employment and the building boom. New household formations, due to marriages and setting up of independent family units, remained far ahead of the residential building rate from 1930 to 1950, with new housing starts about four and one-half million behind family starts. However, since 1946, new housing units have been at an average rate of one million per year, and, for the last three years, there have been more new housing starts than new families.

The demand for new homes could soon taper off because of the low birthrate that prevailed from 1930 to 1938. It is these few depression babies who are now approaching marriageable age. This factor, plus the return to business normalcy (lessened demand for goods, lower wages, and less employment), could ease the housing situation.

Rental Costs and Decontrol

While the earnings of most industrial workers have risen over 200 per cent since 1935-39, rents for moderate-income families have increased only 40 per cent during these years. On the other hand, prices of many other commodities and services have increased about 100 per cent. Monthly middle-class rentals in fourteen leading metropolitan areas averaged $93 in 1950. Today the average is $100. With average rentals of $100 and average annual incomes of $5,000, renters are paying about 24 per cent of their gross income for housing. This is a fair percentage.

The group that might feel the pinch most if rent controls were lifted in restricted metropolitan areas would be the lower-income city dwellers, who pay about 15 per cent of their gross earnings of $3,000 to $4,000 on contract rent. In nine cities, decontrolled in 1950, gross rents increased on an average of 15 per cent by 1952.

City Versus Suburban Rents

Suppose that controls were lifted in presently controlled city areas and rents did go up 15 per cent per month, what then? This would bring rentals for low-income city dwellers up to about $50. Since landlords cannot afford to build houses to rent for even $50 per month, many will move to the suburbs and buy a small house.

Hence, the demand for small suburban ownership homes might remain high, with as many as could afford it moving out of the large cities to live in their own small new houses. This, in turn, might leave more rental units available in the cities. As more such rentals became sub-standard, city rental prices could even decrease and would, therefore, be little affected by decontrol. Suburban rentals could, however, be expected to hold their own and, in some areas, increase slightly, as long as business holds to present levels.

Corn Pups Are Guest Snacks

CORN PUPS made of frankfurters encased in corn muffins are tasteful snack treats for your Decoration Day guests.

By GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Food and Markets Editor

If you stay at home on Decoration Day and welcome friends, you'll want ideas for snacks to give them. Kathrine Wellingbrook, who lives 50 miles back in the mountains from Albany, N. Y., likes to serve corn pups and chilled bottled soft drinks to her visitors.

She says the tangy soft drinks and something good but different to nibble on seem to make everyone happy. She reminds us to keep the drinks properly chilled and to uncap only as served.

Corn Pups (Makes 16)

Eight frankfurters, 1 box corn-muffin mix, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 egg, milk (amount given for muffins on package).

Place frankfurters in cold water, bring to boil; remove from heat, cover and let stand for 10 to 15 minutes, or until ready to use. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. (moderate).

Empty contents of corn-muffin box in bowl. Blend in flour with fork until thoroughly mixed. Break egg into measuring cup and beat with fork. Cut frankfurters in half; spear cut side with wooden skewers. Dip each in beaten egg, then in dry mix. Set aside on greased cookie sheet.

Add required milk to remaining egg. Stir into dry mix thoroughly with fork. Hold each frankfurter half by skewer handle and use fork to cover frank with muffin mix. Place on well-greased muffin tin. Bake at 375 degrees F. for about 15 minutes. (Allow 2-3 corn pups per person.)

Here are a couple of hints:

If skewers are not available, spear each frank with fork when covering with batter.

As this batter rises quickly, you'll find it easier to handle if you divide dry mixture in half and add half the milk-egg mixture. Use up, and place franks covered in oven, then prepare second half.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Pineapple juice, codfish cakes, raisin toast, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Corn pups, chopped green pepper, cabbage and tomato salad, baked apples, cookies, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Hot rice ring filled with creamed salmon and olives, buttered beans, enriched hard rolls, butter or margarine, mixed green salad, French dressing, blackberry pie, coffee, milk.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—well, what many a middle-aged fellow has been thinking of all winter.

L-O-V-E!

Love is a subject the middle-aged man isn't supposed to concern himself much with. By now he is expected to have his affairs of the heart settled, and to devote himself to more serious matters.

The middle-aged man is the workhorse of our civilization. His colt days are past, he is too young to be put out to pasture, and the world counts on him to bend into his harness and plow a straight furrow, and no nonsense about it.

This is what most middle-aged men do. They accept the harness whether it chafes them or not, and quietly go about their duty, until they drop or are retired.

Must Remember Freedom

But even a workhorse must remember his coltish freedom. And it would startle many a placid family if they could see the daydreams that go on behind the tired eyes of their stolid middle-aged breadwinner, who seems so dull and commonplace as he plods from home to job, from job to home.

Why, in his mind, he's no taken-for-granted baldy with a paunch. He's the eternal lover, a gay boy, a play boy, a free-wheeling Romeo who loves 'em and leaves 'em, and goes on laughing to the next one.

"What are you doing, Jones?" says the boss. And the daydream vanishes. But only until the boss is gone. The stenographer trips blithely by—and back comes that daydream. Boy, if she only knew. Jones has loved her and forgotten her before she even reaches the water cooler.

On Account of Marriage

The world forgets the heart has neither season nor reason, and that most people all their lives are in love with love and hate responsibility. Poor middle-aged Jones is still fond of his wife. But he resents the fact that he bought her the first steak dinner of his own free will—but more or less had to buy her the next 999, on account of marriage.

And so Jones starts dreaming of how wonderful it would be to be free again. Actually he really doesn't want to, and would be frightened if he were.

Most middle-aged men who break up the patterns of their married life find it is no fun to be a colt again—a colt with a bald head.

But the married man who makes the mistake is one of the real tragic figures of our times. He is one who, having passed life's peak and started down, reaches second adolescence before he gets to his second childhood.

Also Mind-Breaking

Young puppy love is heart-breaking enough; but middle-aged puppy love is mind-breaking as well as heart-breaking. And it gets no sympathy from the mob. People may pity an old fool, but they despise a middle-aged fool, and he usually gets to feel that way about himself, too.

He takes himself a new, young love and finds that isn't really what he wanted. He is now afraid of her and her youth as he was afraid before of growing old.

In Connecticut last week they hauled a 45-year-old father of 12 kids into court for annoying a 30-year-old single girl with love letters. One letter was 465 pages long and the prosecutor called it "drivel," which any 465-page love letter would have to be, even if Shakespeare wrote it.

"There was never any serious purpose in my mind," said the father. "I thought that maybe she'd say 'hello,' and down deep in my heart I knew I'd be scared if she did."

There is a moral in this for all middle-aged fellows who suffer from what some doctors call "46-year male fever." Stick to your plowing and keep your daydreams to yourself, if you want to avoid the world's laughter—and writer's cramp.

Switzerland can raise an army of 700,000 on 72-hours notice.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York City, May 21—Many of my readers fear that if rents are decontrolled in certain areas where they are still under control, rent prices, like the prices of coffee, will skyrocket. I don't believe this will happen today. Here's why.

Ever since 1940, fewer and fewer rental units have been constructed. Fifty-five per cent of all housing units now in existence are owner occupied, compared with a 45 per cent home ownership just before World War 2. This trend has increased even more sharply in the last three years, so that in 1951-52 only 12 per cent of the new housing starts were rental units!

Despite the fact that new rentals have decreased sharply, I believe the supply will be sufficient to satisfy demand and therefore, keep rental prices down. My reasons for this belief come from the fact that the building market since 1946 has been an ownership market. The desire for ownership is inherent in democracy. It has been stimulated by such factors as (1) the high income levels of the war and post-war years, (2) the accelerated rate of marriages due to war, (3) the desire to "undouble" and have a home of one's own after the war, and (4) the threat of atomic warfare and industrial decentralization, causing a shift to suburban living.

Housing Demands

Full employment and high wages go hand-in-hand with new housing starts. Barring war, we may have reached the peak of both the employment and the building boom. New household formations, due to marriages and setting up of independent family units, remained far ahead of the residential building rate from 1930 to 1950, with new housing starts about four and one-half million behind family starts. However, since 1946, new housing units have been at an average rate of one million per year, and, for the last three years, there have been more new housing starts than new families.

Jury Is Selected To Try Vincent; Appears in Court

A city court jury was selected today for the trial of Robert Vincent, 52, of Terrence street, May 29, on a gambling charge.

Vincent, one of several men arrested, in a gambling raid April 29 at 650 Broadway, was reported ill when he was due to report in city court earlier in the week and City Judge Raymond J. Mino ordered that a doctor's certificate be produced. Vincent was present in court today.

Vincent was arrested on a charge dealing with the alleged rental of space for gambling purposes. Attorney Sherwood E. Davis appears for Vincent and S. James Matthews today represented the district attorney's office.

Peter Cerasaro, 35, of Lucas avenue extension, who was arrested with Vincent on a similar charge, is due for trial May 28. A city court jury was drawn yesterday for the trial.

DIED

Memoriam

In loving memory of my darling mother, Susie Elliott who departed this life two years ago May 22, 1951.

A place in my heart has been left vacant,
By a precious one who is gone—
From our arms to the Master in Heaven,
Rest in peace everlastingly on.
No words can express how we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain—
We have suffered, Mother, without you
Life will never be the same.
Sadly missed,
MRS. ERNEST NEILSEN,
Daughter.

Resigns Post

FREDERICK L. ANDERSON

Paris, May 22 (AP)—Ambassador Frederick L. Anderson, deputy special representative for U. S. aid in Europe, announced his resignation today. The White House has accepted it.

Anderson, World War 2 air force major general, was appointed to the post in March, 1952. His resignation follows that of his chief, Ambassador William H. Draper, who is returning to private business.

Anderson, a native of Kingston, was graduated from Kingston High School and from the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Mistrial Declared

was prejudicial, particularly with the fact that "the newspapers are full of this stuff," referring to congressional inquiries. He pointed out that at the inquest Avis was informed that he had a constitutional right not to testify, but that if he did, anything he said might be used against him.

Cashin said that the reference had an implication that Avis was under some criminal charge, which was not the case, and that the false implication 'cannot be erased."

Argues for Denial

Keegan argued for a denial of the motion, and suggested that "if counsel is sincere," the jury be put in the box and polled, and asked individually if they were prejudiced by the remark. Judge Cashin countered that this procedure would only aggravate the matter.

Justice Deckelman warned the attorneys that the only issue involved was whether the client had been prejudiced, and that the expense of a mistrial was irrevelant.

Court was then adjourned and Justice Deckelman retired to chambers for about 20 minutes.

When he returned to the bench, Justice Deckelman declared that "in my opinion the remark led to the inference that Avis was under some criminal charge. The motion to withdraw the jurors and declare a mistrial is granted."

Didn't Have on Glasses

At this point, Keegan rose and said he would like to say a few things "for the record." He contended that one lady member of the jury had said she had worked in Judge Cashin's household "for a number of years," and that Cashin "never mentioned that." When Judge Cashin was asked about it later, Keegan said, "he didn't have his glasses on."

Keegan made several other statements, including a reference to the fact that Judge Cashin was present when the jury list was drawn.

"These are the things I recall and put behind me," Keegan said, continuing his remarks for the record.

He asked to have the jury list marked for exhibit, and Justice Deckelman so directed.

Justice Deckelman then asked Judge Cashin if he wanted to say anything.

"Of course I do," Judge Cashin said. "I think these remarks are totally unfair and totally uncalled for."

Judge Cashin pointed out that as county judge and under the commissioner of jurors' system in Ulster county he attended the drawing of the jury list "pursuant to law." He continued, "I do not draw the list."

"I take it as a personal affront to my professional integrity," Judge Cashin said further in reference to Keegan's remarks.

Calls It 'Lie'

"As far as this woman who said she worked for me a number of years—that's a lie," Cashin declared. He said that the woman may have been in his house on several occasions as extra help during a party.

It was also pointed out that the county judge has a legal right to practice law in courts other than his own.

The actions at trial included one brought by Joseph and Adeline Bua of Brooklyn against Avis, one by Avis against the Buas, and one by Dora Leventhal against the Buas and Avis. Max Leventhal, it was pointed out, was a passenger and could not be held negligent and therefore would have to collect from whichever or both of the other parties found negligent. Avis was the driver of the automobile in which Leventhal, his father-in-law, was riding, and Joseph Bua was the driver of the other, which was owned by his wife, Adeline Bua.

The firm of Cashin and Ewig represented Avis; Keegan represented Mrs. Leventhal as executrix, and the firm of Santagata and Santagata of Brooklyn represented Mr. and Mrs. Bua.

Cases No. 124 and 125 were scheduled to go on trial this morning.

Dulles Asks Russia

United States, France and the Soviet Union are due to meet in London May 27 to resume the long-deadlocked Austrian negotiations. The meeting has been widely billed in the west as a chance for the Russians to prove the sincerity of their peace talk, presumably by agreeing to western demands.

(Truce negotiations on Korea are due to resume at Panmunjom on Monday. Recent reports—not contradicted by official U. S. sources—have said that the Americans are readying new proposals bringing their previous proposals much closer to the last Communist demands for the handling of prisoners of war who refused repatriation).

Meets With Newsmen

Dulles met with some 100 Indian and foreign newsmen as he wound up a three-day visit here prior to his departure for Karachi, capital of neighboring Pakistan.

To a left-wing journalist who implied that the U. S. feared the Soviet Union, Dulles retorted, "The United States is not afraid of the Communist bloc. We are entirely confident of our strength and power."

Dulles told another newsman that the U. S. "of course" is not "satisfied with the present stalemate of distrust.

"As long as the Korean war goes on," he declared, "it is difficult not to have distrust. The Soviet Communists could bring about a stoppage of aggression in Laos. They could sign an Austrian treaty. The United States has made concession after concession on the Austrian question."

Five Persons

listed in critical conditions.

In Sarnia, more than 50 persons were treated for wounds and 15 of them were hospitalized.

The storm spent its fury over Lake Ontario after hedgehopping from southeastern Michigan across southwest Ontario Province. It left destruction along a 40 mile path.

The business district of the oil refining center of Sarnia bore the full brunt of the storm. Bulldozers had to clear away the rubble.

Mostly Residential

In the Port Huron area, damage was mostly to residential property. Many persons reported lucky escapes as their homes vanished into the howling wind.

The twister dipped and rose freakishly from St. Clair county, Mich., through Memphis, Columbus, and Smiths Creek before hitting southern Port Huron at 4:40 p. m. (EST).

Roaring across the St. Clair river, the storm hit the Sarnia business district. The Imperial Bank building and the Vendome Hotel lost their top floors.

Acting Mayor Clayton Saylor of Sarnia called it "one of the worst disasters that ever hit this part of the country."

Flood Crest Passes

Louisiana, was expected to crest at Orange about 6 a. m. (CST) tomorrow two feet over the severe 1945 flood.

Hundreds of navy reservists in southern Texas and Lake Charles and Texas National Guardsmen were called out to help fight the rampaging Sabine.

Volunteers Used

Police used civilian volunteers to guard vacated houses in Lake Charles subdivisions to the east and north where the Calcasieu river spread over scores of acres. More than 600 homes were standing in floor-level water.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury May 20: Net budget receipts $243,321,372.92. Budget expenditures $262,883,229.28. Cash balance $3,909,525,903.78. Customs receipts for month $33,706,279.48. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $54,120,389,787.73. Budget expenditures fiscal year $64,459,109,706.39. Budget deficit $10,338,719,918.66. Total debt $265,799,021,336.03. Increase over previous day $46,119,595.28. Gold assets $22,561,704,126.57.

Central Hudson Dividend

The Board of Directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation at its monthly meeting held at its South road office, Poughkeepsie, today, declared a dividend of $1.12½ per share on its 4½% preferred stock, $1.18¾ per share on its 4.75% preferred stock and $1.31¼ per share on its 5.25% preferred stock, payable July 1, to stockholders of record June 10.

Four Companies Called

Four fire companies were called out by a false alarm sounded from Box 1221 at School No. 8, Prospect street at 4:36 p. m., yesterday. Men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Excelsior Hose Company and Wicks Engine Company responded.

Reds Surrender Boat

Taipeh, Formosa, May 22 (AP)—An armed Communist motor boat surrendered to Chinese Nationalist forces yesterday after three crewmen killed the pilot, the Nationalist Defense Ministry said today.

About the Folks

The condition of former Mayor Roscoe V. Irwin, who was taken suddenly ill at Main and Fair streets several days ago, was reported as "fair" at the Benedictine Hospital today.

Scenes at Kingston High School's May Day Exercises

May Day Exercises Viewed by Hundreds At Athletic Field

Despite threatening skies, the students of Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School had their memorable May Day as scheduled this morning beginning at 10 o'clock. The enthusiasm of the young people pervaded the ranks of their elders as they stood or sat along the banks overlooking the athletic field, and all joined together to honor the seniors and others participating in the day's events.

As though rewarding the young people for their cheerful optimism, the sun shone for a few moments on their popular Queen before the exercises were concluded.

A Lovely May Queen

Led by James Ferraro and Joseph Stein, the lovely May Queen, Margit Medal, and her attractive attendants were given a rousing welcome as the procession entered the field and escorted the Queen to her throne.

The Queen, in her flowing white robes and carrying a large bouquet of American Beauty roses, ascended the especially constructed throne, flanked with evergreens, where she received the greeting of the Prime Minister, Donald Barnes.

Miss Nancy Wilson was the honor attendant. A powder-blue gown and large cascade bouquet of yellow roses enhanced her natural beauty. The members of the court took their places in front of the throne. Their gowns were of soft pastels in pink, aqua and yellow and they carried bouquets of pink roses. The court attendants were Rosemary Doyle, Patricia Cullum, Ellen O'Reilly, Helen Casperson, Carolyn Tremper and Eileen Sicker.

The little train-bearers Marcia Jean Miller and Linda Krom showed great poise as they played their roles in a very matter-of-fact manner. Timothy O'Reilly, too, fulfiller his duty as crown-bearer with the greatest restraint.

Team Captains Honored

Queen Margit's first official act was to award roses to the team captains. They are football co-captains, Edward Van Loan and Patrick Manfro; baseball, Charles Engle; basketball, William DuBois and George Telèpas; track, John Mazzucca; cross-country, Arthur W. Miller; tennis, John T. Schoonmaker; golf, Harold Van Aken; cheerleaders, Dianne Johnson.

Roses were also given by the queen to physical education instructors Miss Dolores Filardi of MJM, Miss Patricia Nalton, KHS; and Miss Mary Leach, girls physical director.

A musical program was presented prior to the opening of the exercises, by the high school band, under the direction of Marlin E. Morrette.

KHS, MJM Staffs

While the presentation of the successful program required the cooperation of the entire staffs of KHS and MJM, coordination of the exercises was in the capable hands of Miss Mary Leach, Miss Madeline Tarrant, dramatic director, G. Warren Kias, athletic director, and the acting principal Theron L. Culver.

Following an address by the Prime Minister, the crowning of the Queen took place. She responded graciously, and presented roses to the captains of athletic teams at the high school.

"This day is truly a joyous and momentous one in the lives of the seniors," said the Prime Minister, after greeting members of the faculty, students, and friends in attendance.

The Prime Minister then continued, "today in keeping with the coronation year, we have gathered together to witness the crowning of our beautiful May Queen. Many of you who are with us at today's festivities have attended previous May Day exercises and we hope that you will attend many more in the future; however, we are justly proud in feeling that you will remember this day longer than any other.

"We hope, in addition to the crowning ceremony, that you will enjoy the other parts of the program. On behalf of the Senior Class I extend a hearty and cordial welcome to you.

"And now, Queen Margit, we trust that your reign may be a happy and successful one. May the memories of this joyous occasion be cherished by you, your classmates, and all your royal subjects throughout the year to come. It is my great honor to crown thee, beautiful Margit, "Queen of the May."

Greatest Moment, Says Queen

Queen Margit extended a hearty welcome, and said to all the seniors, "This is indeed the greatest moment of my life, being elected Queen to reign over these May Day festivities. The honor which you have shown me is one that I shall treasure always.

There is an old tradition in the celebration of May Day. To us, the seniors, it marks the end of four years of learning in happy association with teachers and students. But it also reminds us that we are soon to part, most of us to go out in the world to put to actual use what we have learned here at our dear school. We carry with us many pleasant memories of good friends and happy occasions that we have shared as students at KHS.

"In the words of a famous poet, 'Laugh and be merry together, Glad till the dancing stops, and the lilt of the music ends. Laugh till the game is played; and be you merry, my friends.'

"And now we are ready to enjoy the interesting program which the physical education teachers of Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School have prepared for our entertainment."

A spectacular demonstration of skill and timing was exhibited by the MJM tumblers, which was greeted by a spontaneous response from the large audience.

Marching and twirling drills were presented. The marchers, all members of the Senior Leaders Club, showed the result of excellent training in the precision which they exhibited throughout the drill.

The twirlers were a graceful group, displaying a fine rhythm and sureness as they executed their intricate feats.

Unusual agility was manifested by the boys participating in the boxing exhibitions. Sprightly in general, the boys exhibited a noticeable alertness in their efforts to avoid opponents blows.

One of the highlights of the morning exercises came with the colorful May Pole dance executed by attractive members of the Junior Leaders Club. The girls, attired in white blouses and pastel colored skirts were impressive as they tripped gaily through the classic steps.

The names of students who participated in the exercises follow:

Weather Slows Korean Fronts

Seoul, May 22 (AP)—Cold rain and windstorms lashed the quiet Korean battle front today and grounded Allied attack planes.

The Fifth Air Force reported it sent only weather reconnaissance planes over Red Korea.

During the night only a few light bombs hit Red targets and an all-weather Starfire reported probably damaging one Red jet in a radar-directed dogfight.

An American patrol which raided a Chinese company in the Chorwon Valley provided the day's biggest ground action.

A reconnaissance patrol uncovered the Chinese company first in the Jackson Heights area and called in the raiding unit after a 40 minute clash.

The raiders said 83 Chinese were killed or wounded in the three-hour clash.

Air Force Sees

air force's strength to 114 wings, and still say that the air force will be more powerful in 1954 than if the original plan had been followed of building a 143-wing air force by 1954?"

Wings vary from 30 to 75 aircraft, depending upon type.

Air Force Statement

The air force report filed by Yorty said the budget cutback, from $16,778,000,000 to $11,688,000,000 would have this effect:

1. Stretch out the air buildup to 120 wings by June 30, 1956, against the Truman administration goal of 143 wings by mid-1955 which the air force supported as "the absolute minimum in order to attain adequate national security in view of the military strength of the Soviet Union." In 1951, the report said, the air force recommended 155 wings "to support the basic national security policy."

2. Force the additional elimination of 89 non-flying supply units and a number of wings and squadrons from such aerial support forces as transport, reconnaissance and a liaison services.

3. Reduce personnel from present strength of 980,000 to 960,000 on June 20, 1955—as some 5,000 less than the report said were essential to man 120 wings.

4. Limit next year's spending to $15,000,000,000 and cause a "delaying or cancelling" of some contracts, resulting in "some reductions" in the standards of equipment.

5. A three billion dollar cut in requested new appropriations causing delay in aircraft deliveries scheduled for the next two years to "maintain a going aircraft industry." Otherwise, the report said, "large segments of the aircraft industry" might cut back so sharply they could not undertake future orders.

The report said the air force also would feel the effect during the next three years of cuts totalling 675 million dollars in construction and equipment funds not counting money for aircraft.

The report said the air force now has 106 wings. Chairman Short, (R.-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee has said only 93 wings are at full or almost full strength.

Democrats Refuse

news conference yesterday the administration was "considering everything."

Some Democrats cited a paragraph in Eisenhower's tax message to Congress Wednesday which said, "a wide variety of existing excise rates make little economic sense and leads to improper discrimination between industries and among consumers."

One of the chief arguments for a uniform national sales tax has been that it would equalize the present system of widely varied excise or sales tax rates on scores and scores of individual items.

Congress traditionally has regarded a national sales tax as political dynamite.

An extension of the excess profits tax to Dec. 31 has been opposed so far by a majority of Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee, which holds the fate of the Eisenhower proposal in its hands. The committee normally starts all tax bills through Congress. Both sides agree the tax extension probably would be approved if it reached the House and Senate floors.

Jury Is Selected To Try Vincent; Appears in Court

A city court jury was selected today for the trial of Robert Vincent, 52, of Terrence street, May 29, on a gambling charge.

Vincent, one of several men arrested, in a gambling raid April 29 at 650 Broadway, was reported ill when he was due to report in city court earlier in the week and City Judge Raymond J. Mino ordered that a doctor's certificate be produced. Vincent was present in court today.

Vincent was arrested on a charge dealing with the alleged rental of space for gambling purposes. Attorney Sherwood E. Davis appears for Vincent and S. James Matthews today represented the district attorney's office.

Peter Cerasaro, 35, of Lucas avenue extension, who was arrested with Vincent on a similar charge, is due for trial May 28. A city court jury was drawn yesterday for the trial.

DIED

Memoriam

In loving memory of my darling mother, Susie Elliott who departed this life two years ago May 22, 1951.

A place in my heart has been left vacant,
By a precious one who is gone—
From our arms to the Master in Heaven,
Rest in peace everlastingly on.
No words can express how we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain—
We have suffered, Mother, without you
Life will never be the same.

Sadly missed,
MRS. ERNEST NEILSEN,
Daughter.

FREDERICK L. ANDERSON

Paris, May 22 (AP)—Ambassador Frederick L. Anderson, deputy special representative for U. S. aid in Europe, announced his resignation today. The White House has accepted it.

Anderson, World War 2 air force major general, was appointed to the post in March, 1952. His resignation follows that of his chief, Ambassador William H. Draper, who is returning to private business.

Anderson, a native of Kingston, was graduated from Kingston High School and from the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Mistrial Declared

was prejudicial, particularly with the fact that "the newspapers are full of this stuff," referring to congressional inquiries. He pointed out that at the inquest Avis was informed that he had a constitutional right not to testify, but that if he did, anything he said might be used against him.

Cashin said that the reference had an implication that Avis was under some criminal charge, which was not the case, and that the false implication 'cannot be erased."

Argues for Denial

Keegan argued for a denial of the motion, and suggested that "if counsel is sincere," the jury be put in the box and polled, and asked individually if they were prejudiced by the remark. Judge Cashin countered that this procedure would only aggravate the matter.

Justice Deckelman warned the attorneys that the only issue involved was whether the client had been prejudiced, and that the expense of a mistrial was irrevelant.

Court was then adjourned and Justice Deckelman retired to chambers for about 20 minutes.

When he returned to the bench, Justice Deckelman declared that "in my opinion the remark led to the inference that Avis was under some criminal charge. The motion to withdraw the jurors and declare a mistrial is granted."

Didn't Have on Glasses

At this point, Keegan rose and said he would like to say a few things "for the record." He contended that one lady member of the jury had said she had worked in Judge Cashin's household "for a number of years," and that Cashin "never mentioned that." When Judge Cashin was asked about it later, Keegan said, "he didn't have his glasses on."

Keegan made several other statements, including a reference to the fact that Judge Cashin was present when the jury list was drawn.

"These are the things I recall and put behind me," Keegan said, continuing his remarks for the record.

He asked to have the jury list marked for exhibit, and Justice Deckelman so directed.

Justice Deckelman then asked Judge Cashin if he wanted to say anything.

"Of course I do," Judge Cashin said. "I think these remarks are totally unfair and totally uncalled for."

Judge Cashin pointed out that as county judge and under the commissioner of jurors' system in Ulster county he attended the drawing of the jury list "pursuant to law." He continued, "I do not draw the list."

"I take it as a personal affront to my professional integrity," Judge Cashin said further in reference to Keegan's remarks.

Calls It 'Lie'

"As far as this woman who said she worked for me a number of years—that's a lie," Cashin declared. He said that the woman may have been in his house on several occasions as extra help during a party.

It was also pointed out that the county judge has a legal right to practice law in courts other than his own.

The actions at trial included one brought by Joseph and Adeline Bua of Brooklyn against Avis, one by Avis against the Buas, and one by Dora Leventhal against the Buas and Avis. Max Leventhal, it was pointed out, was a passenger and could not be held negligent and therefore would have to collect from whichever or both of the other parties found negligent. Avis was the driver of the automobile in which Leventhal, his father-in-law, was riding, and Joseph Bua was the driver of the other, which was owned by his wife, Adeline Bua.

The firm of Cashin and Ewig represented Avis; Keegan represented Mrs. Leventhal as executrix, and the firm of Santagata and Santagata of Brooklyn represented Mr. and Mrs. Bua.

Cases No. 124 and 125 were scheduled to go on trial this morning.

Dulles Asks Russia

United States, France and the Soviet Union are due to meet in London May 27 to resume the long-deadlocked Austrian negotiations. The meeting has been widely billed in the west as a chance for the Russians to prove the sincerity of their peace talk, presumably by agreeing to western demands.

(Truce negotiations on Korea are due to resume at Panmunjom on Monday. Recent reports—not contradicted by official U. S. sources—have said that the Americans are readying new proposals bringing their previous proposals much closer to the last Communist demands for the handling of prisoners of war who refused repatriation).

Meets With Newsmen

Dulles met with some 100 Indian and foreign newsmen as he wound up a three-day visit here prior to his departure for Karachi, capital of neighboring Pakistan.

To a left-wing journalist who implied that the U. S. feared the Soviet Union, Dulles retorted, "The United States is not afraid of the Communist bloc. We are entirely confident of our strength and power."

Dulles told another newsman that the U. S. "of course" is not "satisfied with the present stalemate of distrust.

"As long as the Korean war goes on," he declared, "it is difficult not to have distrust. The Soviet Communists could bring about a stoppage of aggression in Laos. They could sign an Austrian treaty. The United States has made concession after concession on the Austrian question."

Five Persons

listed in critical conditions.

In Sarnia, more than 50 persons were treated for wounds and 15 of them were hospitalized.

The storm spent its fury over Lake Ontario after hedgehopping from southeastern Michigan across southwest Ontario Province. It left destruction along a 40 mile path.

The business district of the oil refining center of Sarnia bore the full brunt of the storm. Bulldozers had to clear away the rubble.

Mostly Residential

In the Port Huron area, damage was mostly to residential property. Many persons reported lucky escapes as their homes vanished into the howling wind.

The twister dipped and rose freakishly from St. Clair county, Mich., through Memphis, Columbus, and Smiths Creek before hitting southern Port Huron at 4:40 p. m. (EST).

Roaring across the St. Clair river, the storm hit the Sarnia business district. The Imperial Bank building and the Vendome Hotel lost their top floors.

Acting Mayor Clayton Saylor of Sarnia called it "one of the worst disasters that ever hit this part of the country."

Flood Crest Passes

Louisiana, was expected to crest at Orange about 6 a. m. (CST) tomorrow two feet over the severe 1945 flood.

Hundreds of navy reservists in southern Texas and Lake Charles and Texas National Guardsmen were called out to help fight the rampaging Sabine.

Volunteers Used

Police used civilian volunteers to guard vacated houses in Lake Charles subdivisions to the east and north where the Calcasieu river spread over scores of acres. More than 600 homes were standing in floor-level water.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury May 20: Net budget receipts $243,321,372.92. Budget expenditures $262,883,229.28. Cash balance $3,909,525,903.78. Customs receipts for month $33,706,279.48. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $54,120,389,787.73. Budget expenditures fiscal year $64,459,109,706.39. Budget deficit $10,338,719,918.66. Total debt $265,799,021,336.03. Increase over previous day $46,119,595.28. Gold assets $22,561,704,126.57.

Central Hudson Dividend

The Board of Directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation at its monthly meeting held at its South road office, Poughkeepsie, today, declared a dividend of $1.12½ per share on its 4½% preferred stock, $1.18¾ per share on its 4.75% preferred stock and $1.31¼ per share on its 5.25% preferred stock, payable July 1, to stockholders of record June 10.

Four Companies Called

Four fire companies were called out by a false alarm sounded from Box 1221 at School No. 8, Prospect street at 4:36 p. m., yesterday. Men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Excelsior Hose Company and Wicks Engine Company responded.

Reds Surrender Boat

Taipeh, Formosa, May 22 (AP)—An armed Communist motor boat surrendered to Chinese Nationalist forces yesterday after three crewmen killed the pilot, the Nationalist Defense Ministry said today.

About the Folks

The condition of former Mayor Roscoe V. Irwin, who was taken suddenly ill at Main and Fair streets several days ago, was reported as "fair" at the Benedictine Hospital today.

Scenes at Kingston High School's May Day Exercises

May Day Exercises Viewed by Hundreds At Athletic Field

Despite threatening skies, the students of Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School had their memorable May Day as scheduled this morning beginning at 10 o'clock. The enthusiasm of the young people pervaded the ranks of their elders as they stood or sat along the banks overlooking the athletic field, and all joined together to honor the seniors and others participating in the day's events.

As though rewarding the young people for their cheerful optimism, the sun shone for a few moments on their popular Queen before the exercises were concluded.

A Lovely May Queen

Led by James Ferraro and Joseph Stein, the lovely May Queen, Margit Medal, and her attractive attendants were given a rousing welcome as the procession entered the field and escorted the Queen to her throne.

The Queen, in her flowing white robes and carrying a large bouquet of American Beauty roses, ascended the especially constructed throne, flanked with evergreens, where she received the greeting of the Prime Minister, Donald Barnes.

Miss Nancy Wilson was the honor attendant. A powder-blue gown and large cascade bouquet of yellow roses enhanced her natural beauty. The members of the court took their places in front of the throne. Their gowns were of soft pastels in pink, aqua and yellow and they carried bouquets of pink roses. The court attendants were Rosemary Doyle, Patricia Cullum, Ellen O'Reilly, Helen Casperson, Carolyn Tremper and Eileen Sicker.

The little train-bearers Marcia Jean Miller and Linda Krom showed great poise as they played their roles in a very matter-of-fact manner. Timothy O'Reilly, too, fulfiller his duty as crown-bearer with the greatest restraint.

Team Captains Honored

Queen Margit's first official act was to award roses to the team captains. They are football co-captains, Edward Van Loan and Patrick Manfro; baseball, Charles Engle; basketball, William DuBois and George Telepas; track, John Mazzucca; cross-country, Arthur W. Miller; tennis, John T. Schoonmaker; golf, Harold Van Aken; cheerleaders, Dianne Johnson.

Roses were also given by the queen to physical education instructors Miss Dolores Filardi of MJM, Miss Patricia Nalton, KHS; and Miss Mary Leach, girls physical director.

A musical program was presented prior to the opening of the exercises, by the high school band, under the direction of Marlin E. Morrette.

KHS, MJM Staffs

While the presentation of the successful program required the cooperation of the entire staffs of KHS and MJM, coordination of the exercises was in the capable hands of Miss Mary Leach, Miss Madeline Tarrant, dramatic director, G. Warren Kias, athletic director, and the acting principal Theron L. Culver.

Following an address by the Prime Minister, the crowning of the Queen took place. She responded graciously, and presented roses to the captains of athletic teams at the high school.

"This day is truly a joyous and momentous one in the lives of the seniors," said the Prime Minister, after greeting members of the faculty, students, and friends in attendance.

The Prime Minister then continued, "today in keeping with the coronation year, we have gathered together to witness the crowning of our beautiful May Queen. Many of you who are with us at today's festivities have attended previous May Day exercises and we hope that you will attend many more in the future; however, we are justly proud in feeling that you will remember this day longer than any other.

"We hope, in addition to the crowning ceremony, that you will enjoy the other parts of the program. On behalf of the Senior Class I extend a hearty and cordial welcome to you.

"And now, Queen Margit, we trust that your reign may be a happy and successful one. May the memories of this joyous occasion be cherished by you, your classmates, and all your royal subjects throughout the year to come. It is my great honor to crown thee, beautiful Margit, "Queen of the May."

Greatest Moment, Says Queen

Queen Margit extended a hearty welcome, and said to all the seniors, "This is indeed the greatest moment of my life, being elected Queen to reign over these May Day festivities. The honor which you have shown me is one that I shall treasure always.

There is an old tradition in the celebration of May Day. To us, the seniors, it marks the end of four years of learning in happy association with teachers and students. But it also reminds us that we are soon to part, most of us to go out in the world to put to actual use what we have learned here at our dear school. We carry with us many pleasant memories of good friends and happy occasions that we have shared as students at KHS.

"In the words of a famous poet, 'Laugh and be merry together,
Glad till the dancing stops, and the lilt of the music ends.
Laugh till the game is played; and be you merry, my friends.'

"And now we are ready to enjoy the interesting program which the physical education teachers of Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School have prepared for our entertainment."

A spectacular demonstration of skill and timing was exhibited by the MJM tumblers, which was greeted by a spontaneous response from the large audience.

Marching and twirling drills were presented. The marchers, all members of the Senior Leaders Club, showed the result of excellent training in the precision which they exhibited throughout the drill.

The twirlers were a graceful group, displaying a fine rhythm and sureness as they executed their intricate feats.

Unusual agility was manifested by the boys participating in the boxing exhibitions. Sprightly in general, the boys exhibited a noticeable alertness in their efforts to avoid opponents blows.

One of the highlights of the morning exercises came with the colorful May Pole dance executed by attractive members of the Junior Leaders Club. The girls, attired in white blouses and pastel colored skirts were impressive as they tripped gaily through the classic steps.

The names of students who participated in the exercises follow:

Weather Slows Korean Fronts

Seoul, May 22 (AP)—Cold rain and windstorms lashed the quiet Korean battle front today and grounded Allied attack planes.

The Fifth Air Force reported it sent only weather reconnaissance planes over Red Korea.

During the night only a few light bombs hit Red targets and an all-weather Starfire reported probably damaging one Red jet in a radar-directed dogfight.

An American patrol which raided a Chinese company in the Chorwon Valley provided the day's biggest ground action.

A reconnaissance patrol uncovered the Chinese company first in the Jackson Heights area and called in the raiding unit after a 40 minute clash.

The raiders said 83 Chinese were killed or wounded in the three-hour clash.

Air Force Sees

air force's strength to 114 wings, and still say that the air force will be more powerful in 1954 than if the original plan had been followed of building a 143-wing air force by 1954?"

Wings vary from 30 to 75 aircraft, depending upon type.

Air Force Statement

The air force report filed by Yorty said the budget cutback, from $16,778,000,000 to $11,688,000,000 would have this effect:

1. Stretch out the air buildup to 120 wings by June 30, 1956, against the Truman administration goal of 143 wings by mid-1955 which the air force supported as "the absolute minimum in order to attain adequate national security in view of the military strength of the Soviet Union." In 1951, the report said, the air force recommended 155 wings "to support the basic national security policy."

2. Force the additional elimination of 89 non-flying supply units and a number of wings and squadrons from such aerial support forces as transport, reconnaissance and a liaison services.

3. Reduce personnel from present strength of 980,000 to 960,000 on June 20, 1955—as some 5,000 less than the report said were essential to man 120 wings.

4. Limit next year's spending to $15,000,000,000 and cause a "delaying or cancelling" of some contracts, resulting in "some reductions" in the standards of equipment.

5. A three billion dollar cut is requested new appropriations causing delay in aircraft deliveries scheduled for the next two years to "maintain a going aircraft industry." Otherwise, the report said, "large segments of the aircraft industry" might cut back so sharply they could not undertake future orders.

The report said the air force also would feel the effect during the next three years of cuts totaling 675 million dollars in construction and equipment funds not counting money for aircraft.

The report said the air force now has 106 wings. Chairman Short, (R.-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee has said only 93 wings are at full or almost full strength.

news conference yesterday the administration was "considering everything."

Some Democrats cited a paragraph in Eisenhower's tax message to Congress Wednesday which said, "a wide variety of existing excise rates make little economic sense and leads to improper discrimination between industries and among consumers."

One of the chief arguments for a uniform national sales tax has been that it would equalize the present system of widely varied excise or sales tax rates on scores and scores of individual items.

Congress traditionally has regarded a national sales tax as political dynamite.

An extension of the excess profits tax to Dec. 31 has been opposed so far by a majority of Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee, which holds the fate of the Eisenhower proposal in its hands. The committee normally starts all tax bills through Congress. Both sides agree the tax extension probably would be approved if it reached the House and Senate floors.

As Pegler Sees It

long as they could make gain out of falsehood.

I courtecusly call this passage to Mr. Sulzberger's attention as a warning that interpretation can get out of hand. Not that he needs telling, the same could be said today of some editors moved by the passions of the crusader.

Now, on the other hand, I find Mr. Sulzberger on the rostrum again, speaking to Sigma Delta Chi, an insubstantial fraternity of journalists. This time he is saying: "The citizen has the right to a free press, one which welcomes criticism and which admits that the manner in which it presents the news is a matter of legitimate public concern." He also said some newspapers fell short of the need for eternal vigilance to see that the news columns were objective and unbiased.

The man who at Columbia had repudiated the objectivity of Adolph Ochs for the interpretation of Sulzberger now expressed concern over the newspaper which "when the going gets hot, throws away all of its protestations of virtue and plays the news and writes the heads in a manner to suit the editorial beliefs of its publisher."

Well, darn me, if that isn't just what I thought he said he and the Times did when that "something new emerged, a new form of journalism shaped to fit the period."

I am glad Mr. Sulzberger welcomes criticism and believe he should communicate his noble sentiment to those of his brethren who have been acting as though it were heresy to the sacred constitution for Joe McCarthy to criticize or question any editor for anything. And this big bull-of-the-woods should bear in mind that distortion and deceptive coloration can be achieved by the negative process of suppressing material facts. I reminded him of this in a letter last fall. The example was a passionate political diatribe in the guise of a book review written by John B. Oakes, a member of the Times editorial board, which abounded in dirty insinuations and concealed from readers of the Times the controlling facts that one of the authors of the book was a professional snoop for Drew Pearson and that McCarthy had kicked hell out of Pearson in a public place. The book was a trashy campaign blast against McCarthy.

Neither Sulzberger nor Oakes of his editorial board answered my letter of challenge. How could they? They were guilty of the very sin which the boy who married the boss's daughter condemned when he said some papers fell short of the need for eternal vigilance to see that the news columns were objective and unbiased.

Use Deception; Win Many Games

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Fifty-six teams entered the recent Industrial and Commercial Team Contest in the Eastern States Regional Tournament. The members of this league are various commercial and industrial companies in the neighborhood of New York, and each player on a team has to be an employe of the company that he represents.

The standard of play in this tournament is very high since some of the best players in New York work for big companies and are thus eligible to play on these teams.

Today's hand was played in this contest by Wellington I. T. Sun, once of Shanghai, but now with the George S. Colley Associates in New York. Sun ambitiously bid four spades with the South cards and managed to "steal" this contract by means of a deceptive play.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit when East signaled encouragement. Sun ruffed the third round of hearts and quietly played his ace of clubs.

West couldn't tell from which direction the attack was going to come. It was possible that South held the ace-king-ten of clubs and was planning to finesse for the queen later on. Hence West played his low club—a grievous error, as it turned out.

Declarer next played a spade to dummy's jack in order to try the finesse of the diamond queen. When this held he cashed the ace of diamonds, entered dummy with the ace of spades, and ruffed dummy's last diamond.

The stripping process now complete, Sun led a low club from his hand.

The defenders were now helpless. If West held the trick with his queen of clubs, he would then have to return a heart or a diamond. In either case, dummy's last club would be discarded while South ruffed. If East overtook with the king of clubs in order to rescue his partner, dummy's jack of clubs would become established.

If West had dropped his queen of clubs under the ace, the contract would have been defeated. East would be in position to win two club tricks with his king and ten, and the end play would therefore fail. If declarer had led the ace of clubs late instead of early, West might have seen the danger and thrown his queen. The early play of the ace of clubs trapped West.

Appraises Americans

Rockport, Me. (AP)—The outstanding elements in the character of American people are cooperativeness, courage and candor, says a Hindu savant.

Dr. D. G. Vinod, a friend of the late Mahatma Gandhi, has just completed six months as a research consultant at the Round Table Foundation in Glen Cove. The scientist says he doesn's believe Americans are "a group of rank materialists tied down to adolescent interests, such as sex and sports.

"Some degree of insensitiveness to the higher values of life and some insularity qualify the American temperament," he added, but he believes these are being overcome rapidly.

Chinese Report Famine

Hong Kong (AP) — The Chinese Communist radio at Chungking says the farmers in a huge rice area in Szechwan province are conquering a "serious spring famine." The area, bound by the Yangtze and Kialing rivers and the towns of Chungking, Wanhsien and Paoning, is triangular shaped and is about 200 miles deep and 300 miles across at its base, the radio said. The broadcast referred to it as a "disaster area" but said the peak of the famine had passed.

Here's Your Warning

New York, May 22 (AP)—This household warning came today from the American Museum of Natural History: Moths and beetles now are laying their eggs in your choice woolens, and the first larvae already are hatching and starting to feed. They'll keep feeding all summer.

As Pegler Sees It

long as they could make gain out of falsehood.

I courteously call this passage to Mr. Sulzberger's attention as a warning that interpretation can get out of hand. Not that he needs telling, the same could be said today of some editors moved by the passions of the crusader.

Now, on the other hand, I find Mr. Sulzberger on the rostrum again, speaking to Sigma Delta Chi, an insubstantial fraternity of journalists. This time he is saying: "The citizen has the right to a free press, one which welcomes criticism and which admits that the manner in which it presents the news is a matter of legitimate public concern." He also said some newspapers fell short of the need for eternal vigilance to see that the news columns were objective and unbiased.

The man who at Columbia had repudiated the objectivity of Adolph Ochs for the interpretation of Sulzberger now expressed concern over the newspaper which "when the going gets hot, throws away all of its protestations of virtue and plays the news and writes the heads in a manner to suit the editorial beliefs of its publisher."

Well, darn me, if that isn't just what I thought he said he and the Times did when that "something new emerged, a new form of journalism shaped to fit the period."

I am glad Mr. Sulzberger welcomes criticism and believe he should communicate his noble sentiment to those of his brethren who have been acting as though it were heresy to the sacred constitution for Joe McCarthy to criticize or question any editor for anything. And this big bull-of-the-woods should bear in mind that distortion and deceptive coloration can be achieved by the negative process of suppressing material facts. I reminded him of this in a letter last fall. The example was a passionate political diatribe in the guise of a book review written by John B. Oakes, a member of the Times editorial board, which abounded in dirty insinuations and concealed from readers of the Times the controlling facts that one of the authors of the book was a professional snoop for Drew Pearson and that McCarthy had kicked hell out of Pearson in a public place. The book was a trashy campaign blast against McCarthy.

Neither Sulzberger nor Oakes of his editorial board answered my letter of challenge. How could they? They were guilty of the very sin which the boy who married the boss's daughter condemned when he said some papers fell short of the need for eternal vigilance to see that the news columns were objective and unbiased.

Use Deception; Win Many Games

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Fifty-six teams entered the recent Industrial and Commercial Team Contest in the Eastern States Regional Tournament. The members of this league are various commercial and industrial companies in the neighborhood of New York, and each player on a team has to be an employe of the company that he represents.

The standard of play in this tournament is very high since some of the best players in New York work for big companies and are thus eligible to play on these teams.

Today's hand was played in this contest by Wellington I. T. Sun, once of Shanghai, but now with the George S. Colley Associates in New York. Sun ambitiously bid four spades with the South cards and managed to "steal" this contract by means of a deceptive play.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit when East signaled encouragement. Sun ruffed the third round of hearts and quietly played his ace of clubs.

West couldn't tell from which direction the attack was going to come. It was possible that South held the ace-king-ten of clubs and was planning to finesse for the queen later on. Hence West played his low club—a grievous error, as it turned out.

Declarer next played a spade to dummy's jack in order to try the finesse of the diamond queen. When this held he cashed the ace of diamonds, entered dummy with the ace of spades, and ruffed dummy's last diamond.

The stripping process now complete, Sun led a low club from his hand.

The defenders were now helpless. If West held the trick with his queen of clubs, he would then have to return a heart or a diamond. In either case, dummy's last club would be discarded while South ruffed. If East overtook with the king of clubs in order to rescue his partner, dummy's jack of clubs would become established.

If West had dropped his queen of clubs under the ace, the contract would have been defeated. East would be in position to win two club tricks with his king and ten, and the end play would therefore fail. If declarer had led the ace of clubs late instead of early, West might have seen the danger and thrown his queen. The early play of the ace of clubs trapped West.

Appraises Americans

Rockport, Me. (AP)—The outstanding elements in the character of American people are cooperativeness, courage and candor, says a Hindu savant.

Dr. D. G. Vinod, a friend of the late Mahatma Gandhi, has just completed six months as a research consultant at the Round Table Foundation in Glen Cove. The scientist says he doesn's believe Americans are "a group of rank materialists tied down to adolescent interests, such as sex and sports.

"Some degree of insensitiveness to the higher values of life and some insularity qualify the American temperament," he added, but he believes these are being overcome rapidly.

Bows Start Dispute

Taipeh, Formosa (AP)—Quite a controversy has developed on Formosa as to whether it is idolatry for a Christian to bow before a portrait of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Republic of China. The controversy, which has been going on behind the scenes, has sprung into the open with letters to the editors. Many Christian students hold that it is idolatory to bow before the statues or pictures of Dr. Sun. Nonsense, said the Ministry of Education. Students in public schools, as are all Chinese citizens at all public meetings and ceremonies, are required to bow before Dr. Sun to show their loyalty to the nation.

Melodious Profanity

(From the Milwaukee Journal)

Although he wrote like an angel, Mark Twain could swear like a trooper. Whenever he became angry he would let loose a torrent of profanity that would cause his horrified wife to flee.

One morning, however, when Twain cut himself while shaving and gave vent to his unusual imprecations, she decided to give him a taste of his own medicine. Holding her ground, she repeated his speech, word for word.

Twain waited patiently for her to finish, then, shaking his head, he said:

"You know the words, my dear, but you don't carry the melody."

Mr. and Mrs. Finch, former resident now living in the northern part of the state, were on a visit to his parents Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Finch.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. Stewart MacCall arrived Wednesday to take up their residence in the Presbyterian manse. Their furniture arrived last week. Mr. MacCall graduated Tuesday from Union Seminary, New York.

Frank LaFalce, former athletic coach in the Central School, continues to make headlines as coach of athletic teams at Gouverneur Central School, chief of which is a new contract for next year with a substantial increase in salary over his present salary of $6,500. The local Gouverneur paper speaks of Mr. LaFalce and his success in guiding his football, basketball and baseball teams. In baseball there were five straight victories in as many starts. His team is now resting at the top of the Northern League. Basketball, in which he guided the team through its most successful campaign in many years, found his team in second place in the final standings. The playoff berth was the first for Gouverneur in five years. His team defeated Tupper Lake in the final game of the regular season, the first time since the 1945-46 season. Their record is 11 wins, five losses. Six victories and only one defeat in football tells the story of Gouverneur's gridders rising from their usual cellar position in the league to second place. The fans there are rejoicing that LaFalce turned in his signed contract after refusing several lucrative offers from other schools. The paper commented that he not only wins games but builds character.

A committee meeting was held with Mrs. Luther Filkins Tuesday evening to arrange for the annual June Festival of the Methodist Church. The tentative date is for June 30.

Clayton J. Harcourt, Phoenix, Ariz., arrived Sunday and is stopping with his niece Mrs. John F. Wadlin also visiting his sister Miss Laura Harcourt.

The death of Mrs. James Smith occurred Monday afternoon at the Jennings Nursing Home where she had been a patient for several weeks. The Rosary was recited at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Carpenter Funeral Home and services were held at St. Augustine's Church at 10 a. m. Thursday with Father Joseph Flannigan officiating. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Sarah Lannighan and had always resided in Highland. She was 94 years of age and for some time had suffered both blindness and deafness. With all her afflictions she was cheerful and always her thoughts dwelt on past pleasant events. Her husband died in 1935. Her nearest survivors are Mr. and Mrs. James Benson, Highland; Mrs. Margaret Beul, Santa Monica, Calif., and Mrs. Sadie Martin, Poughkeepsie. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery, Poughkeepsie.

Chinese Waiters Testify

New York, May 22 (AP)—Two Chinese waiters testified yesterday at the compulsory prostitution trial of Thomas Masterson, 19, that they met two teen-age girls through Masterson and the girls entertained them after the introduction, receiving $20 each. Masterson, of 1952 Washington avenue, the Bronx, is on trial before Bronx County Judge Eugene G. Schulz and a jury. The girls, Claire Liebman, 17, of 1474 Wilkins avenue, the Bronx, and Maxine Davis, 16, of 249-17 88th road, Bellerose, Queens, have testified they paid Masterson money they received for their favors.

The juice of grapes before it becomes wine is called "must" by winemakers.

Horse Show Chairmen Report on Woodstock Event, June 28

Reports on the progress of the forthcoming 7th annual Spring Horse Show were presented by committee chairmen at a regular meeting of the Woodstock Riding Club Thursday evening in the Dutch Reformed Church hall, Woodstock. The show is scheduled for the club's Ohayo Mountain Ring on Sunday, June 28. Chairmen and show officers present included from left, seated, Mrs. Virgil VanWagonen, secretary; Mrs. George M. Hard, (Freeman society editor) general chairman; and Mrs. Frielan Van de Bogart, treasurer. Standing, in the usual order, Virgil VanWagonen, entries chairman; Griffin Herrick, president and grounds chairman; Mrs. Herbert H. Cutler, AHSA steward and prize-list chairman; and Frielan Van de Bogart, stabling and jumps chairman. (Freeman photo)

Graduation Candidate

SANDRA SILK

Among the 286 candidates for graduation from Mount Holyoke College is Miss Sandra Silk, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Silk of 94 Main street.

Miss Silk, who graduated from Kingston High School, has majored in history at Mount Holyoke. At the end of her sophomore year Miss Silk was named a Sarah Williston Scholar, recognition given to those students who have ranked high in their academic work for their first two years at Mount Holyoke.

Miss Silk was a member of her class choir for two years, on the advertising board of the Mount Holyoke News and a solicitor for the Student Fund Bazaar held in her sophomore year. She has also been an active member of the International Relations Club.

President Roswell Gray Ham will speak at the baccalaureate service Sunday, June 7, and Willard L. Thorp, director of the Merrill School of Economics and former assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, will deliver the commencement address on Monday, June 8.

Awards Totaling Over $1,000 to Be Given At Area Horse Show

Awards totaling more than $1,000 will be presented at the Seventh Annual Horse Show to be sponsored by the Woodstock Riding Club, a regular show member of the American Horse Shows Association. The awards will include trophies, cash prizes and ribbons.

The announcement was made by Mrs. George M. Hard, show chairman, at a meeting of the organization held Thursday evening in the Dutch Reformed Church hall, Woodstock. Griffin Herrick, president, conducted the meeting.

Prize-lists and entry forms will be sent to prospective exhibitors within the next few days. There will be 26 classes run in divisions to include equitation, working hunter, western, jumping, and a group of miscellaneous classes. Championship classes will be held in the working hunter, western, and jumping divisions.

Following the awards' announcement and presentation of the prize-list, Theodore H. Buell, executive secretary, American Horse Shows Association, Inc., of New York, who attended the meeting as a special guest, complimented the club on its selection of classes and the trophies and other awards to be made.

Among other remarks, Mr. Buell also offered commendation to the group upon the way things are shaping up for the show which he attributed to "the fine cooperative spirit of the committee members."

Reports were submitted by the various committees, including those in charge of the club ring, who said work is continuing when weather permits and that the field will be ready for show date.

The rain has hampered the building committee but it anticipates work being started in the near future. J. C. VanRijn, a Woodstock member, presented the club with a contribution of $100 for the building fund.

A social period followed the meeting when refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

JACQUELYN ANN STEUDING

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Steuding of 93 Lucas avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jacquelyn Ann to Cadet-Midshipman Marshall Weston Cone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel T. Cone of North Muskegon, Mich. An August wedding is being planned.

Miss Steuding received her bachelor of science degree in education, at the State University of New York, New Paltz, in June, 1952, where she was a member of Mu Sigma Epsilon, honorary music fraternity, and Clionian Social Sorority. She now holds a position in the Schenectady Public School system.

Cadet-Midshipman Cone is a first classman at the United States Marine Academy, Kings Point, Long Island. He will be graduated in August as an ensign in the United States Navy and Maritime Service, with a bachelor's degree in engineering. He is a member of the Propeller Club of America.

Quick Snack

Here's a quick snack to serve with iced tea: Toast split doughnuts lightly under the broiler, then spread with a mixture of butter or margarine and cinnamon-sugar. Put the dressed-up doughnut halves under the broiler again just until bubbly.

DINING WITH EMPLOYER

The anxiety shown by the writer of the following letter is really not called for: "My husband's employer and his wife invited us to dinner the other evening. These people are years older than we are and hold a very high position in this community. I don't believe that I should invite them to our house although I would not like them to think we did not know how to behave with ordinary decency, by not acknowledging in some way our very enjoyable evening. Will you please tell me what would be proper?"

You have no cause for distress! It is never expected of young employes to return the invitations of their employers.

Belated Announcements

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been married for two years, but it has never been announced. The marriage is not generally known, although a few of our closest friends know of it. The reason why it has been kept secret is because my husband and I work for the same company and there is a ruling against a husband and wife working together. I am about to resign and would like to know if it would be proper to announce the marriage now and omit the wedding date.

Answer: Since you do not want to announce the date of your marriage, I think it would be best as well as simplest, to announce it verbally as you see people and don't give the date. If a curious person insists on knowing when, you can explain your situation as you have just done in your letter to me.

Cross-Stitch Tablecloth

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please advise me on what occasions a cross-stitch tablecloth is proper? The one I have reference to is really quite beautiful, but nevertheless it is still just a cross-stitch tablecloth, and in my opinion is proper only for very casual use I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

Answer: I don't think a cross-stitch tablecloth would be improper on any table, except one set for a large and extremely formal dinner.

When is it proper to use colored linen or place mats? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-32, gives a description of all types of table linen and their use. Innkeeper Says Separate Vacations Bad for Couples

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Women's Editor)

The growing vogue for separate vacations for husband and wife is a short-cut to the divorce court, says Carletto Franzoni, who runs an inn on Shelter Island, off the coast of Long Island, N. Y., and deals in advice to the lovelorn as an inevitable byproduct.

Couple who play together stay together, says the sage of Chequit Inn, and nothing heals an ailing marriage more efficiently than a repeat honeymoon. He adds:

"The divorce rate has risen since the nonsense of separate vacations became fashionable. Separate vacations, separate interests, lead to final separations that never would have happened had husband and wife learned to relax together and enjoy each other, free from the cares of the workaday world."

Disenchanted Years

The "disenchanted years" are most likely to occur at the fourth, tenth and 20th year of marriage, according to Franzoni's observation and the divorce statistics. When you hit one of those arid stretches, he advises, rush for the nearest oasis—together. Here are his 10 commandments for a successful repeat honeymoon.

1. Choose a vacation spot that pleases both husband and wife. (Don't drag the little woman to a camp in the north woods or make a he-man dress up and rumba every night.)

2. Leave all your troubles behind, including the little ones. The children can be parked with grandma (you can arrange for a vacation for grandma when she's able to be up and around again).

Should Cultivate Him

3. Wives should use vacation time to cultivate hubby as a hobby. Learn what he's really like at this point. (Are you sure this is the same guy you married?)

4. It isn't a vacation for the little woman if she must cook and keep house. It should be a real vacation for her, too, with breakfast in bed and no chores. (Two weeks a year can't form a habit of this sort of things, so husbands needn't worry.)

5. Take this time to say nice things to each other. (Compliments often work better than vitamins.)

6. Start out with a promise not to quarrel, and if you do start bickering, kiss and make up at once. (Making up can be fun, too, in case you've forgotten.)

No Nagging

7. Don't nag or make cutting remarks even when John has one too many or Mary orders pie a la mode. (John will feel that Mary is the girl he wooed and won if she skips the sermons.)

8. Laugh together, but not at each other. (A laugh a day keeps the lawyer away.)

9. Try to share the other's idea of fun, whether it's sailing, fishing, bridge or just plain gossip. (Maybe Mary will find she really likes to wrestle with a trout, or John will discover that bridge is nearly as good as poker.)

10. Don't go away with a group, even another couple. (The Joneses may be too exhausting to keep up with, and even best friends shouldn't live together—unless, of course, they are married to each other.)

Franzoni feels that any marriage is worth saving, for economic reasons if for no other. After all, alimony is expensive.

Wedding Plans Told For Joan Whitaker

Miss Joan Whitaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Whitaker, 58 Harwich street, will become the bride of Howard Williams at 3 p. m. Sunday, June 7, in the First Baptist Church. Miss Whitaker was honored at a surprise bridal shower Saturday, in the home of Mrs. William Williams, Lawrenceville street.

Mrs. Clifford Quick was cohostess. In attendance were the Mmes. Howard Whitaker, Gilbert Whitaker, L. H. Churchill, Lottie Miller, Minnie Shultis, Larry Daffgard, John Vogt, Ben Durr, James McGrath, Laura Every, Jacqueline Janasiewiz; and the Misses Doris Harvey, Melania Vertetis, Betty Steltz, Edwina McGowan.

Miss Violet Schmitz has returned to Washington, D. C., after a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmitz of St. Remy.

Chinese Waiters Testify

New York, May 22 (AP)—Two Chinese waiters testified yesterday at the compulsory prostitution trial of Thomas Masterson, 19, that they met two teen-age girls through Masterson and the girls entertained them after the introduction, receiving $20 each. Masterson, of 1952 Washington avenue, the Bronx, is on trial before Bronx County Judge Eugene G. Schulz and a jury. The girls, Claire Liebman, 17, of 1474 Wilkins avenue, the Bronx, and Maxine Davis, 16, of 249-17 88th road, Bellerose, Queens, have testified they paid Masterson money they received for their favors.

Graduation Candidate

SANDRA SILK

Among the 286 candidates for graduation from Mount Holyoke College is Miss Sandra Silk, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Silk of 94 Main street.

Miss Silk, who graduated from Kingston High School, has majored in history at Mount Holyoke. At the end of her sophomore year Miss Silk was named a Sarah Williston Scholar, recognition given to those students who have ranked high in their academic work for their first two years at Mount Holyoke.

Miss Silk was a member of her class choir for two years, on the advertising board of the Mount Holyoke News and a solicitor for the Student Fund Bazaar held in her sophomore year. She has also been an active member of the International Relations Club.

President Roswell Gray Ham will speak at the baccalaureate service Sunday, June 7, and Willard L. Thorp, director of the Merrill School of Economics and former assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, will deliver the commencement address on Monday, June 8.

Awards Totaling Over $1,000 to Be Given At Area Horse Show

Awards totaling more than $1,000 will be presented at the Seventh Annual Horse Show to be sponsored by the Woodstock Riding Club, a regular show member of the American Horse Shows Association. The awards will include trophies, cash prizes and ribbons.

The announcement was made by Mrs. George M. Hard, show chairman, at a meeting of the organization held Thursday evening in the Dutch Reformed Church hall, Woodstock. Griffin Herrick, president, conducted the meeting.

Prize-lists and entry forms will be sent to prospective exhibitors within the next few days. There will be 26 classes run in divisions to include equitation, working hunter, western, jumping, and a group of miscellaneous classes. Championship classes will be held in the working hunter, western, and jumping divisions.

Following the awards' announcement and presentation of the prize-list, Theodore H. Buell, executive secretary, American Horse Shows Association, Inc., of New York, who attended the meeting as a special guest, complimented the club on its selection of classes and the trophies and other awards to be made.

Among other remarks, Mr. Buell also offered commendation to the group upon the way things are shaping up for the show which he attributed to "the fine cooperative spirit of the committee members."

125 Routed by Fire

New York, May 22 (AP)—About 125 sleepy tenants were routed from their apartments in the predawn hours today by a basement fire that melted gas meters and turned them into flaming torches. Two barking dogs sounded the alarm at the scent of smoke, and their owners hurried through the five-story building at 115 West 89th street rousing the slumbering occupants.

Services Slated Sunday for Vets Who Died at Sea

Memorial services for veterans of all wars who died at sea will be held Sunday, May 24, at 3 p. m., on the dock in the rear of the Broadway and Ferry street building at the foot of Canal street.

The services, sponsored by the Kingston Veterans Association, are held annually under the supervision of Auxiliary No. 53 of Tappen Camp No. 1, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

All veterans organizations and their auxiliaries participate in the observance, which each year attracts a good attendance.

The New York State Bridge Authority has granted the privilege of using the ferry shed in the event of stormy weather, in which case the services will begin at 3:20 p. m.

Music will be furnished by the Salvation Army Band, Capt. Lloyd A. Davis, commanding.

Mrs. Hill Shares In Father's Estate

New York, May 22 (Special)—Mrs. Madeleine Hill of Phoenicia is one of the beneficiaries in the estate of her father, the late Oscar C. Dorschel, of 308 East 85th street, New York, according to a report filed here Thursday by the State Transfer Tax Department.

The estate was appraised at $43,245, gross value, and $40,526, net, with real estate comprising $28,500 of the total.

Mrs. Hill inherits one-third of the estate remaining after certain specific bequests have been distributed, and will receive one-half of the principal of a trust fund at the death of her mother. The trust, also comprising one-third of the residuary estate, will provide income for life to her mother, Mrs. Emilie Dorschel of New York.

Mrs. Hill's sister, Mrs. Mildred Ratjen of Forest Park, Ill., receives the same share in the estate as does Mrs. Hill.

Mr. Dorschel died at Phoenicia August 9, 1952.

Students Declare Bingo Is Played

Canton, May 22 (AP)—Two college students claim a bingo game is operating in Canton and want the district attorney to investigate it.

District Attorney Charles E. Bowers of St. Lawrence county said yesterday he planned to talk with the sheriff and state and village police to determine whether the game, as played, is within the law.

Two St. Lawrence University students mailed their complaint to Gov. Dewey. The governor's office sent the letter to Bowers for "your attention and consideration."

Charles Frye, a senior from Teaneck, N. J., and Frank Johnston of Bayside, a graduate student in the theological school, wrote that "these bingo games are held and sponsored by the Knights of Columbus at their local hall here in Canton, N. Y. The price of admission is $2.50 per person and individual prizes range as high as $100."

Bowers said he was "not sure whether the students were serious," but he added that the report would be treated seriously.

"If bingo is being played illegally, it has to be stopped," he said. He indicated that the game apparently was "not a straight bingo game."

The Court of Appeals, Bowers said, decided in a case last year that under a certain set of circumstances bingo was not illegal.

Thursday's Results

Kingston 5, Port Jervis 2.
Poughkeepsie 5, Beacon 3.
Newburgh 5, Middletown 0.

Coach Bill Burke and his Kingston High School varsity teammates have been waiting for a big explosion from Charlie "Chuck" Engle's bat.

Chuck is the left fielder and cleanup hitter, you know.

The script couldn't have been improved on Thursday at municipal stadium.

Pounds Two Big Ones

Engle's hitting has been adequate but to date he had failed to deliver the long ball in the clutch. Well, he connected twice yesterday, accounted for all five runs as Kingston turned back the rugged Port Jervis nine, 5-2, behind a stout pitching performance by Bruce Bechtold.

Bechtold shared honors with Engle, spinning a gaudy six hitter and striking out eight. He had to be that good because Barbarino was adamant except for two relapses against Engle.

First time Engle came to bat in the first inning Paul Gianuzzi and Ed Van Loan were on base as the result of a single and error. Big Chuck slashed a screaming liner up the alley in right center and outlegged the relay to the plate for a three-run homer. That sent the Maroon ahead 3-0 before Mr. Barbarino knew what hit him.

Two innings later, Ed Van Loan was on base when Chuck hammered another long shot to left field. Van Loan scored and Engle pulled up at third. A moment later he scored on a passed ball.

Telepas Relieves

Bechtold gave way to George Telepas when he began to tire in the seventh but the tri-staters failed to score. They picked up single markers in the fourth and fifth innings but by that time the Maroon was ahead 5-0. It was just as well for Barbarino, yielding only four hits, retired the last 10 men in order.

The Kingston triumph kept the DUSO race snarled in a three-team face, with the Maroon, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh deadlocked in the loss column with two setbacks apiece.

Hurls One-Hitter

Newburgh Academy got a one-hit pitching performance out of Bill Short to blank Middletown, 1-0. Redifer and Williams worked for the losers. Short, pitching one of the strong games of the season, allowed only three runners to reach first base.

Coach Sam Kalloch used his usual two-platoon of Bill Hauver and Ralph Nieri to edge Beacon and Tony Komisar, 5 to 3.

The big one next week is Kingston vs. Newburgh at municipal stadium on Thursday.

Native Dancer, Jockey Hot Topics of Talk Around Staid Pimlico

Baltimore, May 22 (AP) — A horse named Native Dancer and a jockey named Eddie Arcaro were two hot topics of conversation today on the event of the Preakness although they won't be together and both were beaten in the Kentucky Derby.

Native Dancer had staid Pimlico as excited as it ever has been in its 83 years of horse racing.

The Alfred G. Vanderbilt gray ghost will have another crack at Harry Guggenheim's Dark Star and five others in the mile and three sixteenths race for $113,750.

The middle gem of the triple crown of racing will be on nationwide radio and television (CBS) 4:45 p. m. (EST).

Since the Derby upheld the cliche that anything can happen in a horse race, the quintet of outsiders isn't being overlooked entirely for another upset.

These include Eugene Constanin Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem, Jim Norris' Jamie K., Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War, Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's Correspondent and Ben Whitaker's Tahitian King.

On the record, Arcaro has the most undistinguished of the lot Jamie K. But whoever the nation's No. 1 jockey rides commands a lot of betting respect and the handicappers figure Arcaro's presence will hike Jamie K to fourth choice behind Native Dancer, Dark Star and Royal Bay Gem.

"Ezzard Charles is too vulnerable and Roland La Starza won't stand up under Rocky Marciano's punching."

That was former champion Joe Louis' quick evaluation of the heavyweight contenders' picture at the moment.

"Charles is the logical contender but La Starza will probably get the first crack at Rocky," the Brown Bomber said during his golf match Wednesday at the Twaalfskill Club.

"Maybe it's just as well," Joe went on. "Charles has held the title and gotten several cracks at it. Maybe it would be better for the game."

Louis believes Charles will look impressive against Marciano, but the inevitable right will catch up with him. For La Starza he holds out little hope. He recalled that when both were amateurs La Starza lost a disputed decision to the Brockton Buster. But today "I don't think La Starza can stand up under Rocky's punching.

"That guy (Marciano) can really hit you," Joe added ruefully. P.S.: Joe should know.

Quite naturally Louis was asked his reaction to the Marciano-Walcott fiasco.

"There's no question about it," said Louis, "Walcott was hit real hard . . . stunned by that right uppercut, but I couldn't see why he didn't grab the strand of rope early in the count and come up to a kneeling position."

Did he think Walcott would continue his boxing career.

"I don't think so," Joe opined. "I think we've seen the last of Jersey Joe.

Golf is Louis' main recreation these days. A natural scratch shooter, he revealed that theatrical duties have kept him off golf courses except for an occasional round this spring. He opens a 10-weeks vaudeville engagement in Chicago on May 29.

"Right now I'm shooting around 5-handicap golf," Joe admitted, "but I hope to get back in the scratch bracket soon."

The big fellow was sartorially resplendent for his first precedent-shattering appearance at Twaalfskill. He's now a solid 225-pounder (ex-245) who once commanded the most devastating pair of fists in the heavyweight division.

Big Joe is on a diet now. No sugar, no starches, no fats. "I ballooned up to 245 right after the Marciano fight," explained Joe, "but I've knocked off 20 pounds and expect to keep on my diet."

Louis wore a mustard color polo shirt, rich wine-colored slacks, a white seaman's cap and black shoes with front laps. He looks every inch the professional golfer.

Louis is all of that, featuring a finely-grooved swing and getting tremendous distance off the tees from those massive, muscular shoulders and forearms that pulverized 66 opponents during his brilliant ring career. He putts with the fine touch of the concert violinist.

But he saw another pretty good putter in action in the Wednesday foursome that also included John Van Gonsic, Louis G. Bruhn and your correspondent. When Van Gonsic has the mallet under control, few golfers in the area can match him. He got particularly hot in the first round with a couple of 25 foot-plus birdies.

"John's a mean man with the blade," quipped Joe.

Louis' golf career parallels his boxing history, Joe revealed. He took up the game shortly after he started rising to fame as the Brown Bomber at the behest of the late Hype Igoe, one of the all-time boxing writer greats.

"If poor old Hype only knew all the trouble he was getting me into," the Bomber sighed. "I've received golf lessons from all the great professionals in the game . . . Snead . . . Hogan . . . Mangrum . . . Tommy Armour . . . and in some cases the very hard way. . . ."

"Even Bob Hope and Bing Crosby?" we asked, aware of the pleasant rivalry among the trio.

"Even Crosby," Louis admitted, "a real expensive one the last time at $5 Nassau. But I've had pretty good luck beating both Bing and Bob." Of the two, he considers the Old Crooner the superior player.

Naturally, we asked Joe about his biggest thrills.

"I guess you can say I had two," he explained. "First was winning the heavyweight championship. And then knocking out Max Schmeling in the first round of our second fight."

Louis hated the ex-Nazi who had made disparaging remarks about the young Brown Bomber after knocking him out in 13 rounds. Treated Joe with contempt.

A clean-cut gentleman today is Joe Louis. A nice guy to play golf with. But in his ring days—he was strictly murder.

Joe Black Scoffs at Soph Jinx But Batters Keep Steady Tattoo

New York, May 22 (AP)—Joe Black is worried. He is not anywhere near the pitcher he was last year. He knows it, too. But he doesn't know why. That's what worries him.

The big Negro righthander, whose brilliant relief hurling carried the Brooklyn Dodgers to a championship last year, has pitched poorly in all but three of his 10 appearances. He has made two starts and was belted out of the box in both.

Black was really tattooed last night, failing to finish the first inning as the Giants banged across five runs to overcome a 2-0 deficit and go on to defeat the Dodgers, 7-2, before the season's largest National League crowd—46,778 paid spectators.

A reporter approached Black as he languished on the Dodger bench before the game and asked him what was wrong this year.

"I wish I knew," muttered Joe. "I feel all right. I think I have the same stuff. I just can't seem to get anybody out. At first I thought I was striding too far. Then I thought I was throwing the ball across my body instead of coming straight down with it. Now, I just don't know.

Control Is Off

"I know my control has been off this year, but I don't know why. I've got no alibis. Some people say I haven't been pitched enough. That's not so. Dressen has used me plenty but I've not been coming through for him.

"That's what hurts me most. I'm letting him and the boys down I've come in several times with the score tied or the boys trailing by one run. All I had to do was hold them for a couple of innings and we'd have a chance to win. Instead I get slugged for four-five runs and we get no chance to catch up."

Black scoffed at a suggestion that he might have fallen victim to the sophomore jinx, a bugaboo that many other second year men have failed to avoid.

"No," he said. "It's not that. I've got only myself to blame. I've been pressing too much. I'm not relaxed enough. I felt differently last year. I never used to worry much about a ball game. I'd be thinking of my wife and kids while I was warming up. This year, when I'm out in the bullpen, I keep thinking how I will fare against the hitters. I just can't seem to relax."

KHS Netmen Trip Po'keepsie, 4-1

Kingston High School registered a 4-1 tennis victory over Poughkeepsie Tuesday at the Bridge City courts.

Dick Smith, Marty Kantrowitz and George Baechtle scored triumphs in the singles while Smith and Kantrowitz posted a win in the doubles competition.

Smith turned back Jim Lorricchio by 5-7, 6-1 and 6-2 while Kantrowitz took straight sets of 6-0, 6-0 over Marvin Whitman of Poughkeepsie. Baechtle defeated LeRoy Fine of Poughkeepsie by 3-6, 6-2 and 6-3.

Smith and Kantrowitz combined to trip Whitman and Morton Brond in the doubles by 6-2 and 6-2. Poughkeepsie's Pete Kazounis and Dick Fine scored 6-4 and 6-4 over Silk and Mandel of Kingston.

Beginning of the End

Philadelphia Athletics catcher Joe Astroth holds up one finger as he scores the first run against Red Sox pitcher Maury McDermott in the sixth inning of the May 21st game in Boston. The score came on the first Athletics' hit of the game when Joe De Maestri singled to center field and Astroth who had been walked scored from second. Red Sox catcher Sam White takes the throw from Tom Umphlett. The umpire is Bill Grieve and No. 12 is Athletics' Pete Suder. This was the beginning of the end for the Sox as the A's went on to win 9 to 0.

Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Giants are ready to start a petition demanding more room in the National League first division.

They think they belong there, just like the experts said before the season started. But it's a typical National League race with almost everybody trying to get in front. And it's so tight even a five game winning streak and nine successes in their last 12 starts isn't enough to get the Giants higher than fifth.

The Philadelphia Phillies are in front at the moment, but the margin is so small that on any cold day they ought to be able to feel the hot breath from the hungry pack all the way down to the Giants.

The Phils, thumped 7-2 by Pittsburgh last night, lead Milwaukee by half a game. St. Louis is a half game back of Milwaukee with Brooklyn's off-and-on Dodgers another half step behind the Cards.

That brings it down to fifth place and the Giants, who knocked off Brooklyn, 7-2, last night to creep within three games of the top.

Three games from first to fifth! Why over in the American League where the New York Yankees are threatening to make it a runaway, the margin is more than that from first to second.

Yanks Boost Lead

The Yankees stretched their lead to 3½ games over the idle Chicago White Sox last night by edging the Washington Senators, 6-5, on a three-run seventh inning rally. The Philadelphia Athletics, hitless for five innings, overpowered Boston, 9-0, in the only other American League game. The Cardinals made up deficits of three and six runs to defeat Cincinnati, 11-9, to round out the National League action.

The Giants who, if they keep winning, will go down in history as the pitchless wonders, slammed out five runs in the first inning against Brooklyn's Joe Black and Ben Wade on a pair of back-to-back triples, a single, double and Bobby Thomson's home run.

The season's largest National League crowd, 46,778 Polo Grounds customers, saw Brooklyn dispose of Giant ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed Pee Wee Reese's single with a home run and Jackie Robinson added a double. But Al Corwin, making his third relief appearance in four games, stopped the Dodgers until the fifth and Dave Koslo held the lead to the end.

Bucs Trip Phils

The roof fell in on Karl Drews in Pittsburgh in the sixth inning. The Philadelphia righthander was breezing along with a 2-0 lead when the Pirates suddenly found the range for seven singles and were aided by two walks and a pair of errors. Steve Ridzik relieved Drews in the middle of the barrage but it made no difference to the Pirates.

The Cardinals wore their hitting suits against Cincinnati and needed them. The Redlegs jumped away to a 6-0 lead. The Cards tied it at 6-6 only to find themselves trailing 9-6 after Cincinnati batted in the seventh. The Cards came back with four more in the seventh and frosted the cake with a single tally in the eighth.

The Yankees' victory, too, was a come from behind effort against the battling Senators. Down 5-3 after four innings, mainly because of the generosity of Whitey Ford and Ray Scarborough who gave up nine walks, the Yankees rallied for three runs in the seventh on a pair of singles, two doubles and a walk. Jim McDonald and Tom Gorman pitched hitless ball through the last 5 1/3 innings for the New Yorkers.

The Athletics' triumph over Boston may have been a costly one since they lost the services of Lefty Bobby Shantz for an indefinite period. Shantz, pitching shutout ball, strained a muscle in his arm with two out in the fourth and had to retire.

Mrs. I. Whitmore Scores Low Gross

Mrs. Ivan Whitmore won low gross honors in the weekly Ladies Day competition Wednesday at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

Other prize winners were Mrs. Haskell Naigles, low net; and Mrs. Robert Daley, low putts. Mrs. Daley was in charge of the day's program.

The Wiltwyck women will stage their annual Day of Golf on June 24. Invitations have been sent to eight area clubs.

Thursday's Results

Kingston 5, Port Jervis 2.

Newburgh 5, Middletown 0.

Coach Bill Burke and his Kingston High School varsity teammates have been waiting for a big explosion from Charlie "Chuck" Engle's bat.

Chuck is the left fielder and cleanup hitter, you know.

The script couldn't have been improved on Thursday at municipal stadium.

Pounds Two Big Ones

Engle's hitting has been adequate but to date he had failed to deliver the long ball in the clutch. Well, he connected twice yesterday, accounted for all five runs as Kingston turned back the rugged Port Jervis nine, 5-2, behind a stout pitching performance by Bruce Bechtold.

Bechtold shared honors with Engle, spinning a gaudy six hitter and striking out eight. He had to be that good because Barbarino was adamant except for two relapses against Engle.

First time Engle came to bat in the first inning Paul Gianuzzi and Ed Van Loan were on base as the result of a single and error. Big Chuck slashed a screaming liner up the alley in right center and outlegged the relay to the plate for a three-run homer. That sent the Maroon ahead 3-0 before Mr. Barbarino knew what hit him.

Two innings later, Ed Van Loan was on base when Chuck hammered another long shot to left field. Van Loan scored and Engle pulled up at third. A moment later he scored on a passed ball.

Telepas Relieves

Bechtold gave way to George Telepas when he began to tire in the seventh but the tri-staters failed to score. They picked up single markers in the fourth and fifth innings but by that time the Maroon was ahead 5-0. It was just as well for Barbarino, yielding only four hits, retired the last 10 men in order.

The Kingston triumph kept the DUSO race snarled in a three-team race, with the Maroon, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh deadlocked in the loss column with two setbacks apiece.

Hurls One-Hitter

Newburgh Academy got a one-hit pitching performance out of Bill Short to blank Middletown, 1-0. Redifer and Williams worked for the losers. Short, pitching one of the strong games of the season, allowed only three runners to reach first base.

Coach Sam Kalloch used his usual two-platoon of Bill Hauver and Ralph Nieri to edge Beacon and Tony Komisar, 5 to 3.

The big one next week is Kingston vs. Newburgh at municipal stadium on Thursday.

"Ezzard Charles is too vulnerable and Roland La Starza won't stand up under Rocky Marciano's punching."

That was former champion Joe Louis' quick evaluation of the heavyweight contenders' picture at the moment.

"Charles is the logical contender but La Starza will probably get the first crack at Rocky," the Brown Bomber said during his golf match Wednesday at the Twaalfskill Club.

"Maybe it's just as well," Joe went on. "Charles has held the title and gotten several cracks at it. Maybe it would be better for the game."

Louis believes Charles will look impressive against Marciano, but the inevitable right will catch up with him. For La Starza he holds out little hope. He recalled that when both were amateurs La Starza lost a disputed decision to the Brockton Buster. But today "I don't think La Starza can stand up under Rocky's punching.

"That guy (Marciano) can really hit you," Joe added ruefully. P.S.: Joe should know.

Quite naturally Louis was asked his reaction to the Marciano-Walcott fiasco.

"There's no question about it," said Louis, "Walcott was hit real hard . . . stunned by that right uppercut, but I couldn't see why he didn't grab the strand of rope early in the count and come up to a kneeling position."

Did he think Walcott would continue his boxing career.

"I don't think so," Joe opined, "I think we've seen the last of Jersey Joe.

Golf is Louis' main recreation these days. A natural scratch shooter, he revealed that theatrical duties have kept him off golf courses except for an occasional round this spring. He opens a 10-weeks vaudeville engagement in Chicago on May 29.

"Right now I'm shooting around 5-handicap golf," Joe admitted, "but I hope to get back in the scratch bracket soon."

The big fellow was sartorially resplendent for his first precedent-shattering appearance at Twaalfskill. He's now a solid 225-pounder (ex-245) who once commanded the most devastating pair of fists in the heavyweight division.

Big Joe is on a diet now. No sugar, no starches, no fats. "I ballooned up to 245 right after the Marciano fight," explained Joe, "but I've knocked off 20 pounds and expect to keep on my diet."

Louis wore a mustard color polo shirt, rich wine-colored slacks, a white seaman's cap and black shoes with front laps. He looks every inch the professional golfer.

Louis is all of that, featuring a finely-grooved swing and getting tremendous distance off the tees from those massive, muscular shoulders and forearms that pulverized 66 opponents during his brilliant ring career. He putts with the fine touch of the concert violinist.

But he saw another pretty good putter in action in the Wednesday foursome that also included John Van Gonsic, Louis G. Bruhn and your correspondent. When Van Gonsic has the mallet under control, few golfers in the area can match him. He got particularly hot in the first round with a couple of 25 foot-plus birdies.

"John's a mean man with the blade," quipped Joe.

Louis' golf career parallels his boxing history, Joe revealed. He took up the game shortly after he started rising to fame as the Brown Bomber at the behest of the late Hype Igoe, one of the all-time boxing writer greats.

"If poor old Hype only knew all the trouble he was getting me into," the Bomber sighed. "I've received golf lessons from all the great professionals in the game . . . Snead . . . Hogan . . . Mangrum . . . Tommy Armour . . . and in some cases the very hard way. . . ."

"Even Bob Hope and Bing Crosby?" we asked, aware of the pleasant rivalry among the trio.

"Even Crosby," Louis admitted, "a real expensive one the last time at $5 Nassau. But I've had pretty good luck beating both Bing and Bob." Of the two, he considers the Old Crooner the superior player.

Naturally, we asked Joe about his biggest thrills.

"I guess you can say I had two," he explained. "First was winning the heavyweight championship. And then knocking out Max Schmeling in the first round of our second fight."

Louis hated the ex-Nazi who had made disparaging remarks about the young Brown Bomber after knocking him out in 13 rounds. Treated Joe with contempt.

The rest of his boxing history. Louis admitted he never hated anybody in the boxing ring—except Schmeling. His one-round knockout of Der Schlager stands out as one of the most savage stints of demolition in ring history.

A clean-cut gentleman today is Joe Louis. A nice guy to play golf with. But in his ring days—he was strictly murder.

Joe Black Scoffs at Soph Jinx But Batters Keep Steady Tattoo

New York, May 22 (AP)—Joe Black is worried. He is not anywhere near the pitcher he was last year. He knows it, too. But he doesn't know why. That's what worries him.

The big Negro righthander, whose brilliant relief hurling carried the Brooklyn Dodgers to a championship last year, has pitched poorly in all but three of his 10 appearances. He has made two starts and was belted out of the box in both.

Black was really tattooed last night, failing to finish the first inning as the Giants banged across five runs to overcome a 2-0 deficit and go on to defeat the Dodgers, 7-2, before the season's largest National League crowd—46,778 paid spectators.

A reporter approached Black as he languished on the Dodger bench before the game and asked him what was wrong this year.

"I wish I knew," muttered Joe. "I feel all right. I think I have the same stuff. I just can't seem to get anybody out. At first I thought I was striding too far. Then I thought I was throwing the ball across my body instead of coming straight down with it. Now, I just don't know.

Control Is Off

"I know my control has been off this year, but I don't know why. I've got no alibis. Some people say I haven't been pitched enough. That's not so. Dressen has used me plenty but I've not been coming through for him.

"That's what hurts me most. I'm letting him and the boys down I've come in several times with the score tied or the boys trailing by one run. All I had to do was hold them for a couple of innings and we'd have a chance to win. Instead I get slugged for four-five runs and we get no chance to catch up."

Black scoffed at a suggestion that he might have fallen victim to the sophomore jinx, a bugaboo that many other second year men have failed to avoid.

"No," he said. "It's not that. I've got only myself to blame. I've been pressing too much. I'm not relaxed enough. I felt differently last year. I never used to worry much about a ball game. I'd be thinking of my wife and kids while I was warming up. This year, when I'm out in the bullpen, I keep thinking how I will fare against the hitters. I just can't seem to relax."

KHS Netmen Trip Po'keepsie, 4-1

Kingston High School registered a 4-1 tennis victory over Poughkeepsie Tuesday at the Bridge City courts.

Dick Smith, Marty Kantrowitz and George Baechtle scored triumphs in the singles while Smith and Kantrowitz posted a win in the doubles competition.

Smith turned back Jim Lorricchio by 5-7, 6-1 and 6-2 while Kantrowitz took straight sets of 6-0, 6-0 over Marvin Whitman of Poughkeepsie. Baechtle defeated LeRoy Fine of Poughkeepsie by 3-6, 6-2 and 6-3.

Smith and Kantrowitz combined to trip Whitman and Morton Brond in the doubles by 6-2 and 6-2. Poughkeepsie's Pete Kazounis and Dick Fine scored 6-4 and 6-4 over Silk and Mandel of Kingston.

Beginning of the End

Philadelphia Athletics catcher Joe Astroth holds up one finger as he scores the first run against Red Sox pitcher Maury McDermott in the sixth inning of the May 21st game in Boston. The score came on the first Athletics' hit of the game when Joe De Maestri singled to center field and Astroth who had been walked scored from second. Red Sox catcher Sam White takes the throw from Tom Umphlett. The umpire is Bill Grieve and No. 12 is Athletics' Pete Suder. This was the beginning of the end for the Sox as the A's went on to win 9 to 0.

The New York Giants are ready to start a petition demanding more room in the National League first division.

They think they belong there, just like the experts said before the season started. But it's a typical National League race with almost everybody trying to get in front. And it's so tight even a five game winning streak and nine successes in their last 12 starts isn't enough to get the Giants higher than fifth.

The Philadelphia Phillies are in front at the moment, but the margin is so small that on any cold day they ought to be able to feel the hot breath from the hungry pack all the way down to the Giants.

The Phils, thumped 7-2 by Pittsburgh last night, lead Milwaukee by half a game. St. Louis is a half game back of Milwaukee with Brooklyn's off-and-on Dodgers another half step behind the Cards.

That brings it down to fifth place and the Giants, who knocked off Brooklyn, 7-2, last night to creep within three games of the top.

Three games from first to fifth! Why over in the American League where the New York Yankees are threatening to make it a runaway, the margin is more than that from first to second.

Yanks Boost Lead

The Yankees stretched their lead to 3½ games over the idle Chicago White Sox last night by edging the Washington Senators, 6-5, on a three-run seventh inning rally. The Philadelphia Athletics, hitless for five innings, overpowered Boston, 9-0, in the only other American League game. The Cardinals made up deficits of three and six runs to defeat Cincinnati, 11-9, to round out the National League action.

The Giants who, if they keep winning, will go down in history as the pitchless wonders, slammed out five runs in the first inning against Brooklyn's Joe Black and Ben Wade on a pair of back-to-back triples, a single, double and Bobby Thomson's home run.

The season's largest National League crowd, 46,778 Polo Grounds customers, saw Brooklyn dispose of Giant ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed Pee Wee Reese's single with a home run and Jackie Robinson added a double. But Al Corwin, making his third relief appearance in four games, stopped the Dodgers until the fifth and Dave Koslo held the lead to the end.

Bucs Trip Phils

The roof fell in on Karl Drews in Pittsburgh in the sixth inning. The Philadelphia righthander was breezing along with a 2-0 lead when the Pirates suddenly found the range for seven singles and were aided by two walks and a pair of errors. Steve Ridzik relieved Drews in the middle of the barrage but it made no difference to the Pirates.

The Cardinals wore their hitting suits against Cincinnati and needed them. The Redlegs jumped away to a 6-0 lead. The Cards tied it at 6-6 only to find themselves trailing 9-6 after Cincinnati batted in the seventh. The Cards came back with four more in the seventh and frosted the cake with a single tally in the eighth.

The Yankees' victory, too, was a come from behind effort against the battling Senators. Down 5-3 after four innings, mainly because of the generosity of Whitey Ford and Ray Scarborough who gave up nine walks, the Yankees rallied for three runs in the seventh on a pair of singles, two doubles and a walk. Jim McDonald and Tom Gorman pitched hitless ball through the last 5 1/3 innings for the New Yorkers.

The Athletics' triumph over Boston may have been a costly one since they lost the services of Lefty Bobby Shantz for an indefinite period. Shantz, pitching shutout ball, strained a muscle in his arm with two out in the fourth and had to retire.

Esopus Uniforms

Players in the Town of Esopus Little League will receive their uniforms Saturday at 10 a. m., league director Bob Graves announced today. All players who have been selected in the draft are requested to report.

Mrs. I. Whitmore Scores Low Gross

Mrs. Ivan Whitmore won low gross honors in the weekly Ladies Day competition Wednesday at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

Other prize winners were Mrs. Haskell Naigles, low net; and Mrs. Robert Daley, low putts. Mrs. Daley was in charge of the day's program.

Jones Dairy Scalps Indians in Twi League's Official Opener

Hinkley Pitches 3-Hitter, 13 Ks In 9-1 Triumph

Merchants-Wiltwycks Scheduled Tuesday

The City Baseball League finally got an authentic opener into the official record books.

Jones Dairy, victim of the first forfeit of the season, welcomed the new franchise—Kingston Indians—into the twilight league family with a thumping 9 to 1 victory.

The Indians showed fresh and eager, with nine men on the field and a solid bench, but only in the first inning were they in the ball game. The contest was called at the end of six because of darkness.

Bruce "Red" Hinkley, the utility ace, overpowered the Indians with a sparkling 3-hitter embellished by 13 strikeouts for a new seasonal record. Actually, it is the first official recorded total of strikes.

The Dairymen stroked eight hits and were aided and comforted by 10 walks and four Indian miscues. They missed scoring at least one run only in the fourth inning. A three-run rally in the second sent them ahead 4-1 and they were never in trouble after that.

Loses Shutout

Hinkley walked only two and lost a shutout on an unearned marker in the first inning and had strikeouts for eight of the first nine putouts of the game.

John Berardi, Red Gorsline and Bob Graves stroked two safeties apiece. The lone extra base blow of the game was a triple by Gordon, the Indian shortstop. Gorsline's two safeties knocked in four runs.

The Indians used Peterson and Ronnie Brandt in their league debut. The former was lifted after yielding six runs in less than three innings.

Wiltwyck Motors and Colonial Merchants, forfeit winners, this week, are scheduled in next Tuesday's contest.

Martinez 2-1 Over Giovanelli

New York, May 22 (AP)—Danny Giovanelli, a Brooklyn kid with star dust in his eyes, gets his big break tonight in his first Madison Square Garden main go against flashy Vince Martinez, the slightly deflated "Rookie of the Year" in 1952.

Youth must be served, as Jersey Joe Walcott and the TV customers found out a week ago. This is a double serving. Giovanelli, 20, wasn't even born when Walcott had his first pro fight in 1930. Martienz, 24, was a year old.

Subways Blast Sicklers 21-2 in Softball League

Port Ewen, Reid's Also Notch Wins

The old champions kicked up their heels with the biggest scoring harvest of the infant City Softball League season Wednesday.

Subway Grill lambasted George Hooker for 28 hits, including homers by Tommy Maines and Fred Orr, to crush Sickler's Delivery, 21 to 2.

In other jousts, Port Ewen's new combine made its debut with a 9 to 4 victory over Reid's Hotel and Lincoln Park Inn outclassed the VFW, 14 to 10.

A 9-run blast in the second inning sent Subways ahead 13-0 and turned the game into a rout. They scored in six straight frames before being shut out in the seventh. Meanwhile, veteran Walt Bigler was restricting the Deliverymen to seven hits.

In the general fattening of batting averages, Fred Orr slammed three singles and a homer. Tom Maines, Tom Spada and Vince Peck each had four safeties. Maines clouted a single, double, triple and homer.

Ferguson Wins

Bill Ferguson twirled a six-hitter for Port Ewen against Reid's and was backed by steady hitting against Osterhoudt and Lowe. Ferguson pitched shutout ball after falling behind 4-2 in the second.

Bob Graves led the hitters with three singles.

Lincoln Park streaked ahead of VFW, 10-1 in the first two innings and then held off a late surge. The winners pounded 19 hits, including a single, two doubles and a homer by Ken Hornbeck.

Joe Ruzzo, Bud Leininger and Jack Hickey each had three hits for the Lincolns. Crespino rapped a homer and two singles and Ashdown had four singles for the losers.

Bolt Takes Lead In Colonial Golf

Fort, Worth, Tex., May 22 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, a heavy money-winner already, held a long lead on a $5,000 jackpot today as he set out at the head of the field in the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The terrible tempered Mr. Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., was the only player able to master par in the opening round yesterday as he shot a 34-33—67 over the rugged 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course.

His three-under-par effort put him four strokes ahead of his nearest pursuers—Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Lloyd Mangrum. Each had one-over-par 71.

Ben Hogan, the mechanical man from Palm Springs, Calif., wound up with a 73 and a tie for ninth place.

Drew Nine Trips NP State With Late Rally, 6-4

Drew University scored three times in the eighth inning to defeat New Paltz State Teachers, 6-4, yesterday to avenge an early season setback.

Blomberg, Drew hurler, yielded three runs in the first inning but was in control of the game after that. He contributed a homer to the Drew attack.

Don Lyons of Kingston and Manny Siegel, relief pitcher, each had two hits for the losers. Dick King, the Orange flinger, pitched effectively until the eighth when Drew erupted for three.

NP plays its annual game against the Alumni nine Saturday.

Chuck Volo First In Yonkers Race

Yonkers, May 22 (AP)—Chuck Volo crowned his comeback campaign last night by scoring a one-length victory in the $12,200 U. S. Harness Writers Trophy pace at Yonkers Raceway.

Owned by S. A. Wathen, of Ft. Fairfield, Maine, and driven by his son, Wendell Chuck Volo took the lead at the three-quarters and came across the wire in 2.03.2, fastest time of the year.

My horse was a fast-closing second with Highland Ellen third in the field of eleven. Solicitor, making his first start of the year, broke stride at the start and finished last. The winner returned $15.80 for $2.

Chuch Volo was one of the top three-year-olds in 1951, but went lame that fall. The pacer returned to racing on May 2 at Yonkers and won on May 9. Tonight's victory was worth $6,100.

County Linksmen Set for National Golf Day May 23

More than 100,000 duffers are expected to try their luck against U. S. Open champion, Julius Boros, on a handicap basis. Boros will shoot his round at Oakmont Country Club, near Pittsburgh. A series of instruction articles by Boros appears daily in The Freeman.

More than $80,000 in entry fees was collected in the 1952 tournament featuring Ben Hogan. All players who defeat Boros on a handicap basis will receive a medal inscribed "I Beat Julius Boros."

The entry fees paid by players go to the United Service Organizations and the other half to the National Golf Fund.

Raichle, Dwyer Specialty Aces At Twaalfskill

Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, Ulster county amateur golf champion, and veteran James A. "Jim" Dwyer won the putting and approaching contests in the Men's Day competition Thursday at Twaalfskill Golf Club.

Raichle toured the 18 holes of the new putting green in 34 strokes. Yesterday's contest marked the official opening of the green.

Dwyer pitched to within 5 feet 8 inches of the pin in the approaching contest.

In the women's division, Mrs. Edward Minasian won the approaching contest with a pitch 12 feet from the pin. Mrs. Robert Russell was down in 39 putts to cop the putting tournament.

Berardi Second

James Berardi surprised the "pros" by finishing second with 35 strokes in the putting contest. Jack McCabe needed 36, while Ernest Schirmer, Dr. Rodney Ball, Alvin Boice and George Schneider carded 37s.

Schneider was second in pitching, 7 feet 6 inches from the pin. Jack McCabe took third place with an 8 foot 7 inch effort.

Mrs. George Schneider had 40 putts for second place among the women; Mrs. Robert Umpleby 41 and Mrs. Minasian, 42.

High School Squad Routs Middies in Golf, 12-0

Van Aken, Marks Shoot Good Scores

The DUSO Golf League is in quite a snarl. Nobody knows who's leading and who'll win the pennant but, just to stay on the safe side, Coach John Gilligan's swingers scored a surprise 12-0 victory over Middletown, yesterday at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

The triumph wasn't the surprise, but the margin was slightly unexpected.

Two brilliant efforts by Harold Van Aken and Ronnie Marks toppled the Middie aces, Mickey Dineen and Tony Constantino. Van Aken spliced 38 and 40 for a 78, while Marks shot 42-37-79. Dineen posted 83 and Constantino had 88.

Also noteworthy was Scott Comstock's first win of the season with a 43-45-88 against Jack Degnan's 56-50-106.

How to Play Par Golf

Combination Palm and Finger

By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. Open Champion

There are basically two general classifications of grips, the interlocking and overlapping.

Each may have one or more variations.

Looking down on the left hand, you should be able to see the first two knuckles of the hand. Also, the V formed between the left forefinger and thumb should be pointing over your right shoulder. Those are your two check points for the left hand.

Your thumb should be extended down the shaft slightly on the inside. This should leave the pressure on the last three fingers. The club should be held firmly but not tensely.

The right hand performs almost completely as a finger grip.

The right hand should be placed on the shaft immediately below the left hand, as close as possible, so the two perform as a unit. The more closely together the two hands perform, the better grip.

Join the two hands even more closely as a unit by interlocking the little finger of the right hand with the forefinger of the left. Since the left thumb has been extended down the shaft, it will fit snugly into the heel of the right hand when the grip is completed.

With the thumb of the right hand wrapped around the shaft, this will leave most of the pressure of the right hand exerted by the thumb and first two fingers. Here is where you gain a great deal of control. No knuckles should be visible on the right hand when you check your grip, but the V of your right thumb and forefinger should be pointing over your right shoulder.

LOCK—Join the hands as a single unit by interlocking the little finger of the right with forefinger of the left. (NEA)

Hinkley Pitches 3-Hitter, 13 Ks In 9-1 Triumph

The City Baseball League finally got an authentic opener into the official record books.

Jones Dairy, victim of the first forfeit of the season, welcomed the new franchise—Kingston Indians—into the twilight league family with a thumping 9 to 1 victory.

The Indians showed fresh and eager, with nine men on the field and a solid bench, but only in the first inning were they in the ball game. The contest was called at the end of six because of darkness.

Bruce "Red" Hinkley, the utility ace, overpowered the Indians with a sparkling 3-hitter embellished by 13 strikeouts for a new seasonal record. Actually, it is the first official recorded total of strikes.

The Dairymen stroked eight hits and were aided and comforted by 10 walks and four Indian miscues. They missed scoring at least one run only in the fourth inning. A three-run rally in the second sent them ahead 4-1 and they were never in trouble after that.

Loses Shutout

Hinkley walked only two and lost a shutout on an unearned marker in the first inning and had strikeouts for eight of the first nine putouts of the game.

John Berardi, Red Gorsline and Bob Graves stroked two safeties apiece. The lone extra base blow of the game was a triple by Gordon, the Indian shortstop. Gorsline's two safeties knocked in four runs.

The Indians used Peterson and Ronnie Brandt in their league debut. The former was lifted after yielding six runs in less than three innings.

Emerson, the Indian catcher, had two of the three hits off Hinkley.

Wiltwyck Motors and Colonial Merchants, forfeit winners this week, are scheduled in next Tuesday's contest.

Martinez 2-1 Over Giovanelli

New York, May 22 (AP)—Danny Giovanelli, a Brooklyn kid with star dust in his eyes, gets his big break tonight in his first Madison Square Garden main go against flashy Vince Martinez, the slightly deflated "Rookie of the Year" in 1952.

Youth must be served, as Jersey Joe Walcott and the TV customers found out a week ago. This is a double serving. Giovanelli, 20, wasn't even born when Walcott had his first pro fight in 1930. Martienz, 24, was a year old.

Subways Blast Sicklers 21-2 in Softball League

Port Ewen, Reid's Also Notch Wins

The old champions kicked up their heels with the biggest scoring harvest of the infant City Softball League season Wednesday.

Subway Grill lambasted George Hooker for 28 hits, including homers by Tommy Maines and Fred Orr, to crush Sickler's Delivery, 21 to 2.

In other jousts, Port Ewen's new combine made its debut with a 9 to 4 victory over Reid's Hotel and Lincoln Park Inn outclassed the VFW, 14 to 10.

A 9-run blast in the second inning sent Subways ahead 13-0 and turned the game into a rout. They scored in six straight frames before being shut out in the seventh. Meanwhile, veteran Walt Bigler was restricting the Deliverymen to seven hits.

In the general fattening of batting averages, Fred Orr slammed three singles and a homer. Tom Maines, Tom Spada and Vince Peck each had four safeties. Maines clouted a single, double, triple and homer.

Ferguson Wins

Bill Ferguson twirled a six-hitter for Port Ewen against Reid's and was backed by steady hitting against Osterhoudt and Lowe. Ferguson pitched shutout ball after falling behind 4-2 in the second.

Bob Graves led the hitters with three singles.

Lincoln Park streaked ahead of VFW, 10-1 in the first two innings and then held off a late surge. The winners pounded 19 hits, including a single, two doubles and a homer by Ken Hornbeck.

Joe Ruzzo, Bud Leininger and Jack Hickey each had three hits for the Lincolns. Crespino rapped a homer and two singles and Ashdown had four singles for the losers.

Bolt Takes Lead In Colonial Golf

Fort, Worth, Tex., May 22 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, a heavy money-winner already, held a long lead on a $5,000 jackpot today as he set out at the head of the field in the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The terrible tempered Mr. Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., was the only player able to master par in the opening round yesterday as he shot a 34-33—67 over the rugged 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course.

His three-under-par effort put him four strokes ahead of his nearest pursuers—Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Lloyd Mangrum. Each had one-over-par 71.

Ben Hogan, the mechanical man from Palm Springs, Calif., wound up with a 73 and a tie for ninth place.

Drew Nine Trips NP State With Late Rally, 6-4

Drew University scored three times in the eighth inning to defeat New Paltz State Teachers, 6-4, yesterday to avenge an early season setback.

Blomberg, Drew hurler, yielded three runs in the first inning but was in control of the game after that. He contributed a homer to the Drew attack.

Don Lyons of Kingston and Manny Siegel, relief pitcher, each had two hits for the losers. Dick King, the Orange flinger, pitched effectively until the eighth when Drew erupted for three.

NP plays its annual game against the Alumni nine Saturday.

Chuck Volo First In Yonkers Race

Owned by S. A. Wathen, of Ft. Fairfield, Maine, and driven by his son, Wendell Chuck Volo took the lead at the three-quarters and came across the wire in 2.03.2, fastest time of the year.

My horse was a fast-closing second with Highland Ellen third in the field of eleven. Solicitor, making his first start of the year, broke stride at the start and finished last. The winner returned $15.80 for $2.

Chuch Volo was one of the top three-year-olds in 1951, but went lame that fall. The pacer returned to racing on May 2 at Yonkers and won on May 9. Tonight's victory was worth $6,100.

County Linksmen Set for National Golf Day May 23

Ulster county golf clubs in conjunction with clubs across the nation will compete Saturday in the 2nd National Golf Day tournament.

More than 100,000 duffers are expected to try their luck against U. S. Open champion, Julius Boros, on a handicap basis. Boros will shoot his round at Oakmont Country Club, near Pittsburgh. A series of instruction articles by Boros appears daily in The Freeman.

More than $80,000 in entry fees was collected in the 1952 tournament featuring Ben Hogan. All players who defeat Boros on a handicap basis will receive a medal inscribed "I Beat Julius Boros."

The entry fees paid by players go to the United Service Organizations and the other half to the National Golf Fund.

Raichle, Dwyer Specialty Aces At Twaalfskill

Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, Ulster county amateur golf champion, and veteran James A. "Jim" Dwyer won the putting and approaching contests in the Men's Day competition Thursday at Twaalfskill Golf Club.

Raichle toured the 18 holes of the new putting green in 34 strokes. Yesterday's contest marked the official opening of the green.

Dwyer pitched to within 5 feet 8 inches of the pin in the approaching contest.

In the women's division, Mrs. Edward Minasian won the approaching contest with a pitch 12 feet from the pin. Mrs. Robert Russell was down in 39 putts to cop the putting tournament.

Berardi Second

James Berardi surprised the "pros" by finishing second with 35 strokes in the putting contest. Jack McCabe needed 36, while Ernest Schirmer, Dr. Rodney Ball, Alvin Boice and George Schneider carded 37s.

Schneider was second in pitching, 7 feet 6 inches from the pin. Jack McCabe took third place with an 8 foot 7 inch effort.

Mrs. George Schneider had 40 putts for second place among the women; Mrs. Robert Umpleby 41 and Mrs. Minasian, 42.

High School Squad Routs Middies in Golf, 12-0

Van Aken, Marks Shoot Good Scores

The DUSO Golf League is in quite a snarl. Nobody knows who's leading and who'll win the pennant but, just to stay on the safe side, Coach John Gilligan's swingers scored a surprise 12-0 victory over Middletown, yesterday at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

The triumph wasn't the surprise, but the margin was slightly unexpected.

Two brilliant efforts by Harold Van Aken and Ronnie Marks toppled the Middie aces, Mickey Dineen and Tony Constantino. Van Aken spliced 38 and 40 for a 78, while Marks shot 42-37-79. Dineen posted 83 and Constantino had 88.

Also noteworthy was Scott Comstock's first win of the season with a 43-45-88 against Jack Degnan's 56-50-106.

The scores:

By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. Open Champion

There are basically two general classifications of grips, the interlocking and overlapping.

Each may have one or more variations.

The interlocking, which I will discuss in this lesson, has become my personal choice. This is a combination palm and finger grip. The left hand is placed firmly on the shaft with the shaft running diagonally across the hand, and extending from the left forefinger across the butt of the hand.

Looking down on the left hand, you should be able to see the first two knuckles of the hand. Also, the V formed between the left forefinger and thumb should be pointing over your right shoulder. Those are your two check points for the left hand.

Your thumb should be extended down the shaft slightly on the inside. This should leave the pressure on the last three fingers. The club should be held firmly but not tensely.

The right hand performs almost completely as a finger grip.

The right hand should be placed on the shaft immediately below the left hand, as close as possible, so the two perform as a unit. The more closely together the two hands perform, the better grip.

Join the two hands even more closely as a unit by interlocking the little finger of the right hand with the forefinger of the left. Since the left thumb has been extended down the shaft, it will fit snugly into the heel of the right hand when the grip is completed.

With the thumb of the right hand wrapped around the shaft, this will leave most of the pressure of the right hand exerted by the thumb and first two fingers. Here is where you gain a great deal of control. No knuckles should be visible on the right hand when you check your grip, but the V of your right thumb and forefinger should be pointing over your right shoulder.

LOCK—Join the hands as a single unit by interlocking the little finger of the right with forefinger of the left. (NEA)

Car Leaves Wilbur Avenue Curve

George J. Senor, 33, of Rifton, suffered injuries of the left eye, chest and shoulders, when his sedan, headed south on Wilbur avenue near West O'Reilly street, went through a guard rail and down a bank last night. A police report at 6:32 p. m., said Senor claimed he had made about half of an S-turn and was making the last half when a car, headed north, forced him to the right. He was taken by ambulance to Kingston Hospital where his condition was reported as "fairly good" this morning. (Freeman photo)

Magsaysay Deeds Combatting Reds Heard by Kiwanis

Attorney Abram F. Molyneaux told members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club of his acquaintance with Ramon Magsaysay, present candidate for the presidency of the Philippines.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the service club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday, Molyneaux reviewed the accomplishments of Magsaysay in combatting communism in the islands. Molyneaux was introduced by Lawrence A. Quilty, who pointed out that Molyneaux served in the counter-intelligence service in the Philippines during World War 2.

It was announced at the meeting that the Kiwanis Club will be hosts to the Key Club at an outing at Twilight Park near Haines Falls Thursday, May 28. Cars will leave Kingston about 3:30 p. m.

Car Leaves Wilbur Avenue Curve

George J. Senor, 33, of Rifton, suffered injuries of the left eye, chest and shoulders, when his sedan, headed south on Wilbur avenue near West O'Reilly street, went through a guard rail and down a bank last night. A police report at 6:32 p. m., said Senor claimed he had made about half of an S-turn and was making the last half when a car, headed north, forced him to the right. He was taken by ambulance to Kingston Hospital where his condition was reported as "fairly good" this morning. (Freeman photo)

Magsaysay Deeds Combatting Reds Heard by Kiwanis

Attorney Abram F. Molyneaux told members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club of his acquaintance with Ramon Magsaysay, present candidate for the presidency of the Philippines.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the service club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday, Molyneaux reviewed the accomplishments of Magsaysay in combatting communism in the islands. Molyneaux was introduced by Lawrence A. Quilty, who pointed out that Molyneaux served in the counter-intelligence service in the Philippines during World War 2.

It was announced at the meeting that the Kiwanis Club will be hosts to the Key Club at an outing at Twilight Park near Haines Falls Thursday, May 28. Cars will leave Kingston about 3:30 p. m.

Petroleum as it comes from the ground varies in color from black to water-clear.

Amnesty Is Extended

Berlin, May 22 (AP)—A West German anti-Communist organization said today Moscow has extended its amnesty for short term prisoners to the Soviet zone of Germany. The Fighting Group Against Inhumanity reported 17 East Germans serving up to five years have been released from prison in Thuringia. The organization said the amnesty was part of the general order which stemmed from the Kremlin after the death of Stalin and might affect other east zone prisoners. Some of the 17 have reached West Berlin.

Rail Strike Threatened

New York, May 22 (AP)—A strike against the Long Island Railroad has been threatened by the AFL Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, which represents 500 of the employes. William Wyer, Federal Court trustee of the bankrupt railroad, said yesterday the union had threatened to strike unless a plan to change the type of commutation ticket was abandoned. Charles W. Wysong, general chairman of the union, conceded later that a walkout had been threatened, but added that no immediate date had been set.

Three Appointed

tained 17 names. One has been taken from the list, and after yesterday's appointments only 13 are left. The list is headed by John W. Frasch, of 7 Charlotte Place, whose rating is 95. Harbeck, Loeffler and Millham each had 92.

Chief Van Buren reported 21 persons injured in 14 local traffic mishaps during April. Of these two were pedestrians, seven were hurt in the collision of two or more vehicles, one was the victim of a bicycle mishap, one involved a collision with a fixed object, and three were hurt when vehicles left roadways.

The chief reported 71 arrests, of which 34 were for public intoxication, seven for violations of the vehicle and traffic law, six for third degree assault, five for violations of the city traffic code, five for disorderly conduct, two for book-making, two for grand larceny, first degree, two for forgery, two on other gambling charges, and one for driving while intoxicated.
